Canada to Seek More Frenchmen

Marchand Gives Policy Outline

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Marchand announced plans today to boost immigration to Canada from France.

The minister told a press conference his department has no specific target or detailed scheme yet worked out but one idea that's being given priority is a survey of Canadians—particularly in "French Canada"—to find out why many French immigrants "don't feel at home in Canada."

He said Canada gained about 5,000 immigrants from France in 1965—only half of them French nationals—and immigration from France this year is running 50 per cent ahead of where it was at this point last year.

Canada needed a "better balance in immigration as far as languages are concerned."

VISITED FRANCE

The minister made a four-day visit to France last week. He questioned officials during his visit on the reasons for the low immigration from France. There was a suggestion that Frenchmen were probably more reluctant than other nationals to leave home.

He was also unsure that French immigrants, as well as other immigrants, were as well received by French Canadians as by other Canadians. This was the reason for the survey.

Despite the upsurge in French immigration — immigrants from Belgium, many of them French-speaking, are running 100 per cent ahead of last year—Canada's need for skilled French-language immigrants remained high.

France appeared to have a surplus of technicians, and professional groups there told him many engineers were unemployed.

Mr. Marchand stressed that his department didn't want "a policy that will follow linguistic lines." In the case of France, Canada had not drawn a proportionate flow of immigrants compared with the 40,000 or so that come from the United Kingdom annually.

MINISTER DENIES 'SLUR'

Cong 'Deliberately Avoiding Australians'

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell said Tuesday the Viet Cong does not want to fight Australian soldiers in Viet Nam and deliberately avoids them.

His statement was denied today by Defence Minister Allen Fairhall. He accused the Labor party leader of casting a slur on the competence of "three fine battalions whose courage, skill and fighting spirit have kept the Viet Cong on the move."

Calwell, who opposes Australian backing of the United States in Viet Nam, told Labor unionists that the Viet Cong has avoided dozens of opportunities of destroying the Australian 1st Battalion with their superior numbers.

In one major battle, the Viet Cong avoided the Australians and concentrated on the Americans, he said.

Calwell did not say why the Viet Cong avoided encounters with Australians but observers said he was suggesting that the Viet Cong felt the Australians did not want to fight them.

Fairhall retorted today: "If Mr. Calwell knew anything about guerrilla tactics he would understand that the Viet Cong avoid open conflict wherever possible, and not only with the Australians."

NEAR BORDER

Troops Braced For Big Fight

SAIGON (AP)—Helicopters ferried heavy United States troop reinforcements into South Viet Nam's central plateau near Cambodia today as three days of fighting against North Vietnamese forces appeared building up into a major battle.

B-52s rained bombs on suspected enemy troops positions and a base camp just one mile from the Cambodian frontier as the reinforcements swelled the American force to 10,000 or more men.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. planes pounded the Haiphong oil depot Tuesday for the third time. North Viet Nam said the Americans also bombed residential areas in the port city and hit a steel plant north of Hanoi Monday.

The reinforcements joined infantrymen who since Monday have fought a series of short, sharp engagements with the North Vietnamese.

CONFIRM STRIKE

Washington first confirmed hitting the oil depot after North Viet Nam charged that U.S. planes made an indiscriminate raid on Haiphong, "bombing residential quarters and factories."

The North Vietnamese said they had demanded an investigation by the International Control Commission, made up of Canada, India and Poland.

Hanoi radio said that six American planes were shot down, although U.S. authorities said none were lost.

Asian Meet Proposed

BANGKOK (Reuters)— Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand called today for a new Viet Nam peace conference "this time not in Geneva, but somewhere in Asia, where all the principals in the war in Viet Nam will be invited to thrash out the existing difficulties."

Village Attacked?

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two American F-105 jet aircraft attacked a Cambodian border village while the Indo-China International Control Commission representatives watched from a short distance away, the official Cambodian news agency charged today.

American military and civilian government spokesmen in Saigon today said they were unaware of any U.S. air attack on a Cambodian border village.

AGREEMENT REACHED IN HOSPITAL STRIKE

MONTREAL (CP)—Agreement was reached early today in Quebec's hospital strike between hospital administrator Yves Pratte and union representatives, a spokesman for the National Federation of Services said.

The spokesman said the 32,500 striking non-medical workers will be asked to vote today on a new work contract. The union said it will recommend that the hospital workers accept the agreement.

If two-thirds of the union members approve the contract, work will resume in Quebec's 119 strike-hit hospitals, the spokesman said.

BOY, 14 SLAYING SUSPECT

A 14-year-old boy was to appear in Nanaimo juvenile court this afternoon in connection with the bludgeon slaying last week of Mrs. Elina Harman, 82, of nearby Chase River.

The boy, who lives in Chase River, was brought to the RCMP by his father late Tuesday night at police request.

Police said it was a "matter of elimination" that led to the youth's arrest although a palm print was found on the door of the home of the elderly recluse.

The Nanaimo prosecutor and RCMP were to decide this morning which charge would be laid against the boy.

Mrs. Hartman's body was found Saturday afternoon by a neighbor in the kitchen of her 13th Street home.

A total of $7,240 in cash which was in a plastic bag tied around her neck was untouched.

KILLER PANICKED

Police said robbery was definitely the motive for the attack, but the killer panicked and ran after beating the old woman with a piece of firewood.

The murder weapon was discovered Tuesday by an RCMP tracking dog. It was hidden under a rock across the street from Mrs. Hartman's home.

In other parts of the house police found 10 $20 U.S. gold coins, three $10 U.S. gold coins and three uncashed pension cheques. A $100 savings bond and $2 and $1 bills were also found.

Mrs. Hartman had lived in the home for the past 30 years. She came from the United States after leaving Finland.

Lecturers Released

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Rhodesian authorities released today six of eight detained lecturers of the multi-racial University College here. They left immediately for neighboring Zambia.

First to fly out was Canadian lecturer Gerald Caplan, 28, of Toronto. He was met in Lusaka by an official of the British high commission.

Later British lecturer Christopher Hill, 33, also flew to Lusaka, while four others were escorted to Zambia by car.

Air Pullout Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will pull out its six air force reconnaissance squadrons now based in France beginning this month, the defence department said today.

Door Remains Open For Medicare Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today it is up to the provinces to decide whether they want federal money for medical care insurance plans.

"If the provinces don't want to participate, that is entirely up to the provinces," he told a press conference in the wake of criticism of the federal medicare offer at a Toronto conference of provincial premiers.

However, he said if the provinces want further discussion with Ottawa on the federal offer they can raise the medicare issue in the fall. If a health ministers' conference was requested, the federal government would consider the request.

Mr. Pearson said details of the federal proposals, including the conditions attached to federal payments to provincial medical care programs, have been well known to the provinces for a long time.

OTTAWA PAYS HALF

The federal legislation was introduced before Parliament adjourned for a summer recess. It provides for Ottawa to pay half the per capita costs of provincial plans which meet certain conditions.

At the premiers' conference this week, Quebec and Ontario took the stand that they should have the federal money without strings attached. Alberta reaffirmed initial objections to features of the federal offer which,

PM SURPRISED AT LEAK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today provincial premiers disclosed confidential information this week in making public details of federal proposals on tax equalization.

He said he was "very surprised indeed to see so much publicity" given to matters still in the negotiation stage.

It was not easy to carry on negotiations amid premature publicity.

Bennett May Attend Conference

Premier Bennett today said B.C. will send a representative to a proposed federal-provincial medicare conference this fall although it is not worried about its medical plan.

Interviewed by telephone in Kelowna, Mr. Bennett said he might attend the conference himself if it is held conveniently close to a series of annual federal-provincial fiscal meetings he will be at in Ottawa during October.

The premier made no comment on the criticism of the federal plan for a national medicare scheme that was voiced earlier this week by other provincial premiers, leading to the decision to hold a conference.

He did say, however, that "they certainly have conferencitis in Ottawa.

WE'LL CO-OPERATE

"However, B.C. is a great province for co-operative federalism and we will co-operate as we've said right along we would on medicare.

"Certainly we would like to have some of the money back that Ottawa takes in taxes from B.C. but we think that we have the best medical care plan in Canada."

Mr. Bennett reiterated his claim that 90 per cent of the province's population is covered by a variety of non-profit medical insurance plans with the government's own subsidized open-to-all-comers medicare scheme taking care of those who can't qualify or afford the regular plans.

"We're not nervous about the situation at all but we will send someone to represent the province at the conference," he added.

Government Trying To Halt Work Stoppage

Top labor department officials gathered in Vancouver today, storm centre of a contractors-carpenters dispute which threatens to shut down $1.5 billion worth of construction in B.C.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was reported driving to Vancouver from Kelowna where he participated in the Social Credit Party's 14th anniversary of election to power.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands had already left the Legislative Buildings office here and gone to the Vancouver office, where he was reported incommunicado.

Government officials have less than 24 hours to head off the first effects of an industry-wide lockout which technically began at quitting time today.

151 COMPANIES

A total of 151 companies have served expired lockout notice and another 178 contractors were posting lockout notice running out Thursday and Friday.

An industry spokesman said by the weekend there will be a "total shutdown of the construction industry" except the huge Peace and Columbia projects where no lockout-no strike agreements are in effect.

Lockout notice was served, he said, because carpenters struck several projects Monday.

Last week, the Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee warned that a strike against even one member would result in a lockout by all.

3,000 AFFECTED

About 3,000 carpenters will be affected Thursday by the lockout of 151 companies. If the lockout becomes complete, doors will be closed to just over 5,000 men.

Key issue in the contract crisis is the insistence by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters for a shorter work week.

The union and 85 independent contractors have already signed new two-year agreements providing a 37½-hour work week by October, 1967.

Major contractors, however,

WIRE BRIEFS

Arbitration Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rejected a last-resort compulsory arbitration plan today and struggled for a way for Congress and the president to share responsibility for ordering an end to the 27-day-old airlines strike.

Ironsi Executed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow radio said today former Nigerian leader Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi has been executed by soldiers near Ibadan.

Japanese Rocket

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese scientists today successfully launched Japan's first television-equipped rocket. The Tokyo University space and aeronautics institute said the 1.4 ton rocket carried a 22-pound TV camera to an altitude of about 200 miles.

Criminal Negligence

HULL, Que. (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday found a 15-year-old boy criminally negligent in the beating death of 18-month-old Cathy Dunnigan of nearby Lucerne. The boy, now undergoing psychiatric examination in a Montreal hospital, has been charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Union Seeks to End Wildcat Rail Walkout

TORONTO (CP)—Railway express and freight services between here and Montreal were affected today by the strike of an estimated 1,000 workers in Toronto and 1,800 in Montreal.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman said about 700 employees of Canadian Pacific Express Co., its subsidiary, walked off the job today and overnight.

He said about 600 walked off in Montreal.

A Canadian National Railways spokesman said some 300 of its employees were out in Toronto and 1,200 in Montreal.

The strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (CLC), said they were "fed up" waiting for a conciliation board report on their 97-cents-an-hour wage increase demands in a new contract. The old contract expired in December.

The brotherhood has dissociated itself from the strike. A union spokesman here said he had no idea how many men were on strike.

Union officers are trying to persuade the men involved to return to their jobs until legal strike action can be taken by railway unions later this month.

CLIMBERS PLAY BRIDGE ON SUMMIT

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)— A 10-man American team has completed the first successful climb of the west ridge of Mount Logan, Canada's highest peak at 19,850 feet, it was reported here Tuesday.

Mount Logan, 190 miles west of Whitehorse and 260 miles northwest of Juneau in the extreme southwest corner of the Yukon Territory, had been climbed 10 times before the successful west ridge assault July 17, but always by other routes.

One of the first acts of the west ridge team when the climb had been completed was to sit down on the summit and play a hand of bridge.

The 10 men, led by Boyd Everett, a New York security analyst and well-known mountaineer, were the largest group ever to reach the summit.

WINNERS NAMED FOR FIFTH WEEK

Only Three Days Left in Contest

One more chance!

There are only a few days left to enter the Times Photo Contest for a chance at a trip around the world, or to Mexico, Hawaii or the West Indies, and $50,000 in other prizes.

Winners of the fifth weekly contest are:

Animals of the World — 1. Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, 2949 Glen Lake Rd.; honorable mention, W. A. Coombs, 2426 Evelyn Place, and E. R. Pedersen, 2641 East 46th Ave., Vancouver.

The World in Which We Live — 1. D. W. Coton, 3922 Holland Ave.; honorable mention, Maurice Bombezin, 1310 Prillaman Ave., and Mrs. James Barr, 965 Trans Canada Highway.

In each category the first place winner gets a chance at a $25 grand prize when the contest closes.

NATIONAL CONTEST

Winners of this will go on to be entered in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest when prizes will be fabulous cash and travel awards.

What makes a winning picture? Photographers whose snapshots have been chosen for first place or honorable mention know what goes to make up a good photo.

If you take a look at the first and second place photos printed daily in The Times, you'll get some idea of what it is the judges are looking for.

Here are a few other rules to go by:

A picture should have impact, good technical quality and show good composition.

The subject matter should be of universal appeal, and the photo should tell a story or convey a mood.

Keep the snap simple. Don't let your background distract from the main object.

The photo should be sharp and in focus, and you should take care to use the proper film and correct exposure for the conditions.

All photos should have your name and address printed on the back, and should be sent to the Photo Contest Editor, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

The contest closes at noon Saturday.

Soviet Admits Failure In China Friendship Bid

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Kosygin today accused China of doing "great service to American imperialism by attacking the Soviet leadership."

Kosygin said Kremlin efforts in recent months to improve relations with the Soviet Union's giant Asian neighbor have proved fruitless.

Kosygin said the Chinese leaders and the Chinese press recently began even more violent attacks on the Soviet Union.

In these attacks China completely distorted the truth about the Soviet Union and its foreign policy, he added.

He said recent Chinese propaganda was turned more on the Kremlin than on imperialism, "thus doing a great service to American imperialism."

Kosygin said Russia would continue to try to improve relations with China.

An improvement in relations also would be in the interests of the Chinese people, he said.

Turning to Viet Nam, Kosygin assured the North Vietnamese of the Soviet Union's constant and unwavering support for "the repulsion of American aggression."

"The Soviet Union will do all in its power to help the Vietnamese people to drive the Americans off Vietnamese soil as soon as possible," he said.

Kosygin declared that Soviet-American relations were completely overshadowed by "aggressiveness" now apparent in Washington.

Some years ago, he said, "there was a glimmer of a realistic approach to international affairs in high circles in Washington."

But today, he said, there was more and more a tone of aggression and military force coming from the United States.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—A magazine article quoting John Lennon of the Beatles as saying his group is more popular than Jesus has ignited a "ban the Beatles records" campaign by Birmingham radio station WAQY.

Station manager Tommy Charles said Tuesday the Beatles were his No. 1 attraction before he read the article in Datebook.

The article quotes Maureen Cleave of the London Evening Standard as quoting Lennon as saying:

"Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink. I needn't argue about that; I'm right and I will be proved right. We're (the Beatles) more popular than Jesus now; I don't know which will go first—rock 'n' roll or Christianity. Jesus was all right, but his disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it ruins it for me."

Commenting on Lennon's statement, Charles said: "We just felt it was so absurd and sacrilegious that something ought to be done to show them they cannot get away with this sort of thing."

The Birmingham disc jockey said more than 99 per cent of the calls regarding this campaign support it.

"Almost unbelievably the teen-agers, almost as soon as they were sure it was true (the quotes), became really angry, some to the point of tears," Charles said. "All sorts of record and book stores have called saying they are taking their Beatle records and books off the market."

WAQY is broadcasting spot announcements every hour telling the audience to turn in their Beatle records, pictures, magazines and souvenirs to designated pickup spots.

"We'll have a giant Beatle bonfire the night they are closest to Birmingham on their next American tour, probably when they are in Memphis later this month," Charles said.

NOTTINGHAM, England — Factory worker Stanley King Monday was put on a year's probation and ordered to pay $83.55 for windows he broke in the police station here with a hammer. King was quoted as telling police: "Too many thieves are getting away with stealing. I thought I might just as well register my protest."

HAMILTON—Topless and see-through fashions are degrading, a young and shapely blonde from Toronto said here. She wore only a wrist watch, herself.

"Women who wear such revealing fashions that just show a bit are just exploiting sex or merely attempting to be the centre of attention," she said.

The blonde was one of 1,500 nudists from Canada and the United States who attended a weekend convention of the Eastern Sunbathing Association at Ponderosa Nature Park.

"Nudists have no respect for such exhibitionists," she added.

The nudists are also disturbed over magazines that sell sex under the guise of nudism.

"This gives people a distorted view of nudism and its purposes," one woman said.

"It's a shame because nudism is a wonderful experience."

LOS ANGELES — The passing motorist said, "That's too bad, I don't swim," and drove off, refusing to try to pull 4-year-old Francois Miller from the bottom of the swimming pool where he lay unconscious.

The youngster was battling for his life today at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre and the doctors said he was in "very critical condition."

Baby-sitter Carletta Bradford, 16, pleaded with the unidentified motorst Tuesday to help save the lad, but he refused. She then called police and officers Michael Webber and Gary Brink pulled the boy out of the pool and revived him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

BEFORE HELLYER

Defence Chief Visits Halifax

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. Jean V. Allard, new chief of the defence staff, is paying his first visit to Maritime Command this week.

He was invited to visit the command immediately after the firing of Rear-Admiral William Landymore by Defence Minister Hellyer in a dispute over the minister's plans to go ahead with unification of the armed forces.

Gen. Allard left here toady by plane, returning Friday.

His visit is regarded as preparation for the planned tour of Maritime Command by Mr. Hellyer later this month.

One possible reason for Gen. Allard's visit may be to discuss unification plans with Rear-Admiral J. C. O'Brien, who succeeded Rear-Admiral Landymore as commander of Maritime Command and of the Atlantic fleet.

The plans have been discussed during the last two weeks by the defence council, top policy advisory body at Canadian Forces Headquarters.

He has said unification would mean no greater economy or efficiency than having three services.

Informants said Mr. Hellyer will place a detailed unification plan before Parliament with the unification legislation, and recommend study by the Commons defence committee.

it says, would involve compulsion.

Manitoba called for rewriting the federal offer and Prince Edward Island argued medicare would be too costly at this time. Nova Scotia wants a federal-provincial conference on it.

Mr. Pearson said he knows of no changes in the federal legislation that will be required as a result of the Toronto premiers' meeting.

NO DEADLINE

The prime minister said it is incorrect to say Ottawa is setting a deadline of July 1, 1967, for provincial acceptance of the federal offer. The federal legislation would be in force by that date. Provinces could come in after that date if they wanted to.

He declined to say whether the federal government might agree to delay the date, adding that the legislation embodying it still is before Parliament.

If the provinces wanted to discuss the matter, there would be a federal-provincial conference this fall at which they could raise it. There could be nothing final about the date until Parliament approved the bill.

He said the federal government's schedule, which calls for Parliament to resume discussion of the medicare bill this fall, has not been affected by the premiers' conference.

Parliament is scheduled to resume Oct. 5 but may be called into session earlier if non-operating railway employees call a strike.

have refused to discuss a reduction in the present 40-hour week.

Carpenters say a shorter work week is necessary to spread jobs in the face of growing mechanization.

Contractors reply that this is impractical when all other tradesmen at present have a 40-hour week. Either the other tradesmen will have to go home half an hour early each day, or the carpenters paid overtime for the last half hour.

30 PER CENT HIKE?

The industry spokesman said the reduced work week would increase the price of an average home by 30 per cent.

This was disputed by a carpenter spokesman who said half an hour off eight hours is 1-16, so costs could only go up by 1-16 or about six per cent.

Major contractors also want an end to the union hall hiring system, where the contractor calls the union office for carpenters.

On wages, the major companies had offered 45 cents over three years.

Settlements reached with the independent contractors provide for a 40-cent raise over two years on the basic $3.49.

Russian Soldiers Building New City

UPI reporter John Mantle is the first western newsman to visit Tashkent since April 26, when a violent earthquake centred directly below the ancient central Asian city.)

By JOHN MANTLE

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R.—On April 26, the earth rumbled fiercely beneath the ancient central Asian crossroads city of Tashkent, shattering its old quarter and destroying thousands of homes and other buildings.

It was the beginning of months of terror.

Almost daily thereafter, earthquakes rocked Tashkent. More than 600 were recorded in the next three months. The tremors killed 14 persons and injured more than a thousand.

Today the quakes have calmed, and much of Tashkent—particularly its newer sections—appears to have survived. Most of the rubble has been sept away and whole neighborhoods have been razed. Vacant lots, already sprouting grass, dot the city where thousands of persons once lived in squat adobe huts.

Like most cities ravaged by earthquakes, Tashkent is rebuilding.

But the restoration is taking place not within the city, but 15 miles away.

There, on a dusty plain baked by a scorching sun, thousands of soldiers from throughout the Soviet Union are building a new "earthquake city" to house Tashkent's victims. Called Druzhba, the Soviet word for friendship, it will accommodate 300,000 persnos when completell.

At least 400 two-storey houses have been built. Hundreds more are planned.

The project is labor at its hardest. The heat is murderous—often more than 110 degrees—and the soldiers, tanned like leather, work stripped to their blue or black shorts.

The roads are unpaved and a heavy pall of dust obscures the Druzhba landscape as army and civilian trueks chug by.

Soviet officials have denied that building Druzhba away from the earthquake zone means Tashkent is being abandoned.

The new parts of Tashkent—its newer homes, main hotels, opera house and other leading structures — survived the quakes with little more than a few cracks and shattered plaster.

Officials said an urban renewal program had been planned. The old adobe homes were to be razed for parks. New homes were to be built. The earthquakes simply changed the urban renewal program into a craxh construction drive, they explained.

Although the rubble is rapidly cleared away, signs of the quakes remain.

Naked water spouts that once fed kitchens jut from the ground, the water still running. Uzbek women use them to fetch water.

Although officials said either the government or friends are caring for homeless victims, encampments of about 50 tents each stand in the city's parks. Some streets are clogged by small tent clusters.

"Last Saturday night I slept inside for the first time since the first quake," a man said. "There were three more tremors that night. I got scared and now my bed is back in my yard again."

HANOI MAY ADMIT PRESS

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—A peace group here said Tuesday night it had received a telegram from Ho Chi Minh's office saying the North Vietnamese government would consider "when conditions permit," allowing American journalists to observe first-hand the results of United States bombing raids in that country.

Neil Chassman, spokesman for the Sullivan County Organization for Peace in Viet Nam, said the group recived the message in reply to a telegram sent July 24 asking that international and U.S. journalists be invited to inspect and publicize the destruction caused by the recent bombing raids in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas.

Chassman is a professor of philosophy and psychology.

Exodus Feared

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — An exodus of university teachers and students from Argentina has been predicted as a result of government seizure of the universities and bloody police clashes with students.

Trade Unions Must Enter Election Arena

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—John Morgan, a professor of social work at the University of Toronto, says Canadian trade unions will have to enter union candidates in federal and provincial elections if they want to exert the power that they possess.

In an address Tuesday night to the Couchiching Conference, Prof. Morgan said trade unions will have to forsake some short-run gains at the bargaining table for a more effective campaign against social abuses.

"The unions are not doing their part to lobby for the 50 per cent of Canada's poor who are fully employed but earn only pittance wages, he said. The unions could also lead a public protest against the nation-wide housing shortage.

"Unions are defending their workers against the evils of the last industrial revolution instead of preparing them for the new revolution," he said.

In reply to Prof. Morgan's criticisms, Eamon Park, assistant to the national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said proposals for union - management councils to contemplate long-term problems in industry are, for the most part, rejected by management.

The week - long conference, sponsored by the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs and the CBC, continues at this YMCA camp eight miles north of Orillia.

War Protest Rally Set At Peace Arch

SEATTLE (AP)—A rally to protest the war in Viet Nam will be held Saturday at the International Peace Arch on the U.S.-Canada border.

A spokesman for the American Friend Service Committee, one of the sponsoring groups, said Tuesday 12 other American and Canadian peace organizations will join in sponsorship.

The spokesman said speakers include Richard Lord, a member of the faculty at Yakima Valley junior college and a candidate for the 4th District congressional seat; Grace MacInnis, New Democratic Party MP, and the Rev. James Roberts, a Roman Catholic priest from Vancouver.

Paddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council, is to be chairman of the rally.

RESERVE PROBE SET

OTTAWA (CP) — Northern Affairs Minister Laing has ordered a study of conditions at God's Lake Narrows Indian Reserve in northern Mantioba, a department spokesman said Tuesday.

The investigation was prompted by a series of articles in the Vancouver Sun charging that the 800 Indians living on the reserve are being "killed with kindness."

They are afraid to seek a better life for fear of losing welfare cheques, the newspaper said.

Soviet Deputies Organize In 'Watchdog' Commissions

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet parliament today re-elected Nikolai Podgorny as head of state and Leonid Brezhnev as Communist party leader. Podgorny, 63, has been Soviet president—chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet—since he replaced Anastas Mikoyan in December.

Today's re-election by the Supreme Soviet (parliament) came as no surprise.

Brezhnev, who has no state post, thus retains his leading position in the Soviet parliament.

The president and the Soviet government must by law be elected every four years following the election of a new Supreme Soviet.

Podgorney, once a protege of former premier Nikita Khrushchev, is also a member of the Communist party's ruling 11-man politburo.

APPROVE COMMITTEES

Earlier, the parliament approved 11 new committees as part of a plan by Kremlin leaders to involve the country's 1,517 deputies more closely in running the government.

The new parliamentary standing commissions were approved by the two equal chambers of the Supreme Soviet. The house met for a joint session later to elect the presidium and approve a new government as required by the constitution after general elections.

Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin was unanimously re-elected to his post Tuesday.

The new commissions formed today add to seven previous parliamentary groups. There now are nine in each house.

It was not immediately clear how much power the committees would have to influence the government.

The Soviet news agency Tass said they would discuss and analyse in advance questions submitted to the Supreme Soviet and make proposals on them. It said they would also check the activity of executive agencies.

WON'T RELAX GRIP

Observers said there was no likelihood that the grip of the Communist party leadership would be relaxed. But the extra commissions were likely to give deputies a greater insight into the workings of the Soviet government.

In the Council of Nationalities, the first of the two chambers to meet today, 319 of the 750 deputies are members of its nine standing committees.

The Council of the Union, the other chamber, re-elected Mikhail Suslov chairman of its foreign affairs commission. Suslov, a member of the ruling politburo, is also the Kremlin's chief ideologist.

In the other house, the foreign affairs committee is headed by Communist Party Secretary Boris Ponomarev.

Other commissions include those handling planning and budget, transport and communications, construction, agriculture, public health, education and trade.

Southwest Africa Action Set for UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—African members of the United Nations will ask the General Assembly to discuss South-West Africa at the start of its fall session in a new attempt to loosen South Africa's grip on that mandated territory, diplomats predict.

Some sources expressed doubt that the assembly, convening Sept. 20, would agree to debate South-West Africa immediately since that would delay the usual general debate for which foreign ministers attend the opening days of the session.

Others said that the Africans theoretically could put together the majority necessary for such a decision. They have 36 of the 117 votes in the assembly and they can usually count on 25 more from the Asians and another 10 from the Communists.

The International Court July 18 threw out a complaint brought by Ethiopia and Liberia, ruling that they had no legal right to bring action against South Africa.

Ethiopia and Liberia asked the court to rule that South Africa had violated her League of Nations mandate over South-West Africa by practicing apartheid (race segregation) in the territory, and to order that she stop doing that. If such a decision had been made the Africans could have asked the security council for action to enforce it.

UN Takeover Urged

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India called Tuesday on the United Nations to take over direct control of South West Africa from the South African government. External Affairs Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament India is disappointed by the World Court's rejection to the Ethiopian and Liberian bid to end the South African mandate over the territory.

Where Do They Stop?

THE ARGUMENTS AGAINST permitting B.C. Hydro to run a 100-foot-wide pole line easement through a corner of Thetis Lake Park are still as valid as ever. Yet the city parks committee has reversed the stand which on three recent attempts denied Hydro the privilege of cutting into the park. It seems to be the old story of plugging away at an unpopular plan until the public's presumed watchdogs get tired of saying "No." Only Parks Administrator Warren has refused to be diverted.

The aldermen apparently gave considerable weight to the Hydro's promise to turn over for parks purposes about 49 acres of land to the north of Thetis Lake Park. It's the same plot of land that was carved out of the park when the power utility talked council into giving it the right to run a power pole line through another section of the park only six years ago. Now it would be returned to the city, which was guaranteed the use of it anyway. Some swap! That earlier power line, too, was to have been a one-and-only infringement of this natural sanctuary. And Durrance Lake, swapped for the Thetis right-of-way at that time, has been of no public use whatever.

Quite apart from their juggling of the comparative values of one portion of land for another, the members of the city parks committee have abandoned a principle. The need and the value of Thetis Lake sanctuary requires no repetition at this date. It has achieved international note among naturalists. But there is no point in paying mere lip-service to the principle of preserving such a public asset. It is up to the public's representatives to act on the principle: parks are an irreplaceable trust — they should not be hacked and nibbled even in a minor way. What defence has Thetis Lake Park now against a further demand for intrusion?

And what is to be gained by B.C. Hydro by this renewed invasion of parklands? To carry the pole line around the corner of the park, outside its boundaries, would add only $20,000 extra to a project that will cost many times that. The public will lose much more than $20,000 by the proposed breach of park defences. Less than 13 cents per capita, spread over Greater Victoria for a whole year, would pay for Hydro's extra cost and save the park. The committee's decision can be based neither on practical economics nor conservation.

The committee's recommendation must now go to city council, composed largely of the same personnel. Reconsideration by the committee and a firm stand by the other council members would save Thetis Lake Park from this second invasion. Where do our elected spokesmen decide to hold the line?

Voluntary Policy on Wages

CALL THEM WAGE GUIDElines, incomes policy or what you will, the fact is that government attempts voluntarily to restrain movements toward greatly increased pay have had little success in North America or in Britain. In Europe, on the other hand, particularly in the Scandinavian countries, governments have had considerable success in promoting orderly wage programs.

A recent study by the International Labor Office suggests why there is a difference between these two experiences. The ILO says that central policy can only hope to influence the wage structure when two conditions prevail. First, there must be no undue demand in the economy; and secondly there must be a real willingness on the part of unions and employers to sacrifice some autonomy in wage-fixing. Neither of these two conditions is currently present in Canada, the United States or Britain. Slackening demand may be a factor in Britain as a result of the government's austerity measures, but North American demand seems likely to hold up at least long enough to force severe wage dislocations on the economy.

Even more important, however, in the long run, is the type of bargaining structure employed by labor and management. Where there are highly centralized unions and employers' groups, the ILO has found, conditions are more favorable for an effective process of central bargaining which can be brought into line with government policy and related to productivity and other norms. On the other hand when unions are democratic in their internal structure and fragmented by skill or industrial divisions and when the employers are highly competitive, the views of each are bound to be dictated by the interests of their own members rather than by concern for the national good.

Even under the best of conditions, the ILO study indicates, an effective incomes policy won't stand much strain. When conditions are less than ideal, only a comprehensive system of compulsory arbitration or legal restraint can effectively regulate wage increases.

Who Can Have Guns?

THE CAMPAIGN FOR STRICTer legislation to control possession of guns is an old story in the United States. For years efforts have been made to prevent mail order sales of weapons and to place barriers in the way of inter-state purchase of them. The campaign now gains emphatic support from President Johnson in the aftermath of the University of Texas massacre.

The President properly admits that a bill awaiting congressional action "would not prevent all such tragedies, but it would help reduce the unrestricted sale of firearms to those who cannot be trusted in their use or possession."

This is a generalization which should apply beyond the boundaries of the United States. It invites British Columbians to think about their own regulations concerning firearms.

To possess a rifle or shotgun in British Columbia, a person need only be more than 14 years of age, or secure a special permit. He doesn't need a firearms licence unless he wishes to hunt.

The looseness of provincial legislation on this issue does not cover hand guns. For these far stricter regulations are enforced.

Mr. Johnson believes that pending American legislation will keep firearms out of the hands of "those who cannot be trusted in their use or possession." That, under present British Columbia law, appears not to be a consideration here. Is that situation good enough?

Fed, Housed and Decadent

IN A SERIES OF EXPERIMENTS lasting six years, Vienna's Prof. Otto Koenig has sought to determine what soft living does to a big and presumably tough bird called the cattle egret.

Prof. Koenig provided food, prefabricated nests and other amenities for his specimens, which in their natural habitat are self-reliant, self-supporting creatures.

At the end of six years in the equivalent of the welfare state—or as beneficiaries of a sort of affluent society — the birds deteriorated. They could not fend for themselves effectively in combat or in quest of food for their own use or for their offspring. And eventually they fell to quarreling among themselves as their social order broke down.

Efforts to draw analogies with humans could have some point, since statistics indicate that the affluent nations suffer a social breakdown, at least as far as the growth of juvenile delinquency occurs in direct ratio to the lack of demands placed on the young.

But we hardly need to call on the cattle egret for confirmation. The human evidence is all too plain.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Vastly Superior Schools Prime Need

Alsop

WHY are most of the American great cities likely to be transformed into super-Watts? Why, in other words, do more and more of the cities have heavy Negro majorities in their school systems, predicting virtually segregated Negro cities of the future?

The first answer is the schools. Here in Washington, for instance, we have elementary schools that are over 90 per cent Negro; we have a city-wide population that is two-thirds Negro; and we have a voting population that is still only about one half Negro. (These differences appear in all major cities, although other cities' figures are down in the scale as yet.)

But although Washington has already become a predominantly Negro city, the District of Columbia retains a white population of about 250,000. There should, therefore, be a great many tens of thousands of white children of school age in the district. And in reality, there are almost none!

To be precise, Washington had 26,000 white children of elementary school age five years ago. It has lost half that number since then, and of the 13,000 white children of school age still in the District of Columbia, far more than a third attend private schools!

Those figures mean only one thing: that nowadays, white families with children almost automatically emigrate to the suburbs. That conclusion can be cross-checked, too, in half a dozen ways.

The southwest redevelopment, for instance, has caused many white people to return to live in the District of Columbia. But of these returners, almost none are families with children.

Again, there are two or three Catholic parishes in Washington with particularly strong parochial schools. As the Negro people moved into these neighborhoods, virtually all white Protestant families with children moved out, leaving the public schools almost solidly Negro.

Strong Leadership

But many of the white Catholic families have stayed, although the parochial schools, too, now have very high Negro percentages. This is because the parochial schools, being strongly led, have remained as good as ever, and the Catholic families therefore saw no reason to move.

It would be unrealistic to deny that the cruel fact of race prejudice has played a role in the white emigration to the suburbs. But the truly dominant role has been played, and is still being played by the schools themselves.

If the admission of large numbers of disadvantaged children causes a school to deteriorate, almost all families who are able to do so rather promptly move to a neighborhood with better schools—which nowadays means a suburban neighborhood. And as the Watts report shows, the racial origin of the disadvantaged children has little to do with this emigration. The children's effect on the school, because of the extra burden they inevitably impose on the teachers, is the heart of the matter.

The truth of the matter is that the justices of the Supreme Court left a needed job only one-half done, when they outlawed segregated schools. Because of the United States' shameful history of economic and other injustices to its Negro people, the great majority of Negro children are disadvantaged. Desegregation of the schools should therefore have been accompanied by legislation sharply increasing outlays on the school systems, and particularly on the great urban school systems.

That can still be done. The question is whether it can be done in a way to halt the white movement to the suburbs, and even to bring a lot of white families back into the city centres—thereby making a reasonable population balance in both cities and school systems, and thus preventing the growth of the city-sized super-Watts that now threatens us.

The answer is not just good urban schools, which we do not now have. Merely good schools are no longer good enough to reverse the sinister population trend that may soon make our cities into vast Negro reservations. The answer, I fervently hope and strongly believe, is immensely superior urban schools, fine enough to hold and even to attract all families that want the best schooling for their children.

If New York spent 1,700 dollars per child per year, or a bit more than Scarsdale does; if St. Louis did the same—in short if present urban school outlays were just about doubled in every great city—the cities would soon enough have the superior schools that are so desperately needed for social-political reasons as well as educational reasons.

That would leave the problem of safe streets, which has played a lesser yet discernable role in the white emigration to the suburbs. For safe streets, more money must be poured out, not only on better police departments, but also on parks and playgrounds and other recreational facilities and all the other things that make a city a good place to live.

The total bill, as anyone can see, will be astronomically larger than the cities can hope to pay. But what if the federal government pays the whole cost of giving superior schools to the great cities, and further lets the cities use their present school budgets to make themselves habitable once again? That question will be examined in the last report in this series.

FROM GIBRALTAR

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

A Storm Rises Again Over the Rock

THE Rock of Gibraltar is, of course, a symbol, a symbol of unchanging and unthreatened reliability. But Gibraltar's history does not bear this out and just now it is the centre of a muted but bitter international dispute. Quite simply, the Spanish want it back from the British and the British are in no mood to give. The repercussions could reach an ugliness just short of war.

Gibraltar is essentially only a great rock that lies in the Mediterranean at the far, dangling south of Europe. To the imaginative, it is shaped like a crouching lion.

The Rock is thinly covered with scrub. It towers over the sea and the land like a carefully chosen stone in a Japanese garden. It has a rim round most of its edge, much of it man-made. There is a small neck of flat, barren land that joins it to Spain. Gibraltar is only a little over two miles long, at its longest and widest. Many cities have bigger parks than this.

Yet this apparently inhospitable place is, or used to be, of commanding importance. It guards the entrance to the Mediterranean. It has an unique status. It is the only colony in Europe and its 24,000 permanent inhabitants want it to stay that way.

The British acquired it by one of the most cynical actions of a cynical age. In 1704, during that tedious war of the Spanish succession, the British and Dutch fleets attacked it. The British were supporting a Hapsburg for the throne of Spain which was occupied by a Bourbon. They were not even at war with Spain. They just took Gibraltar and by the Treaty of Utrecht a few years later, the Spanish yielded it to Britain in perpetuity. This was the 12th siege the Rock had suffered in its history.

The Spanish laid siege to the British on the Rock three times more. The Great Siege of 1779 lasted three years with the assaulting artillery floated on rafts. This siege produced some of the best of the English battle engravings. The Spanish failed.

Three more treaties assured British possession and then the British craftily and bit by bit took over half the neck of sand that joins the Rock with Spain.

They have an airport on it now and, since they have held it so long, claim it is theirs by right of prescription, i.e. of long occupation. International lawyers are divided on the validity of the claim.

Today the Rock is solid evidence of its importance and history. There is a vast dockyard with moles that reach out into the sea. The great war fleets have gone, but it is still kept ready and reasonably busy with merchant and cruise ships and the occasional warship. The port itself is a tremendous engineering feat, its rows of sheds, its cranes and dry docks set upon reclaimed land. Next to it is the old jetty, small and intimate, used for pleasure boats, from which they transhipped the body of Nelson in a keg of spirits back to his solemn funeral in London.

Old Relics

Up the sides of the Rock there are bits of Moorish, Spanish and French fortification. But it is the British relics that dominate. The 18th and 19th-century fortifications are plain and massive and marvellously elegant. They are built of heavy squared stones and their bare interiors are vaulted and indestructible and no-one knows quite what to do with them. Not even the Romans built better than this. The dwindling garrison rattles around in them like a pea in a whistle. And if there are ghosts of the old, sweaty, drunken, underpaid, over-disciplined and routinely heroic garrisons, they cannot now be heard above the noise of motor bikes and transistors.

There is a long, fortified sea wall. There are casements and bastions and dark gun ports, all in the latest style of their time, thrown up by majors of the Royal Engineers who were, in effect, among the most satisfying architects of their day. Good clean functional lines, no decoration except a well-turned ledge or a grimly handsome gateway, as proud as the devil and almost as cruel, oppressive and saddening, but an undeniable working of the human genius.

But the secret of the strength of this place is the Rock itself. This vast mass of pale grey limestone is an anthill. There are natural caves, where once British officers duelled and which are used now for Son et Lumiere and ballet performances. But the British have carved out 32 miles of galleries, and a company of Royal Engineers is still extending them.

The old galleries are the higher ones—long stone passages curving round the rock. There are still some guns in the embrasures. (In the 18th century they found that the cannon balls rolled out when the guns were depressed to fire from this height. They invented a new, more retentive type.)

Underground Community

Down below is the more modern complex. There are vast chambers where the rainwater collected off the side of the rock and the oil are stored. There are magazines, hospitals, living quarters, kitchens, power stations, command posts—all still kept ready. Most of the corridors are eight feet wide—but there are highways where trucks can pass.

During the last war there was room in the galleries for all the male population of Gibraltar—the women and children were evacuated to England—and the 60,000-strong garrison to live and to fight against the half-expected German invasion through Spain.

But outside the galleries and the caves, the sun of the Costa del Sol shines—even on the British. Across the Straits is the other Pillar of Hercules. There is a great bay with Spanish Algeciras opposite, but hardly on speaking terms. There are beaches for tourists.

The town has still a Spanish look, but the atmosphere is determinedly British, even when the bar-keeper is the descendent of a Genoese refugee from the Napoleonic invasion. There are fine hotels, but it is Beer and Chips and Matinees that rule—the last touch of the hand of Empire.

The place is solid and contented and prosperous and clean. There is no anti-colonial protest here—except from across the little no-man's land that leads to Spain. Gibraltar is at once an anomaly, one of the natural wonders of the world, a bone of contention and a success in its own right. It is probably the most beautiful, active military base in the world.

From the Times of Aug. 3, 1906:

Rev. W. W. Bolton, MA, and J. C. Barnacle, will, from September next, have joint charge of the University School. There will be two houses as there is already sufficient support to warrant such a step. Mr. Bolton will retain his residence on Belcher Avenue where he has had school for the past eight years. Mr. Barnacle will reside in another commodious house with a playing field attached on Oak Bay Avenue. The aim of the school is to prepare boys to enter the English public schools, the professions and the military.

Foreign Visit

You published the young Quebecer's impressions of this part of Canada, with the few English flags flying here (July 26). How about a First World War veteran's impressions of the rest of Canada on a trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Ottawa is nearly all French. Northwestern New Brunswick is the same. The train staff from Ottawa to Truro, Nova Scotia, except for an odd black porter, is all French.

And if you speak English only, and not their language, they give you such a look that you feel as if you were in a hostile foreign country and have no business there.—H. A. Taylor.

Owner Responsibility

In a recent issue of the Daily Times I saw a news item which mentioned that a certain firm had planned to clean up our beaches and waterways of logs and driftwood, converting this into chips for commercial use. The article went on to state that the project had to be abandoned for legal reasons, because marked logs still belonged to their original owners.

If this latter statement is correct one would naturally suppose that ownership involved responsibility as well as privileges, in which case the owners should be subject to legal actions for creating navigation hazards as well as fouling up public beaches.

Victoria very recently spent considerable effort and money in cleaning up Foul Bay beach, making it a pleasant playground for our families. Today it is almost as much a log and driftwood shambles as it was before they cleaned it up.

It is hard to believe that the law is really such an ass!

"Godless, Nonhumanistic"

In reference to news item "Anguish in Poland" in your paper of July 29th, 1966, I would like to point out that the writer of the above named article forgets that the "party secretary, Wladyslaw Gomulka," in today's Poland is only a pawn and obedient servant of Soviet Russia—which subjugated more than 100 million Europeans as a result of the Second World War.

During 1,000 years of Christianity in Poland, good relations between the Church and State prevailed, and for centuries the country was known as "antemurale Christianorum." In those days, the primate of Poland was an "interrex" who reigned during the "interregnum" until the king was elected.

The issue of the present struggle in Poland is a confrontation between godless Communism and Christianity, between freedom and oppression forced upon that country by the Red colonialism directed from Kremlin.

The outstanding aim of Communism is to create a godless, nonhumanistic and materialistic society, based on Marxism and Leninism. — Henry Szmuniewski, 784 Interurban.

Powerful, Reunited Germany Rouses Fear in Some Quarters

By FRED S. MANOR

(This is the third in a series by Mr. Manor, Winnipeg Free Press writer who has recently returned from a visit to West Germany.

The story of Mayor Willy Brandt's discussion with the Soviet ambassador to East Berlin, to which Mayor Brandt alluded in his interview with me published yesterday on this page, was told me in detail by Prof. Richard Loewenthal of the Free University of Berlin.

Prof. Loewenthal was an editorial writer on The Observer of London, but later decided to return to Berlin and teach political science at the university. He is a close friend and collaborator of Mayor Brandt, and the story illustrates the vast repercussions that German's striving for reunification must eventually have on world problems.

It should be added here that in West Germany the Soviet embassy in East Berlin is considered "liberal," whereas the Soviet embassy in Bonn has the reputation of being a holdout of Stalinism. Whenever the German universities or other cultural and professional institutions desire some contact with the Soviet Union, they prefer to approach the Russians in East Berlin rather than the Soviet embassy in Bonn.

Mr. Brandt and the Soviet ambassador met under peculiar circumstances. It will be recalled that not long ago a Soviet jet plane crashed into a West Berlin lake, killing both pilots. It was then realized that the Soviet pilots sacrificed their lives rather than bale out and let the pilotless plane crash into an inhabited area of West Berlin. This touched the West Berliners very much, and Mayor Brandt sent a message of gratitude to the Soviet embassy in East Berlin, asking the ambassador to convey the condolences of West Berlin to the pilots' families.

Shortly after this incident the Swedes held a diplomatic reception in West Berlin. Both Mayor Brandt and the Soviet ambassador to East Berlin, Mr. Abrasimov, attended, and the ambassador went up to Mr. Brandt to thank him for his gesture. Both then disappeared into the garden for a long, private discussion. It was during this discussion that Mr. Brandt broached the problem of reunification of Germany. The Soviet ambassador sought refuge behind the standard Soviet formula that this was a matter for the two German states to decide between themselves.

"You mean then," said Mayor Brandt, "that the West German army (which is the second largest army in Europe) should be merged with the (equally large and powerful) East German army, plus a few more, under a joint command and a joint general staff?"

"Um Gottes willen!" (for God's sake) exclaimed the ambassador in horror.

This is indeed the problem. West Germany is today the world's third largest industrial power. East Germany is the world's seventh largest. Both Germanies have large conventional forces, and they have the know-how and the industrial potential to produce nuclear weapons. Their combination would add a completely new dimension to world politics, world trade and the strategic situation in Europe.

Widespread Fear

The fear of these consequences is widespread inside and outside of Germany. An Italian worker from southern Italy, who has spent the last two years working in a German factory in Stuttgart, told me: "The Germans are very efficient and very competent. But they are very warlike. If they are ever reunited we shall have a war right away."

This is, of course, the racial prejudice of the small, uninformed man-in-the-street. But it is a prejudice deeply ingrained in Europe, and one of which the Germans are painfully aware. They know that many in the West believe that the advantages of the present division of Germany often outweigh the advantages of reunification.

They have also reached the conclusion that it is unlikely that the Western allies will be able to exert much influence upon the Soviet Union and make her change her policy towards Germany.

Ours and Yours

In short, it is not only the East that is looking askance at the prospect of German reunification. The Germans know that when, at the Geneva summit meeting of 1955, Marshal Zhukhov told the then French Premier Edgar Faure, "You have your Germans, we have ours; isn't this the best arrangement?" he was expressing the opinion of many people in Europe on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

There are other foreign imponderables that may influence the future course of German history. What will be the behavior of the Communist parties in Western Europe? The emergence of popular fronts in France or Italy, for instance, would seriously hamper German efforts at reunification.

Having thus come to realize that their allies are not much interested in reunification, the Germans feel that what can be done will have to be done by themselves. They are also aware of the pitfalls with which a policy of reunification is beset, at home and abroad.

"If by our active interest in reunification we cause unrest in East Germany, or even at home," a Berlin politician said, "we shall be accused of warmongering. If we emphasize calm and peaceful progress, everybody will say that we are not interested in reunification."

Want Change

The Germans, and above all German youth, want a change. But they don't exactly know what kind of change they want. They no longer have the European focus, which has withered away. They tend to look more at national problems, and, above all, the problem of reunification.

But they are not looking at these problems blindly. The ideals of the preceding, romantic generation — which went into battle with a copy of Faust in their pockets, and which brought about the present division of Germany — are being decisively rejected. The present generation of Germans is sober and hard-headed, and it views the solution to the German problem as the art of the possible.

Canada Reaps Whirlwind Of Expo Wage Increases

By DOUGLAS FISHER

Fisher

OTTAWA—In my last column, I said that Canada faces a major rail-crisis in late August when the strike votes of the non-operating workers are completed. Mediation by the cabinet will try to resolve the crisis. If it fails, Parliament may be recalled and one more nail of compulsion goes into the coffin of free collective bargaining.

Is there not a workable alternative? The report of the union nominee, Prof. Harry Crowe of York University, suggests there is.

The alternative is the acceptance of a standard for wage comparisons by the unions, management and federal government, so that when bargaining begins the two sides are already close together through the logic of the standard. For the non-op rail workers the standard is the adjusted durable goods standard. This means that the work is to be compared with that of the half-million workers in the durable goods industries, unionized and non-unionized. The latter's average hourly earnings are expressed in a precise figure published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Because the two groups are not identical in the four main characteristics which determine wage levels—skill, male-female ratio, geographic distribution, and size of establishment—Professor Crowe says the published figure must be adjusted in a simple technical operation so that "like will be compared with like."

The application of the standard to set the level of the non-op wages for the current agreement covering 1966 and 1967 is not a complex procedure. First you take the average hourly earnings for durable goods workers at the terminal points of the last non-op agreement ($2.33 in December, 1965) and add the estimated increase in durable goods during 1966 and 1967 and adjust the result along the lines of the previous paragraph, using mechanics originally put forward by the companies and not the unions.

What is the likely increase in durable goods earnings in this two-year period?

In his report to federal Labor Minister Nicholson, Mr. Crowe says: "You will observe that my estimate of a total increase in the level of average hourly earnings of the some 500,000 employees of durable goods industries in Canada of 30 cents over the years 1966 and 1967 is substantially less than half the increases received by longshoremen and St. Lawrence Seaway employees for the same two years as a result of mediation by the present government."

Herein lies the source of the crisis. According to the press reports, the members of the two concilation boards were within an ace of pulling off an agreement when Mr. Nicholson and Transport Minister Pickersgill pulled out the rug by giving an astonishing 30 per cent to the seaway employees. My information is that those press reports are correct, although the settlement would have been more than the reported 41 cents.

Let me set out the chain of events. What we reap in August in the rail crisis is the result of what may be called the Expo whirlwind. The citizens of Montreal—all power to them—are determined to make a success of Expo.

Nothing has been too good for Expo. Not only must the new city of buildings be completed on the island, big hotels and apartment-hotels must be built or remodelled. One result has been the signing of agreements in the building trades in Montreal which project wages into 1968 at higher levels than have been negotiated in many eastern cities of the U.S.

From the building trades, the escalation went to the unskilled longshoremen working along the same waterfront. The federal government presided over a settlement of 80 cents in a two-year agreement.

From the longshoremen, the Expo escalation went to the seaway workers, who got their 30 per cent through federal mediation. Unless there is some over-riding consideration such as substandard previous settlements as a result of compulsion, it is very difficult to justify a 30 per cent increase.

It is hard to see how a union could justify it if it did not beleive in such an increase for everybody. The plain fact is that the economy cannot produce or redistribute such an increase in two years. If you advocate 30 per cent for everybody you might as well advocate 300 per cent.

On the other hand, can one blame the union representing the seaway employees? Messrs. Nicholson and Pickersgill kept coming back and offering them more and they took it. But the by-product was more important than the product.

The by-product was the scuppering of the non-op concilation boards, the feeding of rank and file demands for a similar settlement, the creation of a rail crisis and the increased likelihood of compulsion with all the long-term troubles it will inevitably spawn.

It's no compensation that we can relish somewhat meanly the predicament of the prime minister and his minister of labor as they again try their skill at mediation.

The Time We Wanted . . . But the Leisure Is Missing

By ART STOTT

Stott

The small red-headed gentleman has gone to Toronto to visit his aunt and uncle and it's quiet around our house. This circumstance, coupled with the sudden onset of good weather, should put the lady and me on Cape God chairs in the secluded corner of the lawn, stretched out and sipping long, tall, cool ones.

The concept is pleasant to the mind's eye. Before us the green should slope down to the terraced vegetable plot. The decorative trees should furnish their aromatic shade. The lower reaches extending to the sea should be in a controlled natural state. From the rocks the sea should capture our drowsy gaze, sparkling and blue, reaching to the deeper blue silhouette of the Olympics, majestic against the clear, distant sky.

So much for the concept, which is delightful and completely divorced from reality.

It is true that the small redhead does not entice me on beach-combing expeditions to Woody Bay. It is true that he is not there to lure me to the sands of Gonzales. It is true that he doesn't invite me, with infectious enthusiasm to a strange ball game in which we use plastic baseball bats to knock a plastic baseball around the grass like field hockey players. It is true that the lady and I are not continually engaged in keeping an eye on his darting sorties to the front or to the back.

But the time his absence makes available to us is not free. We have jobs to catch up on that have gone by the board while he was here to help us. The smooth green lawn on which we should be sitting isn't smooth or green. It's yellowing through lack of water and constantly in need of a trim. The tended garden plot, which yielded its meagre crop of green peas and a few boilings of new potatoes, is choked with weeds. And the semi-wild area is a jungle of horsetails, head-high in some places, through which intrusive morning glory is trying to Indian its way on one side to join forces with the bounding blackberry from the other.

Long ago we gave up the lawn to creeping charlie, a lovely little ground cover that, allowed its way, can throw a powder blue flower over the area we intended to devote to grass. It creeps, also, into the borders and between the cracks in the sidewalk.

So the joy of the garden and yard is transformed to unremitting labor as we try to trim and weed enough to see what should be growing.

Inside there is no escape from reminders of jobs to be done. We undertook to do our own painting after remodellers had left. The sheets to cover the bathroom floor so it would not be splattered are piled in an untidy corner, awaiting a renewed attack on the coloring job. A cabinet door rests against the cabinet from which it was unscrewed to permit careful brush work. The ceiling, washed for a fresh coat, is filming up again without attention. And in the kitchen more painting awaits inspiration that needn't be artistic.

Not that we don't recline. We do, from exhaustion, so that we can summon enough energy to climb up to bed after work in the fields like Millet's "Man With Hoe."

The little man's absence gives us time but not leisure—unless we steal it guiltily from work that should be done. I find it was more enjoyable batting a plastic ball around with a plastic bat, beachcombing or just wandering over the sand.

That's a kind of recreation I'll probably resume when he returns—and, in a self-punishing sort of way, I'm looking forward to it. Not that I'll be any less weary. But there will be an excuse for not doing the kind of chores I don't like doing. Also, there is a sharper form of physical exercise involved in keeping up with him than in pulling weeds, following a bucking power-mower or wielding a paint brush.

Then, too, I've grown accustomed to his pace.

Counting the Uncountable; Or, the Academics' Folly

(By Columnist "R" in Encounter, British monthly journal.)

I believe that more rigorous requirements by the universities could very easily and very quickly improve the standard of lecturing, to the inestimable benefit of those captive audiences, the students. There are however other academic vices which appear to be incurable.

One of the most glaring is the application of disciplines and techniques which are appropriate and productive in the physical sciences to fields in which they could not conceivably be expected to produce significant results.

A particularly splendid example may be found in a recent article in World Politics; a quarterly of international politics sponsored by the Centre of International Studies at Princeton University. It is called "The Composition and Status Ordering of the International System: 1850-1940," by J. David Singer and Melvin Small.

There was something about that title which immediately aroused my suspicions. I was not disappointed, particularly when the article's introductory paragraphs provided the promising sentence:

"Our procedure will be to discuss the concept of status and attributed importance in international relations theory and its theoretical relevance, and then go on to ways in which it might be measured."

Not Quite Clear

It would perhaps be pedantic to point out that the authors do not quite make it clear whether it is the "concept of status" or "its theoretical relevance" which is to be measured; after all, what does it matter what we are measuring, as long as we are measuring something. They go on to say that:

"A great many hypotheses relevant to the growth of international relations theory may be generated around the concept of status and attributed importance, but they cannot be tested in the absence of operational measures and indices. The purpose of this article is to suggest such a measure."

The "measure" turns out to be a system of awarding "status-points" to states who are accepted as members of the international order, based on the diplomatic rank granted to their representatives abroad, on the following scale:

Class I. Ambassador, or equivalent, 3 points.

Class II. Minister, Minister Resident, or envoy, 2 points.

Class III. Charge d'Affaires, or equivalent, 1 point.

Status Order

On this basis (and having first overcome, by means of another carefully weighted index, the difficulty of what states are to be admitted, and at what time, to the international system), the authors construct a fascinating table giving the "status-order" of states by half-decades from 1850-1940, a kind of league table of international status.

In this, England takes the lead from 1817-1819, loses it to France from 1824-1832, regains it in 1832-1840, loses it from 1840-1854, regains it from 1854-1859, loses it from 1859-1894, when she sank into third place below Germany and France, rises to second place below Germany in 1899, sinks again to third in 1904, rises to first, with the United States second, in 1909, sinks to third place below the United States and France in 1914, sinks to fifth place in 1920, in that astonishing season when Spain spectacularly won the championship, rises to second in 1925 and thereafter is content to be a modest third to France and the United States.

There can be no doubt that the construction of this absurd table has cost its authors a great deal of work and, if one may so call it, thought. They have counted status-symbols assiduously in the International Yearbook and Statesman's Who's Who, the Diplomatic Year Book, the Statesman's Yearbook, the Almanach de Paris and the Europa Year Book. Their searches even led them finally to the Almanach de Gotha, which came to them as a revelation.

Distinction

No doubt their article will win them further academic distinction, even if they cannot perhaps hope to rival their fellow-contributor to World Politics who holds the proud title of Director of the Dimensionality of Nations Project at Yale.

Yet the truth about their article is that it does nothing whatever to advance knowledge in any significant, or even insignificant, way; certainly it gives no kind of justification to their claim that their concept of status, or their purported measurement of it, throws a useful light on the relationship between states.

All that their elaborate table (or another table, in which it is refined by an "iterative weighting procedure") does, is to give a bogus arithmetical form to relationships which cannot be reduced to arithmetic and to give the aspect of a scientific conclusion to something which in so far as it is valid at all, is simply a re-statement of known and trivial facts.

Perhaps all this does not much matter. Pope long ago taught us, in The Dunciad,

"How index-learning turns no student pale
Yet holds the eel of science by the tail."

Yet such articles as this carry the authority and prestige of a great university and the imprint of an important research centre which is no doubt in receipt of large funds from one or more of those philanthropic foundations on which the entire research industry depends for its finances. It will be offered as a model for students, particularly postgraduate ones struggling to achieve the PhD which is the first step to an assistant professorship, and will no doubt stimulate an even larger flow of funds to support the work of counting the uncountable.

Species of Dullness

In our universities today, research of this kind threatens to become a modern version of that species of Dullness which inspired Pope to so much mockery and poetry, and perhaps, so far as learning, education, and sense are concerned, the end will be precisely what he foresaw as the result of its triumph:

"Lo, thy dread empire,
Chaos! is restored:
Light dies before thy uncreat-
Thy hand, great Anarch, lets the curtain fall,
And universal darkness buries

Army Chief Removed In China

By VICTOR ZORZA
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON — The leadership purge in China has now led to the dismissal of the army chief of staff, Lo Jui-ching, who for many years has carried out the functions of the commander in chief, during the frequent illnesses of the defence minister, Lin Piao.

There is still no official announcement of the dismissal of Lo Jui-ching, who has been absent from the public scene in Peking since last November.

During Sunday's celebrations of army day in Peking, however, the main speech was delivered by Yang Cheng-wu, formerly a deputy chief of staff, who was introduced as "acting chief of staff."

A comparison of the speeches and articles published by Lo Jui-ching before his disappearance with some of the themes developed by internal Chinese propaganda during the purge suggests that the main points of difference were these:

1. The professional military leaders, including old party stalwarts like Lo Jui-ching himself, resented the interference which the politcial leadership sought to exercise in the day-to-day conduct of military affairs.

Army Weakness

2. The tactical and strategic recommendations made by the military leaders, based on their knowledge of the Chinese army's weakness as compared with the armed forces of potential enemies were ignored by the political leaders.

There are many indications that what the party leadership was concerned about was the grumbling of the military leaders, who evidently wanted to remedy the army's deficiencies by restoring the alliance with the Soviet Union.

Shortly before his disappearance, Lo Jui-ching pointedly recalled that prior to the Second World War Britain and France had rejected the Soviet proposal for an anti-Hitler alliance, whereupon "Hitler struck at them first and caught them unprepared."

The connection between the military and the political opposition became apparent when the purge was extended to include certain party leaders, such as the mayor of Peking, Peng Chen, one of the top half-dozen members of the politburo, whose dismissal showed that the power struggle was now being fought out in Mao's closest entourage.

Many Canadians Worry About Personal Rights

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

There is a substantial segment among the Canadian people (more than three in ten) who feel that their personal rights are in danger. On the other hand, close to half the voters say these rights are not threatened in our democracy.

The greatest number to protest against inadequate protection of rights and freedoms in this country come from higher educated persons. Forty-five per cent of university-educated men and women say personal rights are not being fully protected, while 46% feel they are.

University graduates also hold solid views on this subject—only 9% have no opinion. On the other hand, three times that number (26%) with public school education are more confused, with no opinion on whether or not our rights are being adequately protected.

The question: 'As you know, the idea of democracy is to give the people personal rights and freedom. Do you think personal rights are being fully protected in Canada or do you think they are in danger?"

| | Total | Public School | High School | University |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rights fully protected | 47% | 46% | 47% | 46% |
| Rights in danger | 34 | 28 | 37 | 45 |

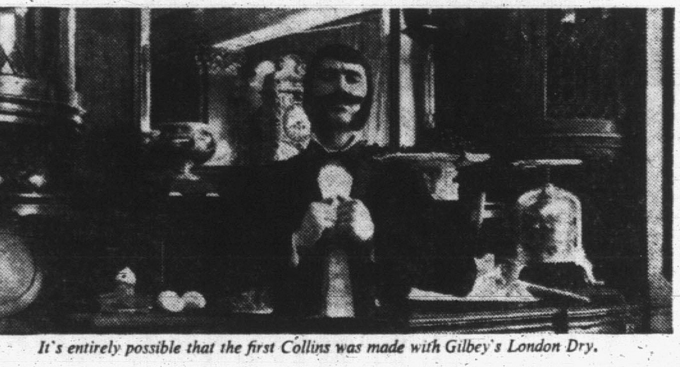
Gilbey's reveal how the first Collins was made



It's entirely possible that the first Collins was made with Gilbey's London Dry.

HOW WAS THE first Collins made? It was made by the Headwaiter at a London restaurant. Not surprisingly, his name was Mr. Collins. It's entirely possible that he mixed the drink with Gilbey's London Dry Gin because this gin has been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

Original Tom Collins

My name is Mr. Collins,
Headwaiter at Limmers
Corner of Conduit Street,
Hanover Square
My chief occupation is filling of brimmers
For all the young gentlemen
frequenters there.

Tallest of all the "brimmers" made by Mr. Collins was a mixture of gin, lemon juice, sugar and 'charged' water. Today, it is know the world over as the Tom Collins.

Speedy Tom Collins

Today of course you can mix your Collins much more speedily. Where Mr. Collins had to squeeze fresh lemons you can use frozen lemonade. And where Mr. Collins had to crack his ice from the block you can take yours straight from the freezer. But you still begin with Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

DUNCAN — A flight of ravens attacked and killed a purebred shorthorn calf here Tuesday.

Farmer George Whittaker said he saw five or six of the ravens lighting close to where the calf was sleeping.

"I was too far away to do anything about it. The calf tried to jump up but he fell back."

He said the birds had picked a hole through one of the eyes to the brain of the small animal which was valued at $100.

Mr. Whittaker said he was concerned by a considerable increase in the raven population in this area.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The local newspaper, The Courier, has won an award for the best spot news picture of the year in a weekly newspaper.

The award was presented today by the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association in its annual convention at St. John, N.B.

The Lions Gate Times of West Vancouver was named the best community service newspaper among all Canadian weeklies.

PARKSVILLE — City council Monday gave three readings to a bylaw which will double the fine for littering.

Under the new bylaw the fine will be boosted from $50 to $100 or 30 days in jail.

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian band missionary, Father Joseph Rossiter, will leave Friday to take up his new position as missionary at Tahsis.

A member of the Oblate order, he was ordained at Ottawa eight years ago and came to the Cowichan district seven years ago.

PARKSVILLE — An RCMP search for a missing eight-year-old boy ended Tuesday when he was found on an old logging road seven miles from Little Qualicum Park.

Steward Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harris, who are visiting here from California, apparently walked the seven miles after wandering away from a family picnic in the park.

He was found at Dashwood near the Island Highway when a couple heard a voice crying: "Help, I'm lost."

The RCMP had earlier called out two tracking dogs and a search party from Coombs had already started when the boy was found.

Remand Granted In Hit-and-Run

NANAIMO — An 18-year-old Nanaimo girl, Vera Dayle Drake, was remanded for a week in custody when she pleaded guilty in Magistrate's court Tuesday to three charges arising from a hit and run accident.

Magistrate Stan Wardill will hear a probation report before passing sentence.

Miss Drake pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, failing to stop at a stop sign and driving without a licence.

Sooke Volunteers Fight Cottage Fire

Sooke volunteer firemen vainly battled a three-building fire at Gordon's Beach near Sooke about 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A cottage and a shed belonging to an Esquimalt couple, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McCuaig, and a neighboring boathouse were razed.

Mr. and Mrs. McCuaig, of 844 Carrie, had not been living at their summer residence, although they arrived there last night for a visit just as the fire was raging out of control.

Mrs. McCuaig said two boys had been living in a cabin next door.

Sooke RCMP have not made an estimate of the total damage.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Union Faces Setback

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada (Ind.) was blocked Tuesday from taking over bargaining rights of 400 workers at a Canadian Forest Products plant at Port Mellon on Howe Sound.

The union, which broke away from the International Brotherhood of Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (CLC), asked permission to withdraw its application after William Sands, chairman of the labor relations board said it had not recruited a majority of the workers.

The Canadian union is still seeking to take over bargaining rights for pulp workers at Prince George, Campbell River and Nanaimo.

Maple Bay Water Sports Start 10:30 a.m. Sunday

DUNCAN—The annual water sports at Maple Bay Sunday will start with a sailing race for ladies at 10:30 a.m.

This new event on the program will be followed by a mile swim, over a measured course staring at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Louise Hamilton, who has been teaching the youngsters at Maple Bay all summer, will be in charge of the swimming events.

A novelty balloon salvaging contest will be open to all boats, at 2 p.m.

Skippers will be at the yacht club, with sails in sail bags, for the starting signal.

At the gun they will rig their boats and proceed to sail about the bay picking up as many balloons as possible by 3:30 p.m. A power boat will drop the balloons at various points.

The swimming races for all ages will start at 2:30 p.m., with 15 events for swimmers six to 16 years, and open races and relays making a full program.

There will be prizes for all winners and a cup for the mile swim. Prize for the ladies sailing race — "the honor and perhaps a trophy."

Since very early days Maple Bay water sports has been a popular summer event, bringing people to the bay from all over the district. A program of swimming, diving and rowing races was held by the first aquatic club, founded in 1913.

Main event for the hardy swimmers was the race to the beach from Paddy's Milestone at the entrance to Maple Bay, an Irish mile away.

EARLY SHIFT IN WOODS

LAKE COWICHAN — Hillcrest Lumber Company logging division went on early shift Tuesday morning, starting work at 5 o'clock because of the heat and danger of fire in the woods.

The mill was due to close for annual holidays and refit Monday, but the sudden heat wave brought the decision to shut down this week, starting the holiday early.

Other logging operations in the Cowichan area also went on early shift during the week.

Steel Hike Sparks Rally

Triggered by Inland Steel's boost in steel prices (see Page 9) the New York market rallied for a solid gain in late trading today.

Inland and Bethlehem were up about a point, Jones and Laughlin two, U.S. Steel and Republic fractions.

Gains spread to many other sections of the list.

Industrials at Toronto slumped to their lowest level on index since June, 1964, in moderate mid-afternoon trading.

AT NEW YORK Xerox climbed nearly 7, Polaroid and IBM about 5 each.

Fairchild Camera rose nearly 7, Motorola 6, KLM and Northwest Airlines 4 each; Corning Glass 4.

The market rose from the start as Wall Street saw renewed inflationary implications in the steel price boost as well as in the large June gain in instalment buying.

AT TORONTO among issues that fell to 1966 lows were Alcan down ⅜ to 32⅝, Dominion Textile ½ to 27½ and Inco ⅝ to 92⅝. Inco slid 3¼ Tuesday after the company announced lower net earnings for the first six months of 1966 against the same period last year.

Western oils were fractionally lower with home B off ⅜ to 20½, Central Del Rio and Great Canadian Oil sends ⅛ each to 10 and 11.

Base metals were the only major group to show gains. Rio Algom and Cominco each advanced ½ to 27 and 40.

United Keno, which jumped 1.75 Tuesday, slid 95 cents to 7.85 in profit taking.

AT MONTREAL the market turned hesitant today and prices were irregularly lower.

Alcan retreated from its morning gain and was ½ point lower at 33. Steel of Canada slipped ⅜ to 22⅝. Salada Foods was down ⅜ to 10⅞ and Bank of Montreal the same fraction to 56½.

AT LONDON the market opened by resuming the rally which developed late Tuesday and many industrials were marked up by one shilling or so, but buyers did not follow through and gains were often reduced to a few pence.

Gilts, however, were quiet again.

Dollar stocks were usually easier. International Nickel was a dull spot. Other Canadian stocks moved narrowly, with Algoma, British-American Oil and Canadian Pacific a shade firmer and most others a little easier.

AT VANCOUVER, Cascade Moly rose five cents to a 1966 high of $1.78 as gains outnumbered losses in moderate trading on the mining section shortly before noon today.

Lornex put on 20 cents to $6.25, Nadina was up 21 cents to $2.20, Northlode increased 15 cents to $1.04 and Sileurian Chieftain gained 10 cents to 62 cents.

Firm Bids Construction For Rezoning

A rezoning application to Saanich seeks a retail sales and warehouse outlet near the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

It was filed by a real estate company on behalf of Farmer Construction for a site at Oak Street and Valley Avenue.

The application, which hasn't been processed for a public hearing, doesn't specify for whom the store is being built.

"It is for a client — I can't disclose his name," said George Farmer.

An earlier application for warehouse use only was turned down.

One rumor is that the client is Eaton's but this cannot be confirmed.

A bid by Dominion Construction to erect a warehouse-retail outlet for Eaton's on the east side of the 800 block Seymour behind Town and Country was rejected earlier by council.

But fresh plans were presented later and council agreed to hold another public hearing on the application, likely later this month.

Other new applications received by Saanich include a pet clinic at 1640 Cedar Hill Cross Road and a possible medical building at Tyndall and San Juan.

Big Shop Centre

EDMONTON (CP) — A Calgary developer, Stewart Green Properties Ltd., will build a $4,000,000 shopping centre here this summer, it has been announced. The all-enclosed centre will house 30 stores on 240,000 square feet.

Compulsory Arbitration Opposed

MONTREAL (CP) — Six Quebec locals of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) have declared their opposition to the federal government's proposal for compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.

The decision was made following a meeting of officers of the union's St. Lawrence Ports Council attended by Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress and Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, provincial affiliate of the CLC.

Mr. Jodoin said that during talks June 12 in Ottawa he had told federal ministers the CLC would not agree to binding arbitration.

Mr. Laberge said he would appeal later to all unions affiliated with the QFL to join the ILA in forming a united front against the federal government's stand.

RESIGNATION ASKED

During the meeting, representatives of 4,300 longshoremen in Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec City also called for the resignation of Dr. Laurent Picard as chairman of a compulsory arbitration board.

Mr. Laberge said he was "shocked" to learn that Labor Minister Nicholson is reported in Hansard July 14 to have told Parliament that binding arbitration was agreed to in principle in a private meeting June 12, the date on which a settlement of the lengthy longshoremen's strike in three St. Lawrence River ports was reached.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—All prices maintained a firm tone on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today in moderately active trading.

Some buying was evident in oilseeds following advances posted in Chicago soybean and continental linseed quotations.

Feed grains were active, with some domestic buying in barley touched off by unfavorable reports of crop conditions in Ontario.

Rye continued to draw attention with prices firm.

Lakehead prices for IWA class two and domestic wheat were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP)—A little talk of cashing had hit the grain futures market by early afternoon today and prices of most commodities had slipped somewhat from early highs.

However, brokers said there appeared to be a good deal of reluctance among speculators to press the selling hard. Corn still maintained fractional gains and soybeans were off only about a cent from earlier peaks.

Economic Boom Continues To Move at Sizzling Clip

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canada's economy is still booming despite the restraints imposed in the last budget, with the latest federal government survey showing multi-million dollar increases in investment plans for capital outlays for machinery and construction.

Finance Minister Sharp in his budget stressed he was preaching restraint to slow down the inflationary spiral. He said the situation called for the exercise of caution and the keynote was moderation. But his budgetary measures failed to cut back expenditures to the amount expected.

Present plans for both private and public investment in Canada in 1966 involved total outlays of $15,204,000,000 according to the mid-year review on private and public investment in Canada, issued Monday by Trade Minister Winters.

Such a program if carried through will be 17 per cent higher than the $12,798,000,000 spent for capital purposes in 1965.

The revised investment plans involve capital outlays for machinery of $5,629,000,000 and for construction of $9,395,000,000. Such amounts would be 22 per cent and 15 per cent respectively above those of last year.

The upward revisions in spending plans have occurred almost entirely in the business sector. These plans now provide for a 23 per cent increase over last year's expenditure compared with the 16 per cent rise anticipated in the earlier survey issued in March.

"This involves a sharper rise in such spending than occurred in either 1964 or 1965," said the report.

BOOST DEMANDS

Winters commenting on the findings of the survey said that the realization of the investment program outlined would add to the demands being placed upon the construction, materials and equipment producing industries.

The minister confirmed the view expressed in the report that, with these industries already operating at close to capacity limits, it seems unlikely that all programs now planned for 1966 will be fully achieved during this period.

Winters said, "the information revealed in this report underlines the need for restraints as was previously urged by the finance minister in his budget presentation."

The trade commerce's report said that if allowance is made for the rising prices in evidence for construction and capital goods, the increase planned in the volume of activity "is probably less than in either 1964 and 1965."

The latest survey was conducted in late May and June. It covered business establishments, institutions and all levels of government. The total figure also includes estimates outlays for housing.

The trade and commerce department said the results of the survey suggested that Canadian businessmen were making a strong effort to expand and modernize their productive facilities to meet the rising demands of domestic and foreign consumers.

"However the accomplishment of the present program would entail capital spending increasing sharply for the third consecutive year. This expansion has already placed pressures on the available supply of labor, materials and funds. This is evidenced by the rising costs of construction labor and investment funds in particular.

"At the present time the reserve of skilled and semi-skilled labor for the construction industry is considerably lower than it has been in recent years. Under such conditions the expansion programs now underway are susceptible to delays resulting from supply limitations," said the report.

GRAIN MOVEMENT

Railways Set All-Time Mark

TIMES OTTAWA BUREAU

OTTAWA — An all-time record for moving grain off the prairies has been set by the Canadian Pacific Railway for 1965-66 when it loaded 213,887 cars in the crop year ending July 31.

This was a record movement of 433,241,000 bushels of grain or 30,242,000 bushels higher than the previous record established in 1963-64. At that time 15,463 fewer cars were loaded.

The government owned railway Canadian National Railways loaded 191,744 cars with 379,774,000 bushels up to the end of July. Its previous records were 189,754 cars and 376,282,000 bushels in 1963-64.

Out of the huge total of 813 015,000 bushels moved by the two railways together in the crop year just ended the privately-owned CPR accounted for 53.3 per cent.

Government agriculture and transport officials praised the all-out effort of the railways in establishing the record shipments. The railways' movement of grain was far above commitments they made a year ago when the 1965 Russian sale was announced.

RENTED DIESELS

Despite shortages of locomotives the railways established the new records by renting diesels from a number of U.S. railroads. They also faced one of the most severe winters in recent years.

The problems which faced the railways roused considerable public criticism on more than one occasion over the past 12 months. There were fears that they were falling badly behind in moving the grain. These fears, it now devilops, were unfounded, officials pointed out here.

The two railways, at one point, had 82 diesels under lease from U.S. railroads to keep the grain moving. But the U.S. railroads facing traffic problems of their own, had to call back many of the diesels before the end of July.

This resulted in a decision by both railways to buy new locomotives. The CPR ordered 65 and the CNR 14.

The additional locomotive fleets are being acquired because of heavy export grain orders already contracted by the wheat board and because of the huge increase in domestic and export movements of other commodities.

Overall freight car loadings already this calendar year have soared more than 7 per cent from the previous year with some commodities, such as fertilizers, including potash, agriculture implements, auto products, lumber, newsprint, chemicals, and manufactured iron and steel products ranging up to 25 per cent higher.

Building Shows Gain

Building in Esquimalt is on the increase, with permits issued so far this year totalling more than double those in the same period in 1965.

In the first seven months of 1966, 111 building permits have been issued to the tune of $1,401,543. The 98 permits granted in the same period last year totalled $647,053.

The number of permits issued in July this year fell below the July 1965 number, although the building figure they represent was still "way up over last year."

Twenty-one permits were issued in July last year for $204,000, while only 16 were issued in July 1966, but totalling $296,490.

B.C. TEL NET INCOME SHOWS HEALTHY GAIN

B.C. Telephone Company announced Tuesday that net operating income for the six months ended June 30, 1966, was $11,036,098, an increase of almost 10 per cent over the $10,060,685 net for the similar period of 1965.

Total operating revenue, at $53,545,951, was up 14.3 per cent.

Net income available for ordinary shares was $1.94 per average share, compared with $1.75 for the first six months of 1965.

B.C. Telephone said 22,210 telephones were added in the six months to June 30, bringing the number in service to 731,774.

Steel Price Hike Raises Concern

WASHINGTON (AP)—Inland Steel Co. of Chicago boosted its prices for strip and sheet metal by $2 to $3 a ton Tuesday and top U.S. government officials immediately huddled to study the situation.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's council of economic advisers, summoned other officials for a strategy session shortly after Inland's announcement—which apparently caught the administration by surprise.

Asked later about the meeting, Ackley said the council is "studying" the situation but did not comment further.

Inland chairman Joseph L. Block announced the price increase—described by company officials as "moderate"—at the end of the business day. It was not immediately clear whether other big steel producers would follow Inland's lead.

In Pittsburgh Tusday night, U.S. Steel officials said they had no comment.

Asked if Inland would roll back its price increase if other firms didn't follow suit, Block said "we will have to."

Earlier this year, Inland became involved in a major clash between the industry and the Johnson administration prompted by Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s New Year's Eve announcement of a $5-a-ton increase for structural steel. Inland went along with the boost a few days later, but after U.S. Steel—under heavy administration pressure—announced only a $2.74 increase, both Inland and Bethlehem backed down.

The compromise, described by Johnson as within his wage-price guidelines, set off a stock market surge.

Home Building Continues

By AB KENT

Little sign of a housing slowdown due to tight money can be detected in Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. June statistics for Greater Victoria.

Construction figures supplied by the Crown corporation show there were 95 dwelling units started in June compared with 107 last June, with 924 started in the first half of 1966 against 752 in the period a year ago.

As of June 30 there were 1,208 units under construction, just 50 fewer that at that time in 1965.

During the first six months this year 814 units were completed in Greater Victoria compared with 1,530 in the same time last year. In June there were 30.

Victoria, with its seven organized areas, the Langford-View Royal unorganized area and Indian reserves, continued as the second largest growth area of the province ranking behind metropolitan Vancouver.

Prince George is third for housing expansion, remaining equal to its 1965 position when 1,173 units were started compared with 1,610 in Victoria and 11,684 in Vancouver.

Victoria registered fewer single or semi-detached or duplex construction starts in June than in the same month last year.

There were 69 compared with 92, but at the same time there were 26 row and apartment units commenced compared with 15 a year ago.

The six-month period also shows improvement over last year with 542 row and apartment units started, 172 more than the January-June period in 1965.

The same number of single, semi-detached or duplex starts was recorded for the first half this year as last — 382 units, 194 of them in Saanich.

Browse Through History

By ELIZABETH FORBES

It was quiet in University of Victoria McPherson Library when we visited there last night. Warm, too, with the after-heat of a perfect summer day.

Forbes

A few young men and women drifted here and there. Some bent over books where they sat at long tables. A handful of visitors wandered from room to room.

Over all was the peaceful somnolence of mid-year when there is time for browsing as well as for studying.

We had gone to the library to see a display that presents the development of printing in British Columbia.

Small in size but accurate in detail, this display pinpoints the work done on the first hand presses brought into the country.

It also shows the emergence of newspapers in the province and the gradual expansion that brought the mammoth presses of the present that whirl out news so fast it's on the street almost before it happens.

We looked at pictures of these present-day presses. Then we turned, almost in awe, to a pair of little hand presses that almost 100 years ago printed the first papers here.

One is an iron press of French make sent out to Modest Demers, Victoria's first Roman Catholic bishop, by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, in 1856. The other is a "Columbian" model, made by Harrild and Sons of London, England, and brought here by Col. Richard Moody of the Royal Engineers.

Both these presses made history. From the Demers' small hand-propelled rollers came two of the first newspapers in Victoria, the Victoria Gazette edited by Frederick Marriott and a French paper, Le Courrier de la Nouvelle Caledonie, both of which failed after a few issues.

In December that same year this press, so small we seemed to tower over it, rolled out the first copy of our present morning newspaper. (Copies of this first edition are being given as mementos of the display.)

When the publisher, a Nova Scotian who took the name of Amor de Cosmos, brought in a new cylinder machine in 1862, the Demers press briefly issued a rival paper before starting its travels throughout the interior of British Columbia.

By riverboat, mule and manpower it was transported first to the famed gold mining town of Barkerville where, in a small wooden shack next to the Wake Up Jake Saloon (now restored as an eating place), it turned out the first issue of the Cariboo Sentinel in 1865. Fifteen years later is ran off the first copy of The Inland Sentinel near Yale and four years from that time it rolled the initial issue of the Kamloops Sentinel.

Finally in the early years of the present century it was presented to St. Ann's Academy, the school its first owner, Bishop Demers, was instrumental in founding.

The Royal Engineers hand press, brought here in 1859, started what is now one of the most modern printing establishments in Western Canada.

Strange as it may seem to us now, this press and a few cases of type that went with it made up the first equipment used by the provincial government's printing bureau (forerunner of today's plant) when it was first set up. The bureau was housed at that time in one of the wooden buildings on Parliament Square, remembered as the "Bird Cages."

In this thoughtful display of the development of printing in British Columbia you will also find glass cases that present the evolution of engravings in the printing trade, the modern use of color, the printing of a book from manuscript to bound cover and along the walls, carefully selected pamphlets that record the history of the printed word.

It is well worth a visit, if only to etch in your minds the patience and perseverance of those who pioneered the printing industry in this province. The display will be on view until Aug. 19.

Not One Reason To Call Election

Officials of opposition parties laughed off Premier Bennett's suggestion that Ottawa-type chaos or B.C.-type stability will be the only issue if a provincial election is called soon.

Deputy NDP Leader Arthur Turner and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault both defied the statement in telephone interviews Tuesday from Vancouver.

Mr. Turner said the premier's statement "has made it clear that there is not one single reason to call an election this year.

"When the popularity of a leader is in danger then a scapegoat must be found. Ottawa is the bogeyman.

OBEDIENT CABINET

"Mr. Bennett and his obedient cabinet have continually pointed scornfully to Ottawa for failing this province but strangely enough the voters have consistently fought shy of sending a contingent of Socreds to the House of Commons."

Mr. Turner said the premier's statement, at a Socred anniversary celebration in Kelowna, "confirms the New Democratic Party position that an election this year is unnecessary. The people of B.C. are not demanding an election this year at best it could only satisfy the premier's personal whims."

Mr. Perrault said the premier was so wrapped up in his own glory that he seemed bent on "the most spurious election since the southseas bubble was launched."

SHOULD BE IN TORONTO

"He is involved in a binge of self-adulation when he should be down in Toronto with the other provincial premiers trying to find ways of getting a better deal for B.C.," Mr. Perrault said, referring to the premier's passing up of the annual premiers' conference in favor of the Socred celebration.

"He's paid in excess of $20,000 a year — not to engage in strawberry socials in Kelowna but to engage in carrying on the people's business with despatch and efficiency."

Mr. Perrault said there is no political chaos existing or threatening B.C. and Mr. Bennett has no excuse to call an election because he has not yet fufilled the mandate gained in 1963.

"It is characteristic of many aging regimes that they become more interested in perpetuating themselves in office than they are in the problems of the people and Premier Bennett is now studying the opinion polls on his own personal popularity instead of the many problems our people face despite prosperity.

"The premier is thoroughly in the hands of the image-makers and obsessed only that the history books treat him kindly.

"It's an unfortunate thing that the premier is preoccupied now only with making his place in history look good rather than the business of this province.

"His refusal to attend the premiers' conference was a shocking dereliction of duty and suggesting the disruptions of an election campaign would create chaos in the province.

"It's just not in the public interest to have this continual chase to the polls and people are tired of elections."

BLIND, PARALZED MAN WRITES BOOK

His Impressions of the World From a Bed

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Victoria man who is both blind and paralyzed is busy writing a book.

Norman Lidster has not seen or moved from his bed for more than 25 years. Yet in the quiet of his room at Mount St. Mary's Hospital he has so far dictated 215 typescript pages of his impressions and experiences into a tape recorder.

The recorder has to be manipulated by nurses and friends.

He listens intently to many radio programs and discusses them with remarkable perception. He is alternately critical and appreciative and he has no hesitation in saying that the CBC is way ahead of the commercial stations.

"They're doing a fine job of informing the public," he says. "They offer programs of every conceivable type and they generally get the best out of every subject they tackle.

"It is, of course, impossible to please everyone and some people think the CBC is too highbrow. If they would listen more often, I'm sure they would find otherwise."

Mr. Lidster, now 45, has been blind and paralyzed since he was 18. He has been a patient at Mount St. Mary's since 1948.

He describes his book as a symposium of impressions of all the people he has met and of the many ideas which have reached him by radio and from sound tapes sent him by enthusiasts and well-wishers.

IMPRESSIONS

Most of the tapes come from his father, H. Norman Lidster, former city clerk of New Westminster and still living there.

Since retirement, Mr. Lidster, Sr., has devoted himself to the study of sound. He has built up a huge collection of records of famous speaking voices and music of all kinds. He tapes extracts for his friends and travels around the countryside recording personalities and natural sounds.

"Dad sends me a tape every week," Norman Lidster said. "They're usually full of interest, with lots of variety. It's nice hearing from him this way."

STATELY TREES

When I called on Mr. Lidster, he was lying in a portable sloping bed under the stately trees outside Mount St. Mary's Hospital, across the road from Christ Church Cathedral, where he sometimes is taken.

He had just received a tape from his father and it included recorded selections from Beethoven and Rachmaninoff.

"Tell Dad the Beethoven is fine, he said, "but the Rachmaninoff doesn't come through so well — I think the tape must be slightly damaged."

Norman Lidster reads many talking books supplied on tape by the Canadian Institute for the Blind in Victoria.

"They've made a good investment for all the blind people of Canada," he said. "These talking books are fine. They are recorded by people who understand what they're reading and who know how to put it across."

Mr. Lidster reads about three books every two weeks. He enjoys all kinds of literature — biographies, commentaries on politics and government, histories of travel and adventure and modern novels — but his favorites are the old classics.

One particular favorite is the marathon novel Les Miserables by Victor Hugo — the tale of a policeman who pursues a man all over France for stealing a loaf of bread.

Didn't he find that depressing?

HUMAN SPIRIT

"No," said Mr. Lidster. "It's a story of conflict between the law and the human spirit. But the human spirit triumphs in the end. Do you find that depressing?"

Mr. Lidster also enjoys the Russian novels of Tolstoi and Turgenov.

"They have a deep melancholy but also a deep understanding of human nature and a great power of words, which comes through the translation."

When I left Mr. Lidster, he was still lying on his portable bed under the trees. But his face had a listening look and full song.

Unseeded Don Ousts Another Ranked Player

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's down to business today for the 50-odd remaining players in the Canadian lawn tennis championships.

Two days of fierce competition whittled the field down from 157 starters and only the experienced players are left. Even some of those have fallen by the wayside.

Three seeded American men were dropped to consolation play in upsets Tuesday, the second of the six-day tournament.

A blistered foot continued to give top-seeded Canadian Mike Belkin of Toronto trouble Tuesday and he had a tough time turning back Tom Muench of Sacramento, Calif., 6-0, 9-7 in third round play.

Belkin, a member of the Canadian Davis Cup team, was expected to provide tough competition later in the tournament for top-seeded foreign entry Allen Fox of Los Angeles, but he may be forced to default the rest of his matches if the blisters don't improve.

PLAY 40 GAMES

Third seed Keith Carpenter of Montreal, another Davis Cup team member, needed 40 games to defeat unranked Ken Stuart of Los Angeles 14-12, 8-6 in third round play.

Sixth foreign seed Steve Wilkinson of Bellingham, Wash., was eliminated 6-1, 6-2 by Toronto's Max Ward in the second round.

Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver, a Davis Cup team member, put away the seventh-seeded visitor, Bob Murio of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-4.

Eighth-seeded foreigner Joe Huey of Los Angeles was the other seeded player to be eliminated when he lost 6-1, 6-0 to Victoria's Don McCormick.

In Monday's opening round McCormick topped the top-seeded senior Clyde Knox of Portland, Ore., 6-1, 7-5.

Faye Urban of Windsor, Ont., the top-seeded Canadian woman, and top-seeded foreign woman Rita Bentley of Manchester, England, easily advanced in second round matches Tuesday.

DOWN U.S. OPPONENTS

Miss Urban, a member of the Canadian Federation Cup team, defeated Jo-Ann Fraley of Long Beach, Calif., 6-1, 6-2. Miss Bentley edged Hedy Jackson of Portland, Ore., 7-5, 6-3.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, seeded second among the Canadians, advanced to third round play with a 6-2, 6-0 win over Calgary's Bill Spiers.

Fox beat Art Jeffrey of Vancouver 6-2, 6-0 and second-seeded foreigner Allen Stone of Australia defeated Vancouver's Ken Dahl 6-2, 7-5.

The top-seeded men's doubles team of Bedard and Don Fontana of Toronto took their second round match 6-4, 6-1 against Geoff Dyer and Rick Borland, both of Winnipeg.

The top-seeded mixed doubles team of Stone and Miss Bentley scored a 6-2, 6-2 first-round victory over Ken Dahl and Gillian Theobald, both of Vancouver.

'O-O-O-OH! FEELS SO GOOD!'

Doing what comes naturally, Hedy Jackson, of Portland, Ore., dips toes in pool after torrid singles match in Canadian lawn tennis championships in Vancouver. Hedy lost to top-seeded foreigner, Rita Bentley, of Manchester, England, 7-5, 6-3. (CP Wirewhoto.)

Rocks Still Resisting Drop Over Precipice

Victoria Shamrocks continue to teeter on the precipice, but they haven't yet gone over.

Rocks must win every one of their four remaining games while their foes lose if Victoria is to gain a playoff berth in the Intercity Lacrosse League.

Right now Rocks are the hottest thing on wheels. They have won six out of their last nine. Except for a horrendous first half they would be rubbing shoulder blades with the leaders.

For the first time in weeks Rocks will be at full strength tonight when Coquitlam Adanacs come to Memorial Arena at 8 p.m.

Ron Jay has recovered from a virus and Bill Munroe appears fit after a rib injury.

Battle for 880 Gold Medal Could Be Classic Struggle

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP) — Track buffs are touting the British Empire Games 880 as a classic race when atheletes from 35 countries get down to business Thursday for the five-day jamboree to settle the greatest runners, throwers, vaulters and jumpers in the Commonwealth.

The word is out to watch Canada's Bill Crothers against a great field in the 880. Crothers, of Markham, Ont., holds the Canadian record of 1:46.8 for the half mile.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the winner hits the tape in under 46 seconds," Crothers said Tuesday.

That would shatter the 1:47.3 Games record set by Peter Snell of New Zealand in the 1962 Games at Perth.

Crothers, by his own admission, has stressed that he's only out for the win and will let the time of the race look after itself.

One of the first to agree with the bespectacled pharmacist is George Kerr, a soft-spoken 28-year-old Jamaican whose career dates back to the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne.

This will be Kerr's seventh appearance in top international competition.

Kerr, an entomologist, tipped his hand when he said he will compete only in the 880. He has won eight medals — four gold, two-second place silver and two third-place bronze — in both the 440 and the 880 in previous games.

Heats in the 880 are Saturday with finals set for Monday night.

These games, Kerr said Tuesday, will be his last and he is determined to go out a winner before the partisan hometown crowd.

"There's an edge running before people who are with you," he said. "It give a guy lost of encouragement. I like to know people are behind me, especially in this race because I am going to pack it up after these games."

IS A FIERCE FOE

But whether Kerr can mount the winners' rostrum is another question for the brittle 155-pound athlete, who is known as one of the fiercest competitors in the world.

"Everybody's got elbows going in the race and I've made it a practice never to let anybody push me around.

"If somebody kicks me, I will kick them right back. I learned my lesson in the 1960 Olympics in Rome when some guy almost cracked my ribs — it was Roger Moens of Belgium.

"But in this race I do not see anybody in there who will knock another guy around."

Maybe they won't try to push him around, but Kerr realizes he will be running against some of the best 880 men in the world.

Besides Crothers, who went 1:47.3 on July 23 in Toronto, there's Kenyan Wilson Kiprigut, bronze medalist in the 800 metres at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics; England's John Boulter and Chris Carter and probably some comparative unknown who could surprise.

Boutler topped Commonwealth ratings this year with 1:47.2 and Carter was just a tenth of a second behind.

Hero-Catcher Hank Gowdy Dead at 76

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hank Gowdy, 76, one of baseball's all-time great catchers and hero of the 1914 World Series, died Monday in Mt. Carmel hospital after a long illness.

Gowdy, with the miracle Boston Braves who came from eighth place July 4 to win the National League pennant, batted .545 as his club upset Connie Mack's great Philadelphia Athletics in four straight series games.

He was also the first major leaguer to volunteer for service when the United States entered the First World War.

Chuvalo Will Fight

MONTREAL (CP) — George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion, has signed with Montreal promoter Johnny Rougeau for a 10-round bout against Mel Thurnbull of Paterson, N.J., here Tuesday, Aug. 16.

Nancy's A Thrush Nowadays

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP-AP) — Canada's shot put and discus star, Nancy McCredie, says she will be glad when the current British Empire Games are over and she retires from active competition.

"I just can't get keyed up for competition any more and I know when that happens it's time to quit," she said.

"I just can't work up any enthusiasm for training and even then there are only a few meets in Canada one can get to. The best competitions are out of Canada and how do you get to them?

"Lately, I have been singing with the Benny Louis orchestra in Toronto and you could say singing has taken the place of athletics for me.

"Nothing has really gone right since my arrival. For instance, the day we arrived I did something to the ligaments in my right knee and it still aches. I'll be glad when the thing's over."

The five-foot, 10-inch secretary to a Brampton, Ont., real estate developer, holds the Canadian open and native discus with 169 feet, 3½ inches and the Canadian open and native shot put with 52 feet, 62 inches.

She began throwing events when she was 15 and won a school discus throw at 97 feet. She didn't know what it was, but told her parents "It's round and you throw it."

SOME SUITOR —BOLD LAD'S FEE $10,000

SARATOGA, N.Y. (AP) — Bold Lad, 1964 juvenile thoroughbred champion whose three-year-old season was ruined by bone chips, will be retired to stud.

Ogden Phipps, the owner, made the announcement after Bold Lad had gone through an unsuccessful workout.

Bold Lad, who has earned $156,465, will stand at Claiborne Stud in Kentucky at a fee of $10,000 for a live foal.

Russian Cracks World Record

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Semen Belits-Geiman, 21, a Moscow student, today broke the world swimming record for 800 metres with a time of eight minutes, 47.4 seconds, Tass news agency said.

The previous record was established by Murray Rose of Australia at Los Altos, Calif., in August, 1962, with a time of eight minutes 51.5 seconds.

Denfords Win Junior Crown

Denford Electric swept the best-of-three Junior Men's Softball League final in two straight games Tuesday with a 6-5 eight-inning victory over Morrisons.

Denfords now have a bye into the B.C. final to be played in Victoria Aug. 13 and 14.

Morrisons and Esquimalt, beaten two straight by Denford in the local semis, now enter the Island junior softball event at View Royal Park Saturday and Sunday.

Mengert Again Trims Par by Four Strokes

TACOMA (AP) — Steady Al Mengert fired his second four under-par 68 in a row Tuesday to take over a slim lead in the 57th Northwest Open Golf Tournament.

The host pro and five birdies and his first bogey of the tourney as he toured the 6,375-yard Tacoma Country and Golf Club course in search of the championship he first won in 1952 as a Spokane amateur.

Richland's Tom Everham, whose 66 was best for the day, had an eagle 3 on the second hole, six birdies and two bogeys as he moved into third place with a 138.

Ted Denham of Ft. Lewis was in second. He shot a 67 for a 137 total.

VOLLMER SLIPS

Collegians Elwin Fanning of Seattle and Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver, who shot 66s for the first round lead, slipped to 73s in the second to wind up tied for fourth.

Defending champion Jim Peterson of Hillsboro, Ore., fired a 69 to finish six strokes off the pace with 142. At 143 were Lyle Crawford of Vancouver and Portland's Bruce Cudd.

The low 50 pros and 30 amateurs and ties battled for the crown in today's two rounds.

AMATEURS TO HEAR . . . . . . PLAN IN AUGUST

NHL Has 'Quite a Proposal'

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said Tuesday his organization "will have quite a proposal" for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association when the relations committees of both groups meet here Aug. 18.

The two governing bodies will attempt to renegotiate the pro-amateur agreement at the one-day meeting.

The NHL president said further meetings likely will be held later this year, but the initial session will discuss "the full gamut of the agreement."

The current agreement expires June 30, 1967, and will have run nine of the proposed 10 years by then.

At last year's annual meeting in Victoria, the CAHA voted to end the agreement. However, the contract contained a clause which called for two years' notice of termination by either party, thus holding the CAHA to the agreement until June of next year.

At this year's annual meeting, the CAHA executive asked permission of the general membership to submit proposals to the NHL with an eye to renegotiation.

The controversy hinges on the distribution of funds paid by the NHL for amateurs drafted to professional ranks, and sponsorship of amateur clubs by the pros.

Poor Grant—'Peg Second-Half Duds

Only Good First Half 'Saves' 'Em Against Eskies

By Walter Krevenchuk

WINNIPEG (CP)—Bud Grant is going to investigate Winnipeg Blue Bombers' inability to score a touchdown in the second half of a Western Football Conference game Tuesday night.

"I want to know the reason," the coach said following the Bombers' 26-7 conquest of Edmonton Eskimos before 15,112 fans.

It wasn't needed, but Grant wanted the touchdown to pad a 23-0 lead.

The second-half stand and fleet halfback Jim Thomas salvaged some pride out of an otherwise inept Eskimo effort.

With seconds to go, Thomas ran 100 yards for a touchdown. Tommy-Joe Coffey kicked the convert.

TIED FOR FIRST

The Bombers pulled alongside Saskatchewan Roughriders in first place, crushing the rookie-burdened Eskimos with passes. The Riders did the same —five touchdown passes—in a 40-13 triumph Friday night which started the 1966 WFC season.

Kenny Ploen threw Bombers into range for two of three touchdowns in the second quarter: Dave Raimey got one, Ken Nielsen the other.

Norm Rauhaus got the third, pouncing on a loose ball when Eskimo Garry LeFebvre fumbled a punt in the end zone.

Norm Winton's perfection on converts and his unsuccessful field-goal-try single, Ed Ulmer's two punt singles and Bob Taylor's safety-touch tackle of Eskimo quarterback Bill Redell wrapped up Winnipeg scoring.

Ploen, who ceded his signal-calling chores to Dick Thornton in the final minutes, completed 16 of 26 passes for 246 yards.

RAIMEY GOES OVER

Leo Lewis caught Ploen's dump pass in the last minute of the first quarter and slipped 28 yards down the left side to the Edmonton 19-yard line. Within seconds, Raimey had twisted 12 yards for a touchdown.

In the 13th minute of the second quarter Billy Cooper, the WFC's top rookie in 1964, outpaced Eskimos' Art Johnson for a back-pedalling catch of Ploen's 48-yard toss. Working from the Edmonton 10-yard line, Ploen found Nielsen with a scoring strike.

In the first 59 minutes the Eskimos, breaking in 15 rookies in a bid to escape from last place, managed to penetrate Winnipeg territory only twice.

Ulmer was a thorn in their side, intercepting two passes and four times holding Eskimo rushes to short yardage. But the former Ottawa Rough Rider was also the man who failed to hold on to Thomas on the last-second romp.

Kansas A's Ink 'Loser' Knowles

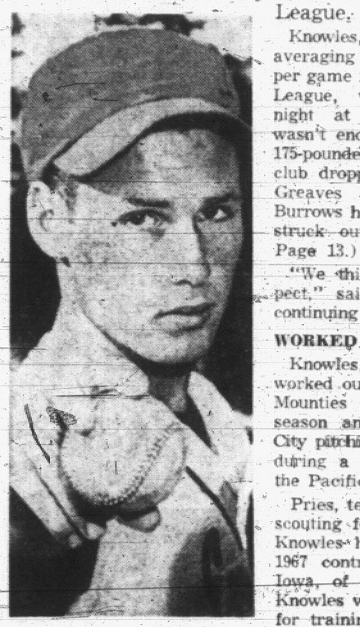
John Knowles was a losing pitcher Tuesday night but that didn't worry Don Pries.

Pries, playing-manager with Victoria Tyees in the former Western International Baseball League, today signed the hard-throwing Victoria righthander to a contract with Kansas City Athletics of the American League.



JOHN KNOWLES

Knowles, who has been averaging about 16 strikeouts per game in the Senior Amateur League, whiffed 18 Tuesday night at Hampton Park. It wasn't enough. The 17-year-old, 175-pounder and his King's Hotel club dropped a 4-2 decision to Greaves Movers as Don Burrows hurled a one-hitter and struck out 16. (See story on Page 13.)

"We think he's a fine prospect," said Pries, "and he is continuing to make progress."

WORKED WITH MOUNTIES

Knowles, of 930 Inverness, has worked out with the Vancouver Mounties in Vancouver this season and impressed Kansas City pitching coach Bill Posedel during a training session with the Pacific Coast League club.

Pries, territorial supervisor of scouting for the Athletics, said Knowles has been signed to a 1967 contract with Burlington, Iowa, of the Midwest League. Knowles will report next spring for training with the KC farm clubs at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Wilson Blasts Luckies' Hopes

Catcher Jim Wilson smacked a one-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning at Heywood Avenue Park Tuesday night to give McLarens a 7-6 overtime victory over Luckies.

Wilson's clutch blast assured McLarens of at least a tie for the fourth and final Senior Men's Softball League playoff spot.

The loss dropped Luckies out of the pennant race and ensured Carlings of the league championship and an automatic entry into the B.C. playoffs.

DOUBLE PLAY

McLarens jumped to a three-run lead in the first inning. Luckies answered with a run in the top of the third and only a slick double play by third-baseman Bob Lowe kept Luckies from scoring again in that frame. McLarens' hot corner expert scooped up a sharp grounder with the bases loaded, stepped on third for a force-out and faked a throw to the plate that sent the runner from third charging back into Lowe's tag.

McLarens held a 6-2 lead in the top of the seventh but Luckies scored four times on five hits to force the game into extra innings.

Dennis Beaulac and Rick Rawnsley pitched scoreless ball in the eighth and McLarens' Beulac blanked Luckies again in the top of the ninth before Wilson broke the tie in the bottom half of the inning.

Canadian Ruths Trim Idaho Club

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Portland and New Westminster scored victories here Tuesday in the Babe Ruth Regional Baseball Tournament.

Portland edged South Seattle, Wash., 3-0 and the Canadians slammed Idaho 12-2.

New Westminster gathered 10 hits and Idaho committed four errors. Idaho was behind 3-0 after the first inning and 6-1 after the second.

Bottlers Battle 'Phones for Titles

Two top clubs will battle it out for the Commercial Softball League crown tonight at Macdonald Park at 6:45 in the last game of the regular schedule.

B.C. Telephone, which has led the league all season, holds a 15-3-1 record while Victoria Bottle Exchange takes a 15-4 record into the contest.

FIGHT RESULTS

EDMONTON—Billy McGrandle, 124½, Edmonton, outpointed Rocky McDougall, 125, Sydney, N.S., 12. McGrandle retained Canadian featherweight title.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Jimmy Ralston, 167½, Buffalo, N.Y., outpointed Billy Tiger, 177, Miami, 10.

Two Tussles For City Club

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—Carnarvon All-Stars of Victoria played their first game this morning in the sectional Pony League baseball playoff.

The Carnarvon club, which won the B.C. Pony League title in Victoria last weekend, met Pinto, Ore., this morning and will take on the host Walla Walla club at 7:30 p.m.

Walla Walla edged Pinto 5-3 Tuesday night to win the tournament opener.

The playoff winner will advance to the regional championships to be played in Hawaii starting Saturday.

Blasingame Deal Helps Mounties

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A three-player shift in which Kansas City Athletics acquired veteran infielder Don Blasingame from Washington Senators was announced Tuesday by the Kansas City club.

The Athletics sent righthanded pitcher Jim Duckworth, 26, to Honolulu of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for pitcher Diego Segui, 28, a righthander formerly with the Athletics, who was sent to Vancouver of the same league. Honolulu is a Washington farm club and Vancouver is the Kansas City farm system.

Wynn Injured Chasing Fly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Centre fielder Jim Wynn of Houston Astros crashed into the centre field fence Monday night and suffered either a fractured elbow or left arm.

Dr. James Walker, Philadelphia team physician, sent Wynn to hospital for X-rays, but it appeared the hard-hitting Astros' outfielder is through for the season.

Grady Hatton, Houston manager, said Wynn was the 11th member of the club to suffer a serious injury and Wynn's loss virtually finished the Astros' hopes of gaining a first division berth for the first time in the club's history.

Jonathan Gets Favorable Call

Don Leo Jonathan defeated Dutch Savage on a disputed call by referee Sandor Kovacs in the last bout of a professional wrestling program at Memorial Arena Tuesday.

In other fights, John Tolos beat Paddy Barrett, Roy McClarty won over Gorilla Marconi, Paul de Gaulle and Paul Jones fought to a draw and Eric Froelich pinned Red McNulty.

JUAN MARICHAL . . . what a relief!

Marichal-Mota 'Reunion' Gives Giants a Big Lift

Associated Press

Juan Marichal and Manny Mota, whose last get-together gave San Francisco a big scare, have held a long-distance reunion . . . and given the Giants a big lift.

Pittsburgh's Mota, a former Giant outfielder who inadvertantly put Marichal out of action a week ago, doubled home an eighth inning run Tuesday night that gave the Pirates a 6-5 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Marichal, meanwhile, made his first appearance for the Giants since Mota slammed a car door on his pitching hand and beat New York Mets 5-4 for his 17th victory, tying the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax for the major league lead.

The San Francisco victory and Los Angeles defeat sent the Giants back into first place in the tight National League race, one game ahead of the Dodgers and Pirates.

Mota and Marichal, longtime friends from the Dominican Republic, got together a week ago after a Giants-Pirate game. The middle finger on Marichal's right hand was gashed and the Giant ace missed his next starting turn.

ENDS MET RALLY

Marichal came out of the bullpen in the eighth inning Tuesday night to choke off a Met rally and pick up the decision in his first relief venture of the year.

The Giants had gone through five pitchers when Marichal got the call.

Mota, whose .350 average leads the league but who has not batted enough times to qualify, also was a late-inning replacement Tuesday night. He failed as a pinch hitter in the sixth inning but came through with the deciding hit off reliever Ron Perranoski after a single, a sacrifice and a walk set the stage in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati Reds beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-3, Philadelphia Phillies edged Houston Astros 4-3 and Chicago Cubs topped Atlanta Braves 6-5 in 12 innings.

SOUND ADVICE

Charlie Dressen had some fatherly advice for Denny McLain—Stop throwing curves.

McLain took the advice and stayed out of trouble for the first time in three weeks, pitching a four-hitter Tuesday night as Detroit Tigers defeated Chicago White Sox 5-0.

McLain, 22, the Tigers' ace right-hander, hadn't won a game since the All-Star game July 12 when he hurled three perfect innings as the American League's starting pitcher.

Since then, McLain has been battered for 19 runs in 18 1-3 innings — that's an earned run average of 9.34—while dropping four straight games.

Dressen, the Detroit manager recuperating from an early season heart attack, phoned McLain Tuesday.

"He told me to quit fooling around with the curve ball or else I'd be right back where I started," McLain said after blanking the White Sox.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore trimmed Cleveland Indians 8-6, California Angels edged New York Yankees 6-5 in 11 innings, Minnesota Twins downed Boston Red Sox 7-3 and Kansas City Athletics nipped Washington Senators 4-3.

Young Hurlers Strike Out 34

Daring base running and the strong arm of a young pitcher carried Greaves Movers to a 4-2 win over Kings Hotel Tuesday night at Hampton Park and fanned pennant hopes of the Movers.

Bob Burrows, 19, handled pitching chores for the winners. The big righthander used an effective curve with his smoking fastball to strike out 16 batters and hold Kings to one hit.

Burrows walked nine, yielding three bases on balls in the first inning when two runners scored on Dennis Thompson's ground single.

Loser John Knowles, 17, was almost as tough. Knowles fanned 18 and walked six. Greaves collected only four hits off the flamethrowing youngster but ran the bases with reckless abandon. Greaves stole nine bases and aggressive running forced Kings into three throwing errors.

WINNING RUN

Kings could do nothing to stop speedy Bob Moysey on the basepaths. Moysey stole second base twice on pitchouts and scored on a short overthrow after stealing third. Moysey scored the winning run in the sixth when Dave Rivers' sinking line drive got past leftfielder Dennis Thompson for a double.

Les Brice was a constant threat for Greaves at the plate and on the bases. The classy first baseman stroked a double and a run-scoring single and stole two bases. Brice came home with the tying run in the sixth after Knowles threw the ball away attempting to force Brice at second base on Bob Lumley's grounder.

Brice streaked to third and kept right on going, forcing shortstop Tony Cosier to make a relay throw to the plate. The throw fell short and bounced away to let Brice score.

PORTS PLAY ONE MORE

Greaves now trail pace-setting Transports by a game and a half. Transports have one game left. Greaves have four left to play, but two of them are against tough Courtenay.

Kings have fallen to a game and a half behind Rawlings in the fight for the fourth playoff spot.

Kings 200 000 00—2 1 4
Bob Burrows 2-0 and Bob Lumley; John Knowles 4-9 and Brian Grexton, Gary Bishop (8).

IN CANADIAN SHOOT

Bisley Rifle King Stays on Target

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Dick Hampton of Alliston, Ont., continued his red-hot shooting at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships Tuesday with a victory over eight rivals in a shoot-off for top honors in the difficult Bankers match.

The burly 52-year-old securities salesman, who retired from the army a few years ago with the rank of major, won the top event in Commonwealth shooting—The Queen's Prize at Bisley, England—less than a month ago and already has finished second in one event and third in another in the DCRA matches in addition to winning the Bankers.

The nine Bankers finalists were forced to shoot 600 yards into a stiff wind that blew straight toward them off the government's mile-wide Connaught Range near this community west of Ottawa.

It took Hampton three shots beyond the regulation five to defeat a determined bid by Larry Fish of Oakville in the shoot-off. Each had a score of 24 out of 25 and together with John Whitecross of Winnipeg they continued to shoot it out.

Hampton and Fish had four-point inners on their first two shots while Whitecross went to the sidelines with an inner followed by a three-point magpie.

On the third extra shot Hampton scored a bullseye while Fish had to settle for another inner.

MATCHES POSTPONED

The tough Gatineau match was postponed Tuesday afternoon to today because rain created a haze that prevented marksmen from setting their sights properly on targets 1,000 yards away.

The match, first event to be cancelled because of weather conditions in several years, does not count toward the Bisley aggregate but is considered a demanding test of skill, particularly if weather conditions are adverse.

The Buell cadet team match, one of two major team matches Tuesday in which eight-man teams of army cadets shoot at distances ranging from 100 to 500 yards, also was postponed.

The other major team event, the Coates match, was won by a four man team of veterans representing the King's Own Calgary Rifles.

California Skip Gains Rinks Semis

In the second game of the night, Ingraham Raiders tied Tudor Monarchs 2-2.

WILLS MAY MAKE SHIFT TO THIRD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Maury Wills, the base-stealing shortstop of Los Angeles Dodgers, says he may have to play third base for the rest of the National League season.

Wills played third Monday night in Pittsburgh for the first time in two years because of his twisted, swollen and heavily bandaged right knee. John Kennedy was at shortstop most of the game.

It long has been manager Walt Alston's feeling that Wills could prolong his baseball career by shifting to third base but any such decision is a matter of time and the condition of the knee.

A club spokesman said, it now is obvious that Wills can not move as swiftly in either direction as when he is sound and that playing third enables him to favor the right knee more than when he's playing shortstop.

HOME GARDEN

No Reason to Lack Color in Shrub Area

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

In this Victoria area we find it unfortunate that many gardeners apologize for lack of color in their gardens during the month of August, especially when they depend mainly on shrubs.

We all know that for quantities of color which can be seen from a distance, either annuals or perennials must be used, but from a labor saving shrub garden there can still be color if the choice is carefully made.

ADD THREE MORE

Some of the late summer blooming, easily grown shrubs have already been described in this column — Hypericum forrestii, the buddleias (or Butterfly-bush) and spartium (or Spanish-broom) are three dealt with recently—now we would like to add eucryphia, escallonia and potentilla.

The least often seen in gardens is probably eucryphia, of which two are known here, one is Eucryphia glutinosa introduced into England from Chile over 100 years ago, and the garden hybrid or cultivar known as Eucryphia nymansay.

The latter is perhaps the easier to raise here, for I have seen it in flower during August and September, a tall, branching evergreen shrub. E. nymansay is not particular about soil, though it must be well-drained in winter.

SLOWER GROWING

E. glutinosa is slower growing, and does indeed prefer an acid, peaty soil to hold moisture in summer, and some little shade from the hottest sunshine.

Both have flowers of pure white, saucer-shaped with prominent stamens, borne on the tip of each branch.

Escallonias are quite commonly seen in this area, their dark green shiny little leaves and small tubular flowers of either pale pink, rosy pink or red being quite decorative at various times from early June through to September. The many varieties will cover the whole summer period.

The shrubby potentillas (or Cinquefoil) add quite a different note since their foliage is sparse, and the single rose-type blossoms may be clear yellow, golden orange or pure white.

These do their best in a completely sunny, rather gravelly spot, and will then be in bloom from mid-June through most of September.

Man, 73, Won't Need Clock in Jail

Charles Eugene Simard of no fixed address won't need a clock radio where he's going.

The 73-year-old transient added the theft of a clock radio worth $39.95 from Eaton's Home Furnishings and Appliance Store July 20 to an impressive list of nine previous theft convictions.

Evidence in magistrates court Tuesday revealed that he had lifted the brand-new unwrapped radio from a sales counter in the store and walked out the door.

When a bartender later demanded collateral for a $10 loan Simard wanted he left the bar for a half-hour and came back with the radio.

"It's a classic case," magistrate William Ostler reproved the bartender. "A man who's been drinking goes out and brings back a stolen article.

"I am surprised that didn't seem suspicious to you as a sophisticated and apparently experienced bartender."

Simard's plea that he was just an old man and knew nothing about the affair was rejected by the magistrate who handed him a six-month jail sentence commenting "You may be old but you're an agile thief."

Square Men Want More Tourists

Merchants in Centennial Square are not satisfied with the flow of pedestrian traffic through the city centre beauty spot.

They have asked city council to try to come up with some ideas to guide tourists away from the Causeway and into the Square area.

Tuesday the Victoria public works committee agreed to spend $600 to install models of Centennial and Bastion Squares in the Causeway area to direct people to the beauty spots.

The plastic-domed models will be installed alongside the Victoria Visitors' Bureau.

All merchants in Centennial Square have agreed to chip in $25 towards the cost.

Judge Criticizes Secrecy Limits

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has been lectured on the limits of secrecy in a democracy and his department ordered to pay almost double its offered price on a piece of expropriated property in Saanich.

County Court Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake, appointed by the cabinet as an arbitrator in the dispute, this week set $40,750 as the price to be paid for 7½ acres of woodland south of Cordova Bay Road and east of Santa Clara Avenue.

The department refused to pay more than $21,500 when it expropriated the land last November for highway purposes.

Real estate agents Morris Lund and Clarence Pullan declined the offer and produced three independent appraisers at the hearing who evaluated the land at between $40,000 and $42,000 as subdivision potential.

Judge Drake noted the realtors obtained the property for $18,000 in 1965, after trying unsuccessfully to buy it the two previous years, and they did not find out it was on a proposed highway route until they tried to subdivide it.

Despite several efforts to find out what Mr. Gaglardi planned to do, they did not learn anything until the land was taken from them by the department.

Judge Drake said Mr. Gaglardi undoubtedly wanted to keep the property acquisition as secret as possible for fear of raising all land prices along the proposed highway route but he went about it the wrong way.

"It can only be said the expropriation proceedings (of which this arbitration is a part) are the limit beyond which secrecy is impossible," Judge Drake's decision said.

"Cats can best be kept in bags by negotiation and compromise."

Remanded for Report In Theft of Samples

John Maxim, 724 Yates, who Tuesday in magistrate's court admitted stealing a pharmaceutical supply salesman's bag Monday has been remanded in custody to Aug. 9 for a pre-sentence report.

Charged with theft over $50, Maxim was found by Victoria City Constable Frederick Beard holding the bag in a taxi after taking it from McGill & Orme Drug Store, Cook and Pandora.

The bag, valued at $60, contained antibiotics, pens and magnifying glasses.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Thursday and Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Thursday and Friday, August 4-5.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist Mr. John Arthur to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Arthur will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Hotel Sussex.

EXAMINE YOU FREE

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Arthur," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

OFFERS NO CURE-ALL

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

SATISFY 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Arthur in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex between 1 p.m and 8 p.m. for Mr. Arthur's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Theatre Groups Aided By Canadian Council

OTTAWA (CP)—Grants totalling $300,000 to six Canadian theatre groups were announced Tuesday by the Canada Council.

The largest, $95,000, goes to the Manitoba Theatre Centre of Winnipeg to help with its six major productions of the season. The grants will also help finance a tour by two city school companies.

The Vancouver Theatre Centre receives $60,000 for the 1966-67 season and $5,000 for a tour of a major production.

A total of $22,000 also goes to the Dominion Drama Festival.

Collections Stolen

NEW YORK (AP)—A burglar forced his way into a Brooklyn home Sunday and looted two safes containing a stamp collection valued at more than $67,000 and a coin collection valued at between $7,000 and $10,000, police reported. The owner was John Roman, a dealer in used machinery.

At the Movies

With

Norman Cribbens

THE KNACK
Offbeat Sex Comedy
Coronet Theatre

Director Richard Lester caught the spirit of Beatlemania in his film of the famous British Beatles, A Hard Day's Night.

He sails into The Knack, an offbeat British sex comedy, with the same kind of bare-fisted boldness, but with rather too much gimmickry. The movie is inventive and often hilarious. The characters flitter back and forth in the modern cinematic idiom and the cameras get up to all kinds of tricks.

Sometimes the action freezes into a still photo (as in the fabulous Tom Jones), or a scene is run backwards for effect.

The dialogue moves at such a fast clip that persons unacquainted with London accents have difficulty comprehending some of it. However, the talk is secondary to the acting and the camera work.

The story, based on a farcical play by Ann Jellicoe, tells of a provincial lass (Rita Tushingham) who goes to London, wanders the grey streets looking for the YWCA and stumbles into a house occupied by three odd-ball bachelors.

One is an amorous pipsqueak (Ray Brooks) who boasts of his knack of "making it" with the other sex. The second is a pallid, reticent schoolteacher (Michael Crawford) for whom the way of a wolf with a maid seems beyond reach. The third (Donald Donnelly) is a simple eccentric who enjoys painting the walls of his room a virginal white.

The amorous pipsqueak demonstrates the art of wooing the provincial lass in front of his admiring companions, but is only partially successful. He then takes her out on the pillion of his motor cycle and the streets of London are enlivened by their antics.

Finally he gets her alone in a riverside park, but again, nothing turns out as planned. The girl faints when the wolf approaches her and on recovering consciousness imagines she has been raped.

The consequences are hilarious and the whole thing moves at the pace of a nightmare.

'Statistics Favor Fluorides'

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The head of the state department of health's dental section said Tuesday actual dental statistics favor water fluoridation where school age children in the state are concerned.

Dr. Olin E. Hoffman, head of the dental health section, said examination of more than 50,000 children throughout the state during the past 15 years provides strong evidence in support of fluoridation programs.

Surveys showed natural fluorides in the Columbia River basin area provide a 40-60 per cent reduction in the number of decayed teeth.

Dr. Hoffman said up to 65 per cent erduction in decayed teeth has been achieved in cities and towns throughout the state where the water supply has been adjusted to one part per million of fluoride.

BEBE EVERSFIELD

Bebe, designer and choreographer of the Butchart Gardens' sparkling stage revue "JUST FOR FUN", hails from New Zealand and spent her theatrical career in Londan, England. Studying classical ballet under many of the great teachers of Europe, at the age of fourteen she became ballerina of the Kyosht Russian Ballet until a foot injury resulted in a change to less demanding musical comedy. Two years in leading roles in productions at His Majesty's Theatre, London, were followed by film work, drama and TV productions. Bebe has had wide teaching and lecturing experience across Canada. Since opening the Victoria School of Theatrical Arts and being acclaimed Victoria's own choreographer, she decided to make this city her home. Bebe has been Choreographer and Designer of the Butchart Gardens Sunset shows for the past four years.

'ABSURD, FANTASTIC, IMPRACTICAL'

Report Shocks Fire Committee

The Saanich fire committee reacted with shock Tuesday night when it received a report on its fire department.

Amazing, ridiculous, impractical, out of this world, fantastic, absurd — these were some of the words and phrases used by seven council members at the meeting.

One councillor — Harold Todd — said if he had his way "I'd consign this report to the waste basket."

Parts of the report — promotional policy, training and the poor location of No. 2 Hall — were applauded.

But recommendations for more than doubling the manpower and building a new central hall only a few blocks from the present one were sharply criticized.

Reeve Hugh Curtis called the proposal for 134 men "impractical for the immediate future."

The city of Victoria, with industrial and commercial areas including downtown, has a force of 164.

NOT FEASIBLE

"It cannot be denied that Saanich is still undermanned but it is not economically feasible to follow this recommendation to the full nor can I believe such a large force is necessary."

He also took issue with locating the new headquarters only a few blocks down the street at Pat Bay and McKenzie.

The distance wasn't great and projected developments in the Town and Country Shopping Centre area "demand a major hall in the immediate area."

Coun. William Noel said perhaps Saanich should buy poor houses for taxpayers instead of fire halls after hearing that one new fireman costs $7,500 a year, or more than $500,000 for 78 new men.

Coun. Alan Newberry, chairman of the fire committee, said the survey deserves consideration and councillors "shouldn't throw it out of the window and bury our heads in the sand."

ACCEPTED STANDARDS

The report agreed with things the fire chief said and was based on accepted standards.

"I'd rather feel that decisions in technical areas be made by technical people rather than the whims by politicians."

About the projected manpower increase, he said "it is to be remembered that this assumes the most ideal of situations. It is obvious that next year's budget will have to allow for a significant increase in staff."

The report provided a chart for years to come. Its immediate usefullness was to ascertain manpower needs, determine equipment needed, develop a clear promotional policy and provide a basis for planning future hall.

CHALLENGE OF 1981

"If Saanich is going to meet the challenge of 1981 with 86 men on one shift decisions must be based on authoritative standards and not on individual whims. This report presents such an authoritative standard."

The committee finally agreed to write the fire marshal's office asking for additional opinion on the manpower question, for more reasons and a reassessment of the situation.

Coun. Leslie Passmore and Coun. Todd disagreed. Coun. Passmore said "if you write you give the impression you are paying attention to what he is saying."

Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland did not comment on the discussion, and declined comment later when questioned by reporters.

SPECIAL PROBLEMS FACE SAANICH

The report by the fire marshal's office on the Saanich fire department, requested by the municipality, is based on a week-long survey in June.

Recommendations:

- Full staff of 134 compared with present 56;
- Appointment of training officers;
- Use of the Municipal Fire Code as a basis for promotions;
- New fire hall at McKenzie Avenue and Patricia Bay Highway;
- No. 2 hall, Elk Lake, is inadequate, poorly located and should be in the vicinity of Haliburton and Pat Bay.
- Purchase of 100-foot aerial ladder.

The proposal for 134 men on the force is based on the handbook of the National Fire Protection Association.

Criteria used include distance of travel of first alarm response and apparatus and manpower based on population.

Present manpower, the report said, points to "definite deficiencies."

MANPOWER LACK

"Basic fundamentals of fire protection, i.e. saving life, stopping the spread of fire and extinguishment of fire, could be seriously handicapped in the important initial attack due to shortage of manpower."

A mutual aid agreement between Victoria and Saanich would be of little assistance in the event of a serious fire in one community when assistance was needed in the other.

Manning of present equipment to the suggested standard would require 124 men plus the chief, deputy chief, training officer, two inspectors and alarm-room staff for a total of 134.

"It is realized that few municipal fire departments are manned to the recommended standard but it is pointed out that Saanich has problems that are not common," the report said.

These problems include an area of 40 square miles; a population of 58,000, large number of buildings of large area, residential areas of very high value and topography that doesn't lend itself to fast, dependable response.

The report recommended a new fire hall at Pat Bay and McKenzie for "a better response to all other parts of the municipality."

This intersection will eventually be a junction of the new freeway and the four-lane east-west McKenzie.

The present hall beside the municipal hall could not accommodate the suggested increase in firefighters.

"The No. 2 hall is poorly located because it is ¾ of a mile from the northern boundary in a sparsely-settled area. The No. 3 hall on Shelbourne is "fairly well located."

MORE HALLS NEEDED

Additional halls made necessary by growing population would possibly be located in the east and west parts of Saanich but no precise sites were mentioned.

The report also said fire protection depends "to a great extent" upon morale.

Fire department policy should come from the council through the fire committee to the chief. "Very close" liaison should be maintained between the chief and the fire committee chairman.

Personnel records should be comprehensive enough that, in conjunction with the annual evaluation report mentioned in the fire code, credits could be awarded.

"These credits, along with credits for longevity or seniority, would be taken into consideration in the promotional policy. The fairest promotional policy is one based on examinations and the above-mentioned credits."

LBJ on Trial For 'War Crimes'

NEW YORK (AP)—The names of 10 people who will serve on Lord Bertrand Russell's "war crimes tribunal" to try President Johnson and other American leaders for their Viet Nam policies were announced Tuesday at a news conference.

They include French writers Jean Paul Sartre and Simone de Beauvoir, and Peter Weiss, the German exile who wrote the play Marat-Sade.

Lord Russell, 94, announced last June he would set up the tribunal this November in Paris, because France presents fewer visa problems for Vietnamese witnesses.

The panel will include Lazaro Cardenas, former president of Mexico; Danilo Dolci, Italian author; Lelio Basso, Italian socialist; Josue de Castro, Brazilian scientist and chairman of the United Nations Council of Food and Agriculture; Vladimir Dedijer, Yugoslavian political scientist who has taught at Harvard; Isaac Deutscher, Polish exile in London who has written biographies of Stalin and Trotsky, and Lord Russell.

Centres for Aged Asked in Saanich

Saanich's health and welfare committee Tuesday night referred the question of centres for the aged to committee of the council as a whole.

The move followed receipt of a letter from Mrs. Catherine Horne, director of the Silver Threads, pointing out the booming membership at the Centennial Square Centre and seeking extra facilities in Saanich.

Council is considering in private a number of suggestions for extra recreational facilities in Saanich for a referendum vote this December.

QUAKE LEVELS VILLAGES

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—About 45 villages in a 2,200-square-mile area were destroyed by a severe earthquake which rocked the Quetta region Tuesday, the Associated Press of Pakistan reported. Officials estimated 3,000 to 5,000 families were left homeless.

FOR MISSING LAUNCH

Friends Launch Private Search

FALMOUTH, England (UPI)—Friends and relatives of 31 persons aboard the missing excursion motor launch Darlwin today organized a private air search off southern England's rugged Cornish coast in hopes of finding survivors.

A massive two-day air and sea search was called off by the coast guard late Tuesday night. Aside from a drifting empty dinghy and a few bits of flotsam, searchers found no trace of the 45-foot boat last seen by a fisherman late Sunday, shortly before a strom buffeted the coast.

29 TOURISTS

Officials said they presumed the 29 tourists—including seven children, and two crew members aboard had drowned.

But Robert Rainbird, proprietor of a Falmouth hotel where 27 of the tourists were staying, said, "if the Royal Air Force cannot do it, we will." He said "relatives and friends" were paying for the charter of three light aircraft to criss-cross the coastal waters.

BOAT DRIFTED

Rainbird said that to his knowledge, the official search extended only 20 miles off the coast. He speculated the boat may have drifted farther out.

Police and board of trade official were investigating the Darlwin's mysterious disappearance. The boat was not licensed to carry more than 12 persons and a man who bought it from its present owner last year returned it and scrapped the sale because he allegedly found extensive rot.

Japan Backs Chiang in UN

TOKYO (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato today pledged Japan's continued support for Nationalist Chinese membership in the United Nations.

"I don't think it would be fair to give United Nations membership to Communist China at the cost of expelling Nationalist China," Sato told reporters.

Japan will maintain its present policies in regard to the UN membership of the Chinas at the UN General Assembly session in the fall, he said, providing there is no important change in the international situation.

EXTREMISTS ENDANGERING N. IRELAND

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI). — Prime Minister Terence O'Neill warned Protestant extremists Tuesday that their actions could endanger Northern Ireland's union with Britain.

O'Neill, in an address to the Ulster Unionist Council, was referring to Protestant extremists who have been stirring up anti-Roman Catholic sentiment in recent months.

"Only an irresponsible minority could bring such discredit upon Northern Ireland that the British people would want to wash their hands of it," O'Neill said. He said no one would be allowed to endanger Northern Ireland's connections with Britain.

"Ulster is not for sale, either now or in the future," he said.

Howard Society Hit For Biased Advice

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate Cyril White Tuesday accused the John Howard Society of submitting biased and useless advice to the courts.

He said he paid no heed whatsoever to letters carrying the society's recommendations.

"Letters from them always say the same thing," the magistrate fumed — "don't send them to jail, put them on probation."

He said the society, which works with convicts and ex-convicts with the aim of helping them to avoid further offences, showed complete disregard for the Criminal Code, which permits probation for first offenders or for second offenders in special cases.

Magistrate White's outburst came over a letter from the John Howard Society recommending probation for Rene McGann, 43, who pleaded guilty to possession of narcotics. Her record includes 10 convictions since 1953 for prostitution and drug offences.

She was remanded for sentence to Nov. 8.

Executive director Mervyn Davis of the John Howard Society offered no defence when told of the magistrate's statements.

"I think there probably is some basis for criticism," he said.

He suggested, however, that Magistrate White had levelled a "broad and unknowledgable" criticism.

Stamps for Champs

LONDON (Reuters)—The British post office said Monday it will issue 12,000,000 fourpenny stamps marked "England—Winners," to celebrate England's World Cup soccer victory.

Super Error Fixed

A "slip of the tongue" resulted in an error in a Times story Tuesday reporting Saanich council discussion of store closing hours.

Coun. Leslie Passmore was quoted as saying there is a Super-Valu store in Saanich open all day Sunday.

"Reporters are always very accurate in reporting statements made in council, consequently while I intended to say super-market I may in fact have said Super Valu," he said.

The store he referred to is at Gorge and Tillicum and there is no Super-Valu store at that location.

"However, I regret what was a slip of the tongue and trust no embarrassment was caused," said Coun. Passmore.

Arthur Mayse

Down in our wild acre, a few Douglas fir stumps serve to remind us of the great evergreen forest that once clothed the Vancouver Island coastal plain. But each year these grow harder to search out, masked as they are by the crowding second growth.

This, except for a scattering of young Christmas trees and wry-trunked arbutus, is deciduous. Mostly, it is a wild tangle of Pacific willow, snowberry and wiry ocean spray, laced in its lower courses with blackberry and higher up with honeysuckle.

Broadleaf maple clumps thrust above the general surge. Alders, some of them very old, help anchor the seaslope with their roots; and lost in the smother are half a dozen medicine-trees.

These are cascaras. Their leaves, dark green on top, a paler shade beneath, are boat-shaped and strongly veined. The bark on the slender, crooked branches is the grey of an elephant's hide. It was for this bark that Rhanus purshiana was once hunted to the point where naturalists feared for its survival.

Shucked off, dried, and processed by drug manufacturers, the bark yielded Cascara Segrada, a laxitive of considerable authority.

Modern synthetics have gone a long way toward pushing cascara off the market, and when used, it is generally but one ingredient of a less bowel-taxing potion. It is also expensive—chiefly because of the wholesale cutting of earlier years.

When I was a boy in Nanaimo with a nicked jack-knife and a lack of money to buy fishing gear, the generous cascara tree was good for a summer dollar. We dried the bark in the sun and peddled the sacked shards to an eagle-eyed buyer who could ferret out make-weight peelings of alder at a glance.

However, the serious drain came with the depression of the 'thirties. In those grim years, many a jobless family turned to the woods for at least a partial living.

They sold fir seed-cones to B.C. forest service when they could. But their mainstay was the cascara, whether as a 20-to-30-foot loner in the bottomlands and logging burns, or when luck was kind, a few trees together.

They would peel the trunk and main limbs for as high as they could reach and their kids scramble. Behind them, when they pulled out with their payload, they left a girdled grove. For years afterward, bleaching tree-skeletons bore witness that the cascara hunters had struck and passed.

I will not blame them, for those were hungry times. Later, when the Second World War added military hospital needs to the civilian demand, cascara bark sold for 20 cents a pound, and a skilled stripper could make as much as $40 a day.

So severe was the onslaught that, to save the cascara, the provincial government was forced to regulate the harvest by rules which strengthened, remain in effect.

Some gathering is still done. I do not expect, though, to see as once I did, a family of cascara hunters emerge from the alder swamp that bordered an up-Island trout creek.

They were coming out from their camp deep in the burn for supplies. Months of living wild had left their mark; father, mother and daughter were ragged and very brown. They were also wary; the man approached alone and hesitantly to ask if I could spare a rolling of tobacco.

I wasn't carrying any that fire-season, but offered snoose, a logger's delight compounded of snuff and supercharged spices. Mother and daughter joined us. All three dipped from the little round can, tucked the "rare" between teeth and upper lip, and settled down to enjoy it.

We talked sparingly between silences punctuated by an occasional spitting of rich black juice. Then the bark people waded the creek, to vanish with the easy grace of wild creatures in the bordering woods.

Naval Lab's Builder Hangs Up Microscope

By TERRY IZZARD

From two wooden huts back in 1948, the Pacific Naval Laboratory at HMC Dockyard has mushroomed into a modern scientific complex.

While the demand for knowledge was one of the factors behind the building's expansion, one man, more than any other, has been responsible for its present position of high standing.

That man is Dr. Frank. H. Sanders, an affable scientist, dedicated to his work.

After nursing his baby through the teething stages and the difficult years of adolescence, the 59-year-old Victorian retired this week.

An honors physics graduate of UBC in 1928, he was appointed the naval laboratory's first superintendent 20 years later, with a staff of six.

Meanwhile, he had obtained his Ph.D. at the University of California, worked for the National Research Council and headed the Microwave Research Laboratory.

After enlarging the naval research lab from two to seven buildings, he had to leave in 1953 when he was appointed scientific adviser to the chief of naval staff in Ottawa.

But in 1959 he was back at the lab, this time as chief superintendent, with a staff of 100.

For the next year he will travel through Europe and indulge locally in his favorite sport of fishing.

After that he will consider taking a part-time lecturer's post at either Uvic, UBC or Simon Fraser.

School District Assistant Named Today

Education Department today announced appointment of A. J. Longmore as assistant district superintendent for the Greater Victoria School District.

Mr. Longmore, who was recommended to the department by the school board, has been superintendent for the Vanderhoof and Burns Lake school districts.

He succeeds Joseph Chell who was elevated to full superintendent of the school district here to replace John Gough who retired.

Mr. Longmore, a native of Kamloops, is 41. He is a graduate of University of B.C. and has done post-graduate work at the University of Alberta.

He taught in several parts of B.C., culminating with the principal's position at Summerland Secondary School from 1959 until he entered the Department of Education in 1962 as curriculum consultant. He became a district superintendent in 1963.

PADDLES WHIP SATURDAY

B.C. RIVERMEN CHALLENGE NATION

Six white-water men from the northern interior are poised for a 600-mile canoe race down the Fraser to the salt chuck and Victoria.

They'll leave Fort St. James Saturday.

They should arrive here Monday, Aug. 15, if they beat the twisting, tortuous, rapid-wracked course.

That's their worst opponent—a cold, rugged antagonist known to claim the unwary, without conscience or hesitation.

The other challenge to the B.C. paddlers is the stiff competition from nine other six-man canoes.

The 10 teams represent eight provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Each team is drawn from river-wise boatmen. Each team has its hopes pinned on capturing the British Columbia centennial trophy that awaits the victors here.

Their 26-foot canoes, modelled after the pack canoes of the doughty fur traders of pioneer New Caledonia, are frail as egg shells. The river and the straits are filled with hidden hazards. The contest is expected to provide thrills and tension unequalled since the strait swims of the 1950s.

The B.C. team, six paddlers and two spares, includes Roy Jackson, Herb Silveres, Harvey Fraser, Dick Hart, Harry Schwartz, Costo Bush, Hern Brade and Dave Hentges.

Their 10-day endurance test will be a major trial for an even more exhausting event in 1967, a national centennial race from Rocky Mountain House to Montreal in a 100-day ordeal.

The Fraser contest is planned to provide riverside spectators the maximum in spectator enjoyment.

The contestants will dress as voyageurs. They'll carry equipment for camping on the riverbanks each night. They'll travel in flotilla on starting each day, then, gathering at an assembly area, they'll "sprint" the last few miles before each major riverside town.

A point system will determine the winner on a 10-day basis.

Only at one point will the canoes be portaged—between Quesnel and Yale by highway—to avoid Hell's Gate dangers.

They'll arrive at Vancouver August 12 and at 7 a.m. the next day, attempt the crossing of the straits to Vancouver Island.

They hope to arrive at Galiano Island's Montague Harbor via Porlier Pass at 4 p.m. At noon on the 14th, they should glide into Sidney.

They'll leave Sidney at 2 p.m. August 15 and assemble in Gonzales Bay for the final sprint race to Victoria's Inner Harbor, arriving at about 8 p.m.

It sounds easy—but the straits crossing is through waters of historic treachery and the sponsors, Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of British Columbia, is keeping its collective fingers crossed.

Strong men, frail canoe pitted against untamed Fraser.

PAIR PLANS TO CIRCLE ISLAND

Two men plan to circumnavigate Vancouver Island in a 19-foot outboard boat, following the route taken by Capt. George Vancouver 174 years ago.

Harold Merilees and Art Sacht plan to take Merilees' boat the Stout Fella, powered by a 100 horsepower outboard motor, on the 700-mile trip as their personal B.C. Centennial project.

Merilees, 58, manager of the Vancouver Visitors' Bureau, leaves there Aug. 18 and will pick up Sacht, a Sayward logger, in Kelsey Bay Aug. 20.

Merilees said the boat travels at 25 knots. They plan to make the trip in two weeks, if the weather holds. He said they will shelter in bays during the night and during bad storms.

Gorge Road Widening Proceeding

A $236,000 road widening and reconstruction project on the Gorge Road in Saanich should be completed in September, municipal engineer Neville Life said today.

Work is starting this week on curbing and sidewalks, and drains are going ahead between Harriet and Tillicum.

The road will be widened to four lanes to match the four lanes on the city side. Curbs and gutters will be installed on both sides and the ditches replaced by drains.

Bulk of the cost is being met by Saanich and the provincial highways department. Local improvement share is $40,260.

The road won't be widened to four lanes beyond Tillicum, said Mr. Life, because the heavy traffic is nearer town.

In addition extra blacktopping would detract from the beautification project being carried out on the banks of the Gorge.

Fire Hazard Diverts Army

Eighty British territorial soldiers, who were to have taken part in excercises in the Sooke area next week, will now be switched to the Chilcotin area of B.C., due to the forst fire hazard here.

Members of the special air service, group, they will be flown to Prince George instead of Pat Bay.

There, they will join up with members of the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles, Victoria, with whom they will be exercising.

More Trouble To Delay Weathership

The weathership Vancouver will sail one month late as result of a fault discovered in one of its six generators at Esquimalt Tuesday.

The fault caused the generator's main shaft to snap.

While repair of the shaft will not take too long, the department of transport has insisted the generators' manufacturers check all the equipment.

This will entail the lengthy operation of stripping down and closely examining each of the generators.

The $12 million vessel, which was to have taken up position on weather station Papa in November, will likely not sail until December.

SECOND DELAY

This is the second set-back during the ship's construction.

While being built at Burrard Dry Dock Co., it was discovered that extra oceanographic and scientific equipment on the top decks would make the ship top heavy.

To offset this, concrete had to be poured in some of the ship's holds at considerable cost.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined on charges of careless driving when they appeared in traffic court today were:

John Boyd, 6310 Rudolph, $35; and Charles Stott, 2660 Mt. Stephen, $35.

Park Hoodlums Police Target

Jeering Ruffians Bully Old People

Teenage bullies who for the past few weeks have been terrorizing elderly people on the Dallas Road waterfront can look for trouble themselves in future.

At the request of Mayor A. W. Toone police patrols of the area have been stepped up in an attempt to nab the group specializing in threats to senior citizens.

"I don't know what kind of youngsters they are, but they like to bully elderly people," Mayor Toone said this morning.

"They always choose their spot carefully making sure that before the people they are bullying can get to a telephone they have time to get away."

The methods used are always the same.

A group of jeering ruffians block a path and dare the elderly couple to do something about it.

ROCKS THROWN

When threatened with a call to the police the jeers increase and the bully-boys jostle the man and the woman.

On occasion, after letting the old couple pass, the youths throw rocks at the retreating figures.

It was quite alarming to me to think that elderly people couldn't take a stroll along the waterfront without being subject to this sort of thing," Mayor Toone said.

His reaction to the complaints was swift.

Equally swift was city police response.

Within a few hours of complaints being received the order went out to step-up motor and foot patrols in the area.

PATROLS INCREASED

"We increased our patrols immediately after receiving the complaints," Chief J. F. Gregory said. "They will remain at extra strength."

Mayor Toone said that so far the youths had confined their activities of the hazing of the elderly.

"We did receive one complaint that youths were also damaging park benches," the mayor said. "This was checked and found to be true — but of far more importance is the stamping out of this bullying."

Juvenile officers in the city urged citizens suffering the pushing around to telephone the police as soon as possible.

"Unfortunately," one officer said, "elderly people tend to leave complaints, for several hours. They get pushed around and abused verbally, go home steaming and then, over a cup of tea, decide to telephone the police. There isn't much we can do then.

"If they phone right away we can get a patrol car in the area immediately and can usually locate the trouble makers."

Another officer said the recent outbreak was not new.

"We had similar trouble last year," he said. "Fortunately one of the men being bullied grabbed one of the youth's haversacks and from that we were able to round up the three chief trouble makers."

The officer also advised those under verbal or pushing attack to take careful note of the clothes worn by the bullies and of their general features.

"A good description of these young thugs would help us immeasurably," he said.

Shingle Industry In Distress

Widespread layoffs and shutdowns in the cedar shake and shingle industry were predicted today by manufacturer Hershell A. Smith.

The president of Smith Cedar Products Ltd., Mr. Smith concurred with a report from the Consolidated Red Cedar Shingle Association of B.C. predicting permanent closure of some mills.

A tight American money market and costly recommended wage settlement in the forest industry are given as reasons for the grim outlook.

Although only a small part of the total forest production shingle making is the oldest B.C. industry and provides jobs for an average 1,800 persons.

He said 90 per cent of Canadian red cedar shingle and shake production goes to the U.S.

"But if they don't build houses, they don't need shingles or shakes."

TIGHT MONEY

Mortgage money in the U.S. has virtually disappeared with the result that house construction has folded up in many areas.

The first effect felt here was in the traditionally heavy California and Texas market, which has sagged over the past few months.

A Vancouver mill has been closed for the whole month of July, the first time in 30 years. Another also closed for a month but re-opened this week.

Mr. Smith said he expects to begin curtailing production with layoffs expected in the early fall.

The major producers are already cut back 25 per cent, he said.

Bush producers will shut down completely, Mr. Smith said.

The Smith mill is the only producing operation in Victoria at the moment, but McCarter Shingle and Shake Co. is building a new mill scheduled for operation in a few months.

31 Contractors Ready to Close Their Doors

Thirteen Victoria contractors are among the 151 in B.C. whose lockout notice against their carpenters ran out at quitting time today.

The 13 employ just under 200 carpenters, said John Schibli, president of Local 1598 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

Another 18 Victoria contractors are expected to be serving lockout notice at any moment, he said.

The figures don't apply to contractors whose main offices are outside Victoria.

The biggest local contractor serving lockout notice is Farmer Construction which has work on the University of Victoria campus, Royal Athletic Park reconstruction and the new Reynolds Road Secondary School in Saanich.

NAMES LISTED

The other 12 contractors listed by Mr. Schibli are:

Bruce Cooke Building Construction; Earle S. Cross; Dillabough and Luney; H. E. Fowler and Sons; E. J. Hunter; T. Lambie and Son; Luney Brothers and Hamilton; M. P. Paine; Patterson Construction; George Walton; G. H. Wheaton; and Williams, Bray and Williams.

Mr. Schibli said other important work which will be affected by the lockout includes the new Woolworth building at Douglas and View; Oak Bay Secondary School and Claremont Secondary School.

He said seven independent contractors have signed two-year agreements which include a 37½-hour week in October, 1967. But he declined to give their names or to say how many carpenters they employ.

Pearkes Visit

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will pay a return call to newly-appointed Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles at HMC Dockyard Friday.

A fifteen-gun salute will welcome the Lieutenant-Governor

AN AGONY OF THE MODERN WORLD

Parents' Opinions Mean Nothing in Japan

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Juvenile delinquency is Japan's second greatest problem, says Rev. Robert J. D. Morris, minister of Victoria's First United Church.

From Nakoso, Fukushima, where he is on loan to the Church of Christ in Japan, Mr. Morris writes:

"This problem has many of its roots in the break-down of the line of authority and is part of the agony of adjusting to life in the modern world.

"It is a sharp break with the old Japanese tradition of respect for authority."

Mr. Morris records that a Japanese school principal gave his senior students a questionnaire. One of the questions was "How much does the opinion of your parents matter to you?"

The invariable answer was "not at all."

"This is one of the dilemmas democracy has brought to Japan," says Mr. Morris. "So I have been speaking a good deal on the relationship between freedom and responsibility; what it means to be a person and to respect other persons; and the relationship between freedom and discipline."

The Victoria clergyman records that traffic is Japan's No. 1 problem and it grows more acute every year.

Overcrowding and the lack of housing is another.

"Here we have nearly 100 million people living in an area roughly equivalent to Vancouver Island and feeding themselves on only 16 per cent of the land.

"There are, of course, rice paddy fields everywhere, and one of the problems is that the cities are naturally in the flat places. As they grow more and more valuable land is taken out of farming and put into housing."

Mr. Morris left here six weeks ago to spend two months with the Church of Christ under an evangelism project sponsored by the United Church of Canada and the mission boards of eight U.S. churches.

LOW IS HIGH

"Japan estimates its living standard at about 25 per cent of the U.S. standard, which is their measuring stick; and this is by far the highest standard in the Orient.

"Articles in stores, such as clothing, food and furniture, are not much less than in Victoria. Some things are more. For instance, you pay 70 yen (20 cents) for a small cup of coffee."

Mr. Morris is teaching, with the help of an interpreter, in the coal-mining town of Uchigo and the manufacturing town of Nakoso. Each has about 30,000 people.

"I have been quite thrilled to find in how many ways I can be used, and to find a most warm and friendly response from the Japanese people."

Tokyo has 11 million people — more than half of them under 25.

"At the inn I stayed at there, the maids were graduates of junior high school, age 15, and they were working 16 hours a day, six days a week, for 400 yen (about $1 a day, and their room and board."

DEAR ABBY

Neighbors Talk The Main Concern

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In 1955 I married Bob (not his real name) in the Catholic church. I was born a Catholic and Bob was a convert. We had two boys. For reasons which I shall not go into, we were divorced in 1961. I then married Bill (also not his real name) at a civil ceremony by a justice of the peace, but we lived together only seven months and were divorced. Bob has started to come around again.

We have a lot to talk about because of the boys, etc. so sometimes he stays all night, or for the weekend. The neighbors' mouths are going a mile a minute. Since our religion does not recognize divorce, we are still married in the eyes of the church. Right? So, are we doing anything wrong?

TALKED ABOUT

DEAR TALKED ABOUT: It's not the "eyes of the church" you are concerned about — it's the mouths of your neighbors. Talk to your priest. He will tell you what's wrong with using your religion to suit your own convenience.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to get rid of a telephone pest? This woman calls me every night when I get home from work because she wants someone to talk to besides her three-year-old son. (She's a divorcee.) She has no hobbies or outside interests. Her only friend moved out of town last year, and she has cultivated no new ones. I am her only "interest" and she bores me to death with her small talk.

I finally had to ask her to please quit calling me at work, so now she catches me at home in the evenings. Once she gets me on the line I can't get away from her. I have run out of excuses. Lately I have quit answering my telephone when I think it's her. Surely there must be a better way.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: There is. Tell her to quit calling you at home, too.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my mother had an operation and after it was over, the surgeon came out to the waiting-room to let me know the results.

Two of my lady friends were waiting with me and they stood up when the doctor came into the room. I did not think it was necessary for a lady to stand up when a doctor entered the room. Is it?

S. F.

DEAR S. A lady stands up when a gentleman enters the room only out of respect to his age or position. (A high ranking clergyman or government official rates this courtesy.) The ladies should have remained seated.

DEAR ABBY: I also used to be disgusted with women I'd see on the street with their hair all rolled up in curlers. But after reading that letter in your column from the young wife who said it was more important for her hair to look nice for her husband when he came home in the evening, than for the mailman, grocer, and the man on the street, I changed my mind. Thanks for printing it.

Honeymoon Trip to California Follows Double-Ring Ceremony

Following their recent wedding in St. Joseph's Church, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Marian Henry Sieradzan left on a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Calif.

The bride, the former Sandra Elaine Forrester, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrester, 3260 Harriet Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Sieradzan, Victoria.

The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli and snapdragons in pink and white tones for the double-ring service at which Msgr. M. O'Connell officiated. Mr. Forrester gave his daughter in marriage.

A trio of satin bows held the full train which swept back from the shoulders of the bride's floor-length gown. The train was bordered with accents of taffeta and lace. Appliques of lace highlighted the hooped taffeta skirt of the gown and the bodice featured a scalloped neckline, trimmed with lace, and lily point sleeves. Her three-tier scalloped veil misted from a coronet of seed pearls and crystals. Pink roses and white gladioli were in her cascade bouquet.

Floor-length empire-line gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta were worn by the bride's sister, maid of honor Miss Lynn Forrester, and bridesmaids, the Misses Pat Heath, Norma Mason and Audrey-Jean Forrester. Their headpieces were pillbox hats en tone, trimmed with veils, and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Little Sharlene Forrester was flower girl for her cousin in a full-skirted frock of pink. She carried a basket of pink and white roses.

Best man was Steven Wight. Ushering the guests were Jim Blades, Charles Weir and John Gidden.

The pink and white color theme was continued in the decorations at the reception which followed in Holyrood House. William Forrester proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Sieradzan donned a pale pink suit, which she accented with accessories of navy blue and white and a pink orchid corsage.

The couple is now making their home at 415 Michigan Street.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You know something? I think I selected the right time and the right place for my Group Therapy Week! This is the right time because we are all beginning to think of fall clothes (those in mothballs and those we may be planning to buy). But there is still time to get in shape to get into them before the zippy weather arrives. A leisurely summer may be good for the soul, but it isn't always flattering to the figure.

Lowman

My column is the right place because how else in the world could I bring so many women together with the same problem for a slimming chat? An exchange of ideas and experience is always valuable. Here is the letter for today.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I followed your Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan the first of this year and lost 20 pounds. I continued on through April for a loss of 40 pounds. I can now wear a size 12 dress. I used to need a size 18 or 20. I feel like an entirely new person!

"Actually, I am rather weak-willed and had to dream up a few crutches to lean on. For instance, we have our biggest meal at night. Breakfast was no problem for me. I just ate a simple but adequate breakfast, skim milk instead of cream on cereals, leaving cream out of my coffee, using an artificial sweetener, passing up the jam or jelly, and poaching instead of frying my egg.

"With my children and my husband away at lunch that was no problem, but dinner was a different story! I always prepare a delicious and large evening meal. When the family gathered around for food and talk, I couldn't resist eating more than I should. I made up for the sensible breakfast and lunch in a big way.

"So, I ate dinner by myself for the first few weeks. I served my plate with the right things and the right amount. I had my meal alone. In this way I broke the habit of overeating. It was a sacrifice in companionship with my family, but it was worth it. They are all so proud of me and so happy with my success.

"I also found that sucking a couple of sour balls or lemon drops after meals, as you suggested, helped cure the craving for sweets."

If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds during the next eight weeks you may want my Beauty Improvement Plan this reader used. The kit also includes a unique chart on which you can plot your weight and see your beauty line rise as your weight drops. If you want this send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling and your printed name and address, along with your request for my "BIP Kit." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Beauty and the Beach Is Not a Fairy Tale

By PENNY SAVER

I just love swimming and, until recently, I have been too cowardly to try a dunking in the ocean. It was one of those spur of the moment impulses that finally endowed me with enough courage. Once I was wet up to my waist, there was no turning back. When I finally took three deep breaths and plunged full force into the waves, I had to race like a madman to keep from freezing. A drowned rat surely couldn't have looked as bad as I did when I emerged, with salt-corroded hair and water streaming down my face from my crown.

After that experience, I can see why people wear swim caps. I can also see why wet suits are in order, and why people prefer to tan on the beaches rather than swim. One shop has a wide assortment of the latest "haute couture" in bathing caps. They look just like summer sun caps, but they're made of waterproof rubber. The styles are out of this world in swim-cap fashions.

One cap resembles a straw hat, with a conical top and wide brim. Under this "camouflage" is a snug-fitting flap that prevents water from ruining your coiffure.

You'll be the rave of the beach in this cap. It has flowers on the top, and even more blossoms on the water-tight flaps. No one will guess that it is a swim cap. Instead, they'll think that you have donned your latest summer chapeau.

Another perky boon to the beach bather is a cap of white rubber that looks like the cotton caps worn by lifeguards. These have a green stripe around the brim and the same stripes coming down from a central point on the top. They're watertight, too.

Simple head-shaped caps are dressed up with a profusion of flowers in all the colors of the rainbow. Buy one plain in one color, or a mass of bright, splash colors.

Choose any style. There is a cap in this shop that is just right for you. The price is set at $5.95.

Keep curls intact with these fashionable swim caps. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she shopped.

Women

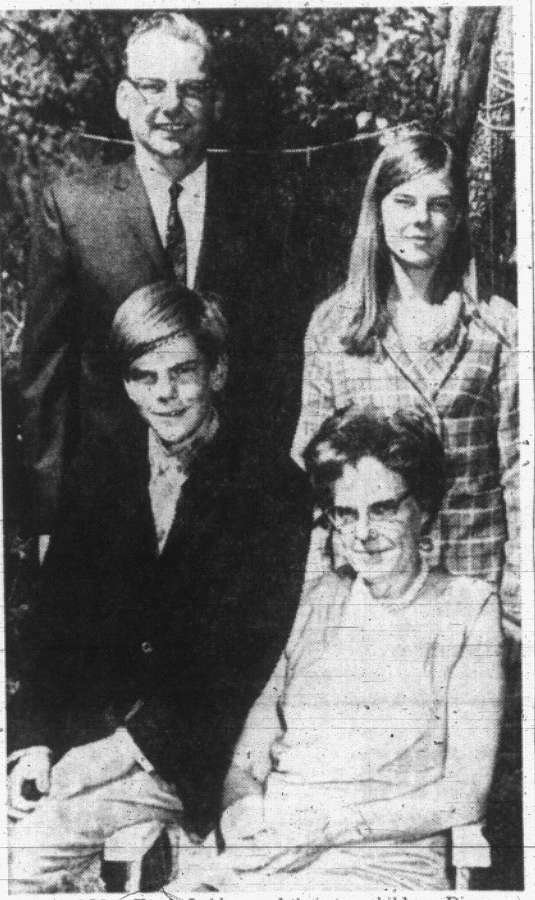
Women's Editor Pat Dufour



Dr. and Mrs. Erwin Lokken and their two children, Diana, 16, and 13-year-old Gary, will leave the city next Monday, en route for La Spezia, in Italy, where Dr. Lokken has been posted for the next three years to work as a leader of the special studies group at the NATO laboratory. He is presently on the staff of the Defence Research Board's Pacific Naval Laboratory. The family will board the liner Franconia, which sails on August 19 from Montreal.

PARTY CIRCUIT

Miss Sandra Martin, whose marriage takes place this Saturday, has been widely feted by her friends.

Mrs. R. McGowan and Mrs. P. List entertained at a surprise shower in the former's Townley Street home. Games were played and luncheon served. Corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. E. L. Martin, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Stella Johnson.

Other guests were Mrs. M. Matiachuk, Mrs. D. Elliott, Mrs. E. Caught, Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. J. Foster, Mrs. N. Bell, Mrs. G. Ramsey, Mrs. S. Tulloch, Mrs. M. Maze, Mrs. F. McDormand, Mrs. R. Russell, Mrs. B. Patzer, Mrs. N. Ford, Mrs. B. Morgan, Mrs. H. Beckley, Mrs. M. Webb, the Misses Sandra Foster, Gladys Campbell, Janice Elliott, Linda and Maureen Martin, Marilyn McGowan.

Corsages were again presented to the honor guest and her mother when Mrs. R. Russell gave a shower in her Roseberry Avenue home. Also attending were Mrs. A. Rimmer, Mrs. N. Barber, Mrs. A. Chapman, Mrs. M. McDougall, Mrs. M. McCague, Mrs. L. White, Mrs. H. Beckley, Mrs. B. Patzer, Mrs. B. Thompson, Mrs. L. Russell, Mrs. D. Johnston, the Misses Linda and Bobbi Martin, Cherie Barber, Susanne and Debbie Russell, Sharon and Sharlene McDougall.

Fellow workers of the bride-to-be were the guests at a shower given by Mrs. P. Cracknell in her Middleton Street home. They included Mrs. M. Hill, Mrs. L. Rowe, Mrs. M. Day, Mrs. W. Hickling, Mrs. L. Connell, Mrs. D. Smith, Mrs. K. Morris, the Misses Ev Bean, Judy Chekaluk and Linda Martin. Corsages were received by the honor guest and her mother.

Gifts were received by the honor guest and corsages were presented to her and her mother when Mrs. L. Lyttles entertained at a surprise shower in her home on Regina Avenue. Other guests were Mrs. L. Neligan, Mrs. E. Lawson, Mrs. R. McGowan, Mrs. G. Geoghegan, Mrs. L. Piercy, Mrs. D. Diercks, Mrs. M. Anderson, the Misses Linda and Bobbi Martin.

Corsages were received by Miss Martin and her mother and gifts were presented when Mrs. Dennis Beckley entertained in her Kindersley Street home. Those invited included Mrs. T. Hagel, Mrs. M. Beckley, Mrs. J. Graves, Mrs. M. Matiachuk, Mrs. R. McGowan, Mrs. P. Beckley, Mrs. L. Neligan, Mrs. M. Ball, Mrs. D. McLean, the Misses Linda and Bobbi Martin.

Mrs. Matiachuk and Mrs. McGowan presided at the refreshment table when the bride-to-be's mother gave a trousseau tea for her daughter. The affair was held in her Hampton Road home last Sunday.

No-Host Luncheon

The regular monthly no-host luncheon of the Canadian Women's Press Club was held Monday at the Coach and Four Restaurant. Members attending were Miss Bea Hamilton, Mrs. Jim Wilson, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. E. Myles, Mrs. A. Williams, Mrs. Howard Damaske, Mrs. M. Backlund, Miss Dorothy Tupper, Mrs. H. Morrison, Mrs. Fergus Heywood.

Also present were guests Mrs. C. Kuster, Mrs. N. Graham, Mrs. M. Osborne and Mrs. Damaske's niece, Mrs. R. Martin from California.

Economics Taught At Grade 1 Level

EDMONTON (CP) — Children in Grade 1 are learning the fundamentals of economics — and their knowledge surprises teachers and parents.

Maryann Haynes, a Grade 1 teacher, says she was skeptical about the program and "thought these ideas were beyond six-year-olds."

For the first month or six weeks the course had little effect. "Then, all of a sudden, the children began to look at things in a different light.

"They realize why their fathers are in their present jobs and that the money he earns can go and has to go for many different things."

The youngsters learn in class about the division of labor, production, taxes and trading surplus goods for needed ones.

They also learn about the relation between a family's desires and how much it has to spend.

"Children at this age could never understand these concepts in their usual textbook form," says Kay Chernowski, the school consultant who developed the plan for Professor Evelyn Moore of the University of Alberta.

DESIGNER RICHARD BLACKWELL

Blasts Mini-Skirts and Puts Queen on Worst-Dressed List

LONDON (UPI) — An American fashion designer said this week the 10 women he names annually as the worst dressed in the world would feel right at home on the "swinging" London scene.

In other words, Los Angeles designer Richard Blackwell thinks Britain's long-haired, mini-skirted generation looks just terrible. He holds the same view of Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret who headed his latest list of worst dressed women. But, he does believe elegance still exists here.

Blackwell, who returned home Tuesday, came to London to do two things — have a look at the scene and try to give a painting to the national gallery. He said it was an early Goya called "The Priest and The Child" and was probably worth about $100,000. But so far the gallery has not shown much interest in accepting it.

Blackwell, who has never designed a hem above the knee himself, said, "I totally object to the mini-skirt. It has no dignity. It might be just wearable on a girl of 16 or 17, but in America it is being adapted for matrons. And there is nothing frumpier than a matron walking along with a skirt seven inches too high.

"What I want to make clear when I get home is that the mini-skirt is just a small part of the fashion picture here. We were led to believe it was the whole thing, yet there still is excellent taste here and English women are probably the most beautiful in the world.

"But (Royal Couturier Norman) Hartnell has made an old lady out of the queen. A certain amount of tradition must be upheld, but the Queen's clothes are a bore.

"Princess Margaret, with due respect, dresses like 25 years ago. I'm amazed that she can't do better with all England at her disposal," Blackwell said.

The other women on his most recent worst dressed list were: Barbra Streisand, Brigitte Bardot, Mia Farrow, Phyllis Diller, Julie Andrews, Madame Charles de Gaulle, Lucille Ball, Bette Davis and Elizabeth Taylor.

Blackwell, known professionally as "Mr. Blackwell," has no time for Paris couture.

"I think Parisiennes are the worst designers in the world," he said. "I think London has come up with the most creative designers, even though I might not like what they design."

Of Personal Interest

Elizabeth Swemle Wears Groom's Gift of a Cairngorm Pin

SUMMER WEDDINGS HIGHLIGHT CALENDARS OF VICTORIA RESIDENTS

The groom's gift of a cairngorm pin held the sash of Hunting Stewart tartan highlighting the gown worn by Elizabeth Johanna Swemle, Tuesday evening, when she became the bride of David McClintock Grubb.

The sash was worn diagonally across the bodice of the bride's ivory satin gown, which she made herself. The neckline of the princess-line gown was edged with tatted lace. Similar accents trimmed the train which swept back from the shoulders. Her veil was floor-length and she carried a bouquet of gardenias, nestled in white carnations and ivy.

St. John's Anglican Church was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and small white chrysanthemums when Lt.-Col. R. O. Wilkes heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of I. Swemle, 2535 Upper Terrace, and the late Mrs. Swemle, and the son of Cmdr. F. E. Grubb (RCN Ret.) and Mrs. Grubb, 1998 Cochrane Street.

"Lohe den Herren" was played as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and Widor's "Toccata" was the recessional music. During the signing of the register, the Amity Singers sang "The Lord is my Shepherd," and Pierre Timp, "This Day of Golden Promise."

The bride's three attendants were in matching gowns of emerald green peau de soie, styled on empire lines. Maid of honor Miss Joanna Drewry and bridesmaids, the Misses Diana Kingston and Nory Roasveldt, Calgary, carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies and fern. Their jewelry was the bride's gifts of cairngorm pins.

Richard Grubb was best man for his brother. Ushering the guests were C. P. Hankey, Capt. J. S. Caldwell, M. Heppell and B. A. Richman.

Arrangements of white begonias and gypsophelia decorated the head table for the reception following in the Officers' Mess of the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment. G. A. A. Middelberg proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

A beige dress, which she topped with a printed coat en tone, was worn by the new Mrs. Grubb for travelling on honeymoon up-Island. Her accessories were white and she completed the outfit with a corsage of white tea roses and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Middelberg travelled from Calgary to attend the wedding.

Beisher-Davies Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beisher travelled from their home in Flin Flon, Man., to attend the wedding of Gloria Davies and their son, Barry Nathan Beisher, Victoria.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davies, 636 Dallas Road, Victoria.

Peach-toned and white baskets of gladioli and daisies decorated Esquimalt United Church for the candlelit service at which Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated. Mr. Davies gave his daughter in marriage.

Prior to the ceremony, John Dunbar sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love Thee," during the signing of the register.

The bride's floor-length sheath gown was of imported French silk. The bodice featured a jewel neckline and lily point sleeves and the skirt was slightly en train. A circlet of pearls held her four-tier veil and her only jewelry was the groom's gift of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white gardenias and stephanotis, a gift from her great-aunt.

Matching sheath gowns of peach organza over silk were worn by the bride's attendants, the Misses Gail Davies and Nancy Miller. Their headpieces were self-fabric bows edged with net and they completed the outfits with tiny gold lockets, the bride's gifts.

Lane Beisher was best man for his brother. Ushers were Bill Sargenson and Dan Cousins.

A three-tier wedding cake, flanked with white candles and white and peach-toned chrysanthemums, centred the head table at the reception following in the Executive House Crystal Room. Curtis Miller proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple is now making their home in Berwick Manor, following a honeymoon trip south. For travelling the new Mrs. Beisher chose a two-piece dressmaker suit of pink and blue varigated wool, complemented with pale blue accessories and blue orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests who came for the wedding included the principles' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Reireson of Nacam, Sask., and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Ellington of Brandon, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sawyer and family of Kennedy, Sask; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stirling of Calgary, Alta.

Recent Lawrence-Kerslake Service

An heirloom pearl sunburst brooch fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Gail Maureen Kerslake, when she became the bride of George Winston Lawrence, recently.

The brooch, which was worn by the bride's grandmother at her wedding, was the only jewelry accent to the bride's gown of white peau de soie. Appliques of lace accented the skirt and bodice of the gown. A full lace train swept back from the shoulders. Her veil misted softly to shoulder-length from a headpiece of lily of the valley. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and streamers.

Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff officiated at the service in St. Luke's Anglican Church which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kerslake of San Jose, Calif., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawrence of Hampton, N.B. Mr. Kerslake gave his daughter in marriage and H. Bergink was organist.

Floor-length gowns of turquoise peau de soie, with matching headpieces, were worn by maid of honor Miss Lynda Betts, North Vancouver, and bridesmaid, Miss Carol Lawrence, the groom's sister. They carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Turquoise embroidery highlighted the white linen gowns worn by junior bridesmaids, Susan and Patsy Kerslake, the bride's cousins. They wore similar headpieces and carried pink carnations.

W. Graham McLeod was best man. Ushering guests were Robert and Glen Kerslake, Stephen Lock and Charles Clark.

Sidney E. Kerslake proposed the toast to his niece at the reception following in Holyrood House. Pale pink roses topped the three-tier wedding cake.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Lawrence donned a linen suit of pale turquoise, accented with a white coat, hat and accessories.

The couple is making their home in North Vancouver.

A number of guests travelled from out-of-town to attend the wedding. They included Mrs. F. Danforth, New Hamphire; Mr. and Mrs. V. Lock and Stephen of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Kerslake and family of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. R. Livsey, Mr. and Mrs. E. English; Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robillard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Scorgie, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. MacDonald, Mr. J. MacDonald and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson, Mrs. A. Emmard and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McLeod, all of Vancouver.

Ward-Mathers Nuptials

A full-length wedding coat topped the delustred white satin gown worn by Patricia Ann Mathers, recently, when she became the bride of Terrance Frank Ward in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Ladysmith.

Appliques of satin lace and seed pearls accented the cuffs of the coat's bracelet-length sleeves. The coat also featured a high rounded neckline and a flared skirt. A headpiece of lily of the valley held her shoulder length veil of silk illusion net and she carried a bouquet of white freesia and deep blue delphiniums.

Arrangements of delphiniums, roses and peonies in pink, blue and white decorated the church when Fr. Rudden heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of William G. Mathers, 1039 St. David Street, Victoria, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ward of Campbell, Calif. Mr. Mathers gave his daughter in marriage.

Pale blue floor-length gowns, styled on empire lines, were worn by maid of honor Miss Marion Alexander, Victoria; bridesmatron Mrs. W. Conover, and bridesmaid, Miss Joan Francis, of Vancouver. They wore dark blue flowers in their hair and their bouquets were of pale blue delphiniums and white majestic daisies.

Little Jane Pearse, Victoria, was flower girl for her cousin in a full-length dress of pale blue nylon over taffeta. She wore a circlet of blue ribbon roses in her hair and delphinium flowerets were in her colonial bouquet.

James Turriff was best man and Gary Sturch and Michael Mathers, the groom's brother, were ushers.

A garden reception followed at the Ladysmith home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Dickson. Pink rosebuds topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table. Hon. Mr. Justice David Verchere proposed the toast to his niece.

The couple is now making their home in Vancouver following a honeymoon trip touring the provincial interior. For travelling, the new Mrs. Ward donned an A-line dress of wool in olive green and oatmeal houndstooth check. She complemented the outfit with a matching coat, beige kid accessories and corsage of yellow marguerite daisies.

Ball-Mitcham Vows Heard

Following a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe, Nev., and San Francisco, Calif., newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Arthur Ball are now making their home in Vancouver.

The bride, the former Sandra Mae Mitcham, is the daughter of Mrs. Reginald C. Mitcham, 4892 Townsend Drive, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, 1661 Ruby Road. Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated at the service in St. Aidan's United Church and Jack Nott gave his granddaughter in marriage.

During the ceremony, Mrs. M. Sturgeon sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied by organist Mrs. M. Campbell.

The bride's empire-line gown was of peau de soie, highlighted with accents of Chantilly lace at the waist. The bodice featured a square neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Similar lace accents bordered the full train which swept back from the waist. Her four-tier veil of silk illusion net misted from an organza headpiece and she carried a bouqet of red Baccarra roses and white carnations. Only jewelry was the groom's gift of pearls.

Street-length A-line dresses of apricot crystal charm were worn by maid of honor Miss Diane Crowe, matron of honor Mrs. Sharron Pilotte and bridesmaids, the Misses Brenda Amos and Charleen Polsen.

Their headpieces were en tone and they carried bouquets of off-white carnations, bordered in apricot. Junior bridesmaid, Rhonda Mitcham, the bride's sister, was in a dress of white crystal charm, accented with lace and apricot ribbon. All wore the bride's gifts of heart-shaped pearl pendants. Her brother, Ronald, was train bearer.

Stanley Ball was best man for his brother. Guests were ushered to pews marked with Esther Reed daisies, carnations and fern by the bride's brother Russell Mitcham, Richard Brown and Terry Neuenfeldt.

Red Baccarra roses flanked the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in Holyrood House. The bride's mother made the cake and it was decorated by D. Mackinnon, assisted by Mrs. J. Spence and Mrs. C. Cronk.

James Amos proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Ball chose a dress and coat ensemble in turquoise linen, accented with white lace. White and turquoise accessories completed the outfit.

Cole-Hagglund Marriage Ceremony

A cascade bouquet of orchids and piakake, sent from Hawaii, was carried by Donna Marlyne Hagglund, recently, when she became the bride of Robert Allan Cole, North Vancouver.

The bouquet also included orange blossoms which were in her mother's bouquet at her wedding. The bouquet was an accent to the bride's floor-length sheath gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace. It featured a scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves and was topped with a sleeveless cardinal coat of white silk-faced peau de soie, styled en train. Her floor-length illusion veil misted from a headpiece of Alencon lace and pearls.

First United Church was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and carnations when Rev. Marvin G. Fowler heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hagglund, 2781 Foul Bay Road, and the son of Robert Cole, Burnaby, and the late Mrs. Cole. Mr. Hagglund gave his daughter in marriage.

During the ceremony, Mrs. Hubert Norbury sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," and "I'll Walk Beside You," accompanied by organist Kenneth Ansdell.

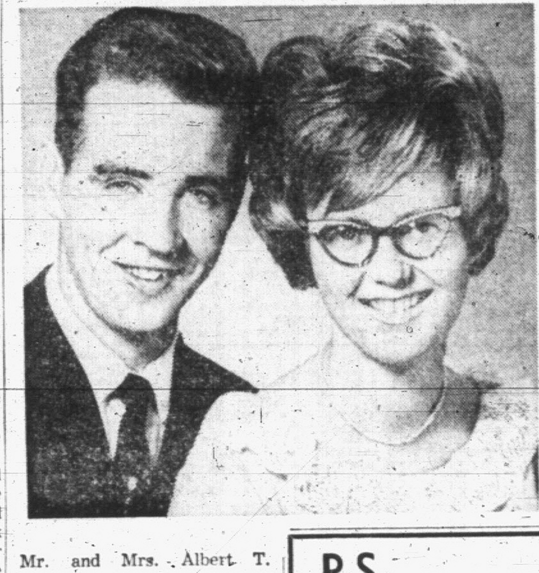
Matron of honor Mrs. Thomas Pearson, Huntington Beach, Calif.; and bridesmaids, the bride's twin sisters, Lyn and Lee Hagglund were in empire-line gowns of candy-pink chiffon over taffeta. Accenting the outfits were rose headpieces en tone edged with veils, and cascade bouquets of vanda orchids in pink and white tones.

Best man was Const. Robert Bouck, RCMP. Ushering guests were Robert Unwin, Victoria, and Thomas Pearson.

Miniature orchids topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the Olde England Inn. Telegrams were read and Walter R. Cummine, Calgary, proposed the toast to the bride.

An azalea pink Italian-knit suit, accented with a white floral hat and white accessories, was worn by the bride for travelling on honeymoon to Kelowna. A catalaya orchid, sent from Hawaii, completed her outfit.

The couple will be making their home in North Vancouver.



Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Foster, 1229 Tattersal Drive, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Ann, to Mr. Robert Frederick Holler, of Rosetown, Sask. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 20, at 2 p.m., in St. John's Anglican Church. Canon Grahame Baker will officiate. (Chevron's Studio.)

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

Jim: "Take a look at the North and East hands and the bidding. Your partner opens the four of spades. The ten is played from dummy. What do you do with the East hand?"

Jim has a problem for his father:

Opening lead—♠ 4

Oswald: "I think, then I think a little more. Eventually I decide to go against the normal rule of third hand high and play my fivespot. If my partner has led from the ace and king I will really look silly but I figure at least 100 to one chance of finding at least one top spade honor in declarer's hand."

Jim: "You are right on all counts. Declarer does hold the ace of spades. If you put up your queen he will have a sure spade entry for dummy's diamond suit and a cinch for at least nine tricks. If you play low you will kill the entry. He still can make the hand by unusual play but the chances are he will wind up going down a couple of tricks."

Oswald: 'Let's look at the whole hand. If I play low on the spade I must also duck the first diamond. Then if he tries a second diamond finesse he will be shut out of dummy entirely."

Jim: "The play to make the hand is to assume both minor suit kings are misplaced. After winning one diamond he goes after clubs but he refuses to finesse. This way he loses only two club tricks and winds up with three club tricks plus two tricks in each other suit."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

Baseball followers weren't the least bit surprised, but the man on the street concerned about the tight money policies on the American consumer, walked away from the Frank McGee Report on NBC-TV more than a little confused.

The problem of tight money, or anti-inflation measures followed by banks, is best seen in southern California because it is the fastest growing area of the U.S. The vice-president, Valley National Bank of Glendale, California, was interviewed.

"Well, I'm very much interested in the banking business, since I had my injured hip, I . . . July 30 . . . I stay out on the Pacific Coast, and whenever I'm able I report to the bank every day. We have three banks, two in Glendale, one in North Hollywood. And I'm very much interested in going to the banking . . . to go to different places, and if they have bankers' convention."

"The situation in the banking business is very good. We've got new buildings now, but all your friends that come to see you and . . . it don't make any difference what state you're in now, because this is changed. You got to charge a little more than you feel you ought to charge, even for your own friends because of the money situation in our state."

Questioner: "What about tight money?"

VanPee: "Well, it's very tight. I've got it. I didn't like to talk about it myself . . . but I couldn't say anything about the money situation any more. There is . . . you're very fortunate you've got banks that are as safe as they are at the present time."

Questioner: "Are banks doing okay in competition with savings and loan associations?"

VanPee: "Well, they're all doing amazing out there, it seems like savings and loan. That's all I'd want to talk about, the banking business. I'm not supposed to be an authority on the banking business. I'm not making up the money now that it's got so much copper in it. It's . . . it used to be gold. That's the only thing I'll say about the banking business. I like the banking business. We got new buildings and they'll be safe."

So spoke Casey Dillon Stengel and the interview was a perfect example of the much-touted Stengelese. Is it any wonder the once-proud New York Yankees started the downhill slide from the day Stengel left the club? The players can't understand their new handlers who speak only English.

MANSION

Swing wide the white gates and gaze in awe at this stately home with pegged beams and leaded bay windows, located on 2½ acres of sweeping lawns and English gardens just outside the City limits.

Enter the thirty-foot beamed entrance hall with gleaming oak floors — large entertainment size living room with green slate fireplace and through the french doors to a covered red brick patio for the summer afternoon cuppa tea.

The dining room is magnificent, — just imagine, setting a table for sixteen guests or more with logs crackling in the open red brick fireplace, surrounded by old world charm.

The kitchen is completely modernized yet in keeping with the character of the house.

Up the wide open stairway to the second floor with four bedrooms and nursery. (Maid's quarters on main floor). Full price of $49,500.00 (approximately one - third replacement cost.)

This is a truly magnificent Estate and if you are intrigued and would allow me the privilege of showing it to you, by appointment only, please call:

Majority Rule Asked For Juries

LONDON (CP) — The rule that juries must return unanimous verdicts in England and Wales may end next year, say two London newspapers.

Scottish juries of 15 have long convicted or acquitted by a majority vote of eight. But England and Wales — like Canada — demand a new trial if all 12 cannot agree.

The Daily Sketch says Home Secretary Roy Jenkins will seek cabinet approval for a criminal justice bill that would allow conviction by a majority of nine.

The Daily Mail says the bill probably will call for a 10-2 vote, although some members of the legal team drafting the bill are understood to be pressing for a 9-3 rule.

Both papers say the change is prompted by alarm over recent cases of bribes offered to jurymen.

The change is believed to apply only in criminal cases.

Tuesday night two lawyers called for a majority vote in a television discussion.

Lord Shawcross, a former attorney-general, and Lord Dilhorne, who has been both Lord chancellor and attorney-general, said the current rules for criminal trials are favorable to the guilty. They agreed the figure of 40 per cent acquittals by juries was disturbing.

HIROSHIMA ATOM BOMB STILL CLAIMS VICTIMS

HIROSHIMA (UPI)—Eighteen persons have died in 1966 of diseases connected with the dropping of the world's first atomic bomb 21 years ago.

Officials of the Hiroshima Red Cross A-bomb hospital also said cases of cancer and similar malignant tumors are increasing among patients there. They said 33 of 129 patients hospitalized between January and June this year had cancer or similar malignant tumors. Only 20 such patients were reported in the same period last year.

TEMPERATURES in the west will be near normal or above during August, according to the 30-day outlook issued by the United States weather bureau. Most of eastern Canada can expect below normal temperatures; a sharp break from the hot, humid conditions of July. Rain will be moderate to heavy west of the Lakehead and light in the east. ### 600 TO DIE IN '66

Blood Stains Our Highways

Motor vehicles superintendent Ray Hadfield Tuesday predicted 600 persons will be killed in traffic accidents this year in B.C. if the current death rate continues.

That would be almost a 21 per cent increase over the 491 killed on the province's roads last year.

The prediction is based on the 239 dead tallied during the first six months of this year, a 21 per cent increase over the same period of 1965.

The branch's figures showed that a trend of the past two years is continuing unabated —motorists are not colliding more often, proportionately, but they are hitting each other harder and killing more often.

Mr. Hadfield said highway travel and vehicle numbers are up by 9 per cent while the number of accidents has increased only 7 per cent.

Injuries have risen 9 per cent to a total of 8,117 by the end of June but property damage has risen 18 per cent to $10.9 million, some of the increase accounted for by rising repair costs.

'MORE SEVERE'

"The fatality rate is increasing faster than the accident rate, indicating that our highway accidents are becoming progressively more severe," Mr. Hadfield said.

"Moreover, vehicles are more expensive, they travel faster, repairs are costlier.

"All of these things are involved but one must still harp back to the same old basic problem—the lack of responsibility of the individual driver.

"No matter what we do, we will not succeed so long as the individual motorist behaves as though he's the only human being on the road."

Mr. Hadfield said the branch has investigated 89,600 drivers' records after accidents or court cases during the first seven months of this year.

As a result, 5,200 warnings have been issued, 900 hearings and interviews held, 729 drivers have been placed on probation and another 1,723 have had their licenses suspended by the branch in addition to 8,500 who automatically lost licences because they couldn't prove financial responsibility.

The branch's program of screening poor drivers has been in addition to some 3,000 licence suspensions ordered by magistrates between Jan. 1 and July 31 this year, an increase in itself of 35 per cent.

Assistant Appointed Head of Observatory

The new director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain is Dr. Kenneth Wright.

He succeeds Dr. Robert Petrie, who died last April.

Dr. Wright, born in 1911 in Fort George, B.C., was appointed assistant director of the observatory in 1960.

He was president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada from 1964 to 1966.

He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and obtained his master's degree from the same university and his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1940.

His principal investigations have been the detailed analyses of stellar spectra to determine temperatures, pressures, velocity fields and chemical composition of stellar atmospheres.

Lack of Interest Closes Clinics On Parenthood

TORONTO (CP)—Three birth control clinics started several months ago by the Planned Parenthood Association of Toronto were closed Tuesday because of poor attendance.

Mrs. George Cadbury, president and executive director of the association, said closing of the clinics doesn't mean the association is giving up its fight to make birth control information available to those who want it.

She said another problem was that the association had difficulty in getting doctors to volunteer their time.

Alderman Wants Guides To Take Tourist Course

. . . 'inefficient spielers'

At least one city alderman feels that Victoria's tourist guides are doing a shoddy job.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow asked the Intermunicipal Committee Tuesday to support a crackdown on inefficient spielers.

"Right now a taxi driver or a tourist bus driver needs a special license signed by the chief of police before he can operate," Ald. Edgelow said. "If in addition to passing driving tests the man had to pass a general knowledge test we would know that we were getting tourist guides with at least some knowledge of the city's history."

The committee declined to act on Ald. Edgelow's suggestion saying it was a matter for the Chamber of Commerce or the Visitors Bureau.

Following the meeting Ald. Edgelow said he would continue to press for higher standards for tourist guides.

"If we gave them a couple of weeks instruction prior to the start of the tourist season it would be a tremendous help," he said.

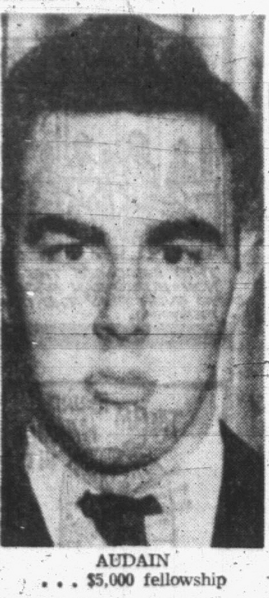
"It's amazing how many people we have taking tourists around who know little or nothing of the city's history. They should at least be able to tell the visitors the history of Craigdarroch Castle or how Beacon Hill Park came into being."

Ald. Edgelow's plan would see all people in contact with tourists taking a two-week course on a voluntary basis.

But he said he would take a stronger line with all employees requiring a license to operate a bus, tally-ho or other tourist attractions.

"If I had my way," he said, "they wouldn't get their license until they could prove that they knew enough about the city and its flowers to talk intelligently to tourists and be able to answer questions."

Ald. Edgelow said he had been receiving numerous complaints from tourists that city guides didn't know their business.



AUDAIN
. . . $5,000 fellowship

City Man Plans Post-Graduate Study in London

Michael J. Audain, son of James Audain, 333 King George Terrace, has been awarded a $5,000 fellowship by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. for post-graduate study in social work.

Mr. Audain, 29, is now on the staff of the planning department of the city of Vancouver. He attended Glenlyon School, Victoria College and the University of British Columbia where he won a master's degree. He will use his fellowship to study for a doctorate at the University of London, England.

Mr. Audain is married and has one daughter.

'LOOKED LIKE AN ALL-AMERICAN BOY'

Sniper Massacre Cause Still Mystery

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—What drove Charles Joseph Whitman mad?

Whatever it was, could it have been detected?

A brain tumor the size of a pecan, his parents' separation, the strain of his studies, hostility toward his father, a mass killing in Chicago a month before the one he committed Monday—all were suggested as pieces of the puzzle.

But no one really knew.

Despite an ominous reference to thoughts of "shooting people" from the University of Texas tower—a thought Whitman turned to action Monday—a psychiatrist—who examined him four months ago said he looked like an "all-American boy"—and anything but a psycopath.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Maurice Dean Heatly, talked to Whitman at the university student health service last March for two hours. The ex-marine made an appointment to come back again, but broke it.

Heatly said the 25-year-old student told him he was "thinking about going up on the tower with a deer rifle to start shooting people."

But he said it seemed a "transient thought."

"It was sort of like saying, 'I got so mad that I could do something,'" Heatly said.

Nevertheless, it was the only direct quote he put in his notes from the interview.

Heatly said Whitman was "oozing with hostility" and enmity toward his father, who had separated from his mother a month earlier.

He said Whitman accused his father of being brutal, and domineering and also confessed having beaten his own wife on two occasions.

Theories came from several quarters. Whitman's father, C. M. Whitman of Lake Worth, Fla., said his son drove himself to the breaking point in his studies.

Texas Gov. John Connally, arriving in Miami after cutting short a trip to South America, said he thought the recent slaying of eight Chicago student nurses may have triggered the sniper massacre.

Medical experts said they doubted a pecan-sized tumor at the base of Whitman's brain could have prompted the murder spree.

"Violent psychotic behavior is extremely rare in persons with a brain tumor," said one expert. At the University of Illinois, Dr. Eric Goldberg, head of the neuro-surgery department said, "I've never heard of brain tumors causing violence."

Dr. Daniel Ruge, a Chicago neuro-surgeon, said there was no question that brain tumors can cause personality changes, "but I've never heard of them causing violence."

In his case file on Whitman, Heatly observed the student was "self-centered and egocentric and at the same time wants to improve himself. The degenerated state of affairs with his parents, plus his repeated recent failure to achieve have become extremely frustrating to him."

"Repeated inquiries attempting to analyze his exact experiences were not too successful with the exception of his vivid reference to 'thinking about going up on the tower with a deer rifle and start shooting people'."

AFFAIR 'CLUMSY PERFORMANCE'

Classified Document Found In Home of CIA Spy Expert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is investigating one of its experts in clandestine affairs. Classified documents were found in his home by another CIA man who was looking for a place to live.

The expert — Hans V. Tofte — was brought under investigation after the house hunter and a CIA security man returned to his Georgetown home and recovered the document.

Tofte said that after the second visit he was missing some $20,000 in jewelry belonging to his wife.

At the time the documents were discovered by Kenneth R. Slocum, who reported his find to CIA security men, neither Tofte nor Slocum knew the other was employed by the U.S. spy agency.

A CIA spokesman gave the agency's side of the story Tuesday in response to a story in the Mineapolis Tribune and the Des Moines Register and Tribune by Washington correspondent Clark Mollenhoff.

'SILLY' RAID

Tofte told UPI that CIA had staged a "silly cloak and dagger raid" on his home, and he was outraged. He said it was customary for CIA men of his standing to take papers home to work on them. The Mollenhoff story described Tofte as a $25,000 a year man for the CIA.

He said the agency could well have waited outside his home until he had returned home, and then asked him to get the documents. Instead, he said, they distracted his mother-in-law while ostensibly looking at the house, and picked them up.

He said "what started as a coincidence ended as a clumsy performance." He termed the handling of the matter "unprofessional."

The CIA spokesman said Tofte was still on the agency's employment rolls but the investigation of his handling of classified documents was continuing.

The CIA spokesman said that Tofte had listed his home for sale with a realty firm which arranged for Slocum to see the property.

Slocum was shown through the house by Tofte's mother-in-law on Saturday, July 23. Tofte said he only wanted to show a basement apartment.

BALLOONIST REMAINS CRITICAL

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—A balloonist who took off from Sioux Falls last spring and ran out of oxygen at 57,000 feet remains in serious condition at the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md.

Nick Piantanida, 33, of Brick Town, N.J., was taken to Bethesda from Minneapolis General Hospital in June. Authorities in Bethesda have released no information on his chances of recovery.

Piantanida was trying to set a record for free fall from a balloon by parachute when his oxygen system failed. He gasped out his plight by radio and a ground crew brought him down, but he was unconscious from oxygen deficiency when he was found.

Reagan Opposes Controls

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial nominee Ronald Reagan, who has handled many a six-shooter in his movie roles, vowed Tuesday to "resist any effort that would take from the American citizen his right to own and possess firearms."

Reagan also told a news conference in Los Angles that he would oppose any law requiring registration of firearms. However, he said he believes some control of mail order gun sales would be in order.

The former actor's comments came in answer to questions about Monday's sniper killings in Austin, Tex. Reagan said he does not believe firearms control was involved in the Texas incident.

Reagan, who opposes the third-term bid of Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the November general election, said he could not comment on the relative adequacy of California's laws on firearms control. Nor would he say what changes in the state's laws, if any, he would advocate if elected.

Impaired Driver Pays $350 Fine

Donald MacDonald, 3986 Bow St., was fined $350 in central court Tuesday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Court was told the accused was charged Aug. 2 after his car was seen weaving on Highway 1A near the Six Mile House. Officers found MacDonald's speech slurred and he fumbled while trying to locate his driving licence.

NEW superintendent of Banff National Park is D. J. Learmouth, 37, assistant chief of the national park service. A native of Quebec City, he was a forest engineer in the Northwest Territories and Yukon before joining the parks department.

British Inspector Inspects Us

The first English policeman to come to North America on an exchange basis arrived in Victoria Tuesday.

Chief Inspector John Kennard of the Lancashire (England) Constabulary will take an informal look at Victoria City police, Victoria RCMP and possibly Vancouver police methods.

Inspector's home base away from home base is Multnomah County, Portland, Oregon, where he is spending six months in more intensive study of police systems.

An American police lieutenant is spending a like time with the Inspector's force in England.

Describing himself as "a guinea pig" Inspector Kennard said he was especially impressed with the use of computers in combatting crime in North America.

He will leave for home Sept. 30.

Big Test Set Tonight On U.K. Pay Freeze

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservatives, supported by big business, today launched an attack on the wide powers the Labor government is seeking to impose a standstill on price and wage increases. Parliamentary approval still seems certain.

The attack headed for a climax tonight when Conservative Leader Edward Heath forced a vote to bring the freeze bill out of a parliamentary committee and debate all its details in the House of Commons.

Some left-wing Labor MPs have warned they will abstain in the vote to display their disapproval of the freeze and underline their contention that the big package of tax boosts and budget cuts already unwrapped should be sufficient to protect the pound sterling.

Saanich Agrees To Pay Share For Blueprint

Greater Victoria' new Family and Children's court took a wavering step forward Tuesday.

Reeve High Curtis, Saanich, a hold-out for the provincial government cost-sharing formula for all costs told the Intermunicipal Committee he would recommend to his council that it temporarily abandon that stand in favor of the intermunicipal formula.

But he stressed that the recommendation would be for working drawings only.

"If it is clearly understood by this committee that if my council agrees to go along with the intermunicipal cost sharing for the working drawings, that decision will be without prejudice so far as capital costs and present operating expenses are concerned," he said.

The committee agreed.

If Saanich council approves the reeve's stand the way will be cleared for the preparation of blueprints at a cost of $6,000 to be shared by four municipalities.

STALLED FOR MONTHS

The family court program has been stalled for several months because Victoria insisted on the intermunicipal cost sharing formula, while Saanich, afraid that agreement at one level would create a precedent for all future cost sharing, stuck with the government formula.

Having agreed to get the working drawings underway as soon as possible the committee also agreed to ask the newly formed Regional District Board to be the instrument to finance construction of the building itself.

The proposal is that the regional board finance and build the court house and lease it back to the four municipalities at a rent calculated to meet annual debt charges.

If the regional district group agrees to the proposal changes will be required in its letters patent to broaden the board's jurisdiction.

It already looks after the acquisition of parkland for the area, supervises the district sewerage survey and administers firecracker control.

Application By Eaton's On Agenda

A public hearing will be held Monday night into three rezoning applications in Saanich.

It will be followed by a special council meeting to consider the Greater Victoria Sewerage Survey released last month.

Among the three rezoning applications is one from Dominion Construction for a warehouse and retail sales building for Eaton's on the east side of the 800 block Seymour, behind Town and Country Shopping Centre.

The same application was rejected before by Saanich, but council, approved a new public hearing after fresh plans were provided.

The other two applications are for the Handicapped Children's Clinic, northwest corner of Arbutus and Haro, and commercial recreation development at the end of Meadowbrook Road near Prospect Lake.

FOR VICTORIA SCHOOLS

Trustee Backs Phys. Ed. Plan

The director of physical education in Greater Victoria schools has come back from England determined to upgrade the quality of physical education in this area.

George Grant said on his return that Great Britain is far ahead of British Columbia in its programs but "with our natural facilities we could do more than they are doing."

Mr. Grant toured British schools under a federal government grant to study their physical education programs.

His ideas have already been endorsed by one school trustee, Peter Bunn, who made a similar inspection of British sports facilities two years ago on a private visit.

Said Mr. Bunn: "We don't want youngsters to get fat and flabby in our dynamic society. I'd like to see George Grant bring in some firm proposals to improve our physical education program."

Mr. Grant said the feature he most noticed about British schools was that many of them had swimming pools and all of them had extensive swimming programs. Those without pools used community facilities, even though it meant taking children to pools by bus.

He said another noticeable feature was the way in which community organizations co-operated with schools in allowing their facilities to be used by students.

He said similar co-operation here between sports, sailing and athletic clubs and schools could result in a better program than the British have.

Mr. Grant said he is going to explore the possibility of in-service training for physical education teachers in new methods of teaching gymnastics.

He said Great Britain makes extensive use of a method in which the children exercise themselves instead of performing controlled movements under the direction of an instructor. He said he would like to have some teachers in Greater Victoria schools trained in this method.

'YOU GIVE YOUR BEST, THAT'S IT!'

Playwright Least Anxious of All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Of all the people working and praying for the success of Like Father, Like Fun on Broadway, it's the playwright himself, Eric Nicol, who is the least anxious.

"You give your best, but

NICOL
. . . second play

you don't assume it is going to be successful," he said in an interview. "Your can't afford to get bound up in any one work. If it fails, it sears you."

The play, the second by 46-year-old Nicol, a syndicated columnist and Canada's top prize-winning humorist, was the sensation of the season at the Vancouver Playhouse, where artistic director Malcolm Black presented it with a local cast.

It tells the story of a lumber tycoon's efforts to prod his teen-age son out of premature conformity by getting him a mistress. But it all turns out quite differently, as a farce ought to.

The combination of the play's success on the West Coast and Nicol's reputation induced Ed Mirvish, discount store king and proprietor of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, to bring it to his theatre for a summer fortnight and then finance its opening in New York.

"If it succeeds, it will be the first Canadian written or produced show to do so," wrote the Toronto Star's Nathan Cohen, in a gloomy survey of a dozen earlier Canadian hits which bombed on Broadway.

Like Father, Like Fun is booked to open Sept. 8 at the Cort Theatre, New York.

The play drew lukewarm reviews from the Toronto critics. Herbert Whittaker of The Globe and Mail found it had "a lot of promise, in a disarmingly modest way," while Cohen of the Star loathed it — "the worst show . . . in the Royal Alexandra since the end of the Second World War." Ron Evans of The Telegram liked the first half but not the second.

"Had this play started out from say, Dallas, it's conceivable that it might still be on its way to New York," Evans amplified. "But you can be certain there'd be a darn good play doctor . . . working like fury on that failing second act."

Nevertheless the Toronto public turned up in thousands. Although the planned run was only two weeks, Mirvish decided to sell tickets as long as anyone would buy them and arranged to continue Like Father, Like Fun simultaneously with Chicago's Second City revue, which he had already booked for Aug. 4-20.

Nicol had written only one play before, a pageant, but has 12 books behind him and has won three Leacock medals for humor, the minimum allowable. He writes three columns a week — keeping two months ahead, for safety — for The Province, Vancouver's morning newspaper.

Eric Nicol is a shy and unobtrusive man who would accept only $1 as down payment for his play in Vancouver. He writes his column for the Province with a pen, typing it out later for the printer — at home in a modest one-storey house near the University of British Columbia's land grant.

"I'm only a part-time gardener," he says, "36 hours a week."

He has worked at The Province for 15 years. Before that he took BA and MA degrees at UBC, separated by wartime RCAF service — "ground crew, no decorations" — and wrote scripts in London for Bernie Braden's radio show.

Since then, Nicol's historical parodies and columns have gone far. His tribute to President Kennedy was read in the U.S. Congress after the assassination.

Nicol suppresses the urge to drive a sports car "because a family man drives a family car" and waited until he was 35 before marrying Myrl Heselton and fathering three children.

Describing himself as a theoretical anarchist and a practical small-l liberal, he seems thoroughly conservative in private life. He has no urge to move to the United States or overseas again, nor even to leave Vancouver.

He likes his homeland's political stability and finds his home town "the most pleasant place in Canada."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kathy Ruff, age 11, of St. Louis, Mo., for her question:

What kind of animal is a hyrax?

The hyrax is a bunny-type animal of Syria and widely separted parts of Africa. In Syria he is known as the daman and in South Africa the ground-dwelling hyrax is called the klipdas and his tree-dwelling cousin is called the dassie. The ground dweller may be called the rock rabbit or the rock hyrax because he enjoys life among the rocks of a sunny hillside.

All these aliases are modern names, for the family tree of the hyrax dates back millions of years to the very dawn of the Age of Mammals. In the Bible he is called the cony, and a pair of his ancestors certainly survived the flood in the safety of Noah's Ark. His earliest ancestors shared the world with the last of the dinosaurs at least 60 million years ago.

Zoologists have studied the features of the modern hyrax and paleontologists have studied fossils of his early relatives. And all the experts agree that the hyrax is not a rabbit and is no kin to the bunny clan. The little fellow shares some features with the mighty elephant. His wide nails resemble hooves and his cheek teeth are like those of the rhinoceros.

The common hyrax is a rabbit size animal with thick, brown rabbit fur. He has a rather-pointed nose set off with crisp whiskers, a pair of alert bright eyes and small, round furry ears. His legs are very short and his tail is not worth mentioning. Most of his day is spent lolling in the sunshine with a colony of 50 or 60 relatives. He breakfasts at dawn and dines in late afternoon on fruit and leafy greenery.

YOUR HEALTH

Teen-Agers Can't Sleep Anywhere But Home

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I keep hearing from many parents of children who are still wetting the bed in their teens.

Alvarez

Some of these parents say that they have tried punishments and shaming the child but nothing has worked. Actually, it is extremely cruel to jeer at the poor child or to shame him before people. Here on my desk is a letter from a girl of 13, who says she has wet the bed as long as she can remember.

She is much distressed because she can't visit with her friends and she can't stay overnight anywhere. Her parents are ashamed of her and look on her as a baby. She feels she often wrecks their fun because they can't go on a vacation and take her along. They can't stay in a hotel or a motel, or a summer camp.

As she says, "I have been so much trouble to them." She realizes that she is a sore trial to her mother, who for years has had the daily burden of cleaning up a soiled bed. As she says, "We have tried everything, but nothing has worked."

Now, she is about to try the usually very successful electrical apparatus which causes a siren to go off a second after a pad under her pelvis becomes slightly wet. In 9 out of 10 cases, if the child and her mother are trained to use this apparatus, the child is well in a matter of a few weeks or months. The girl says, "The apparatus has got to work, because if it doesn't, I'll just die . . . Every time I think about my wetting the bed, I hurt all over inside, and I almost cry."

This letter can give the answer to those many people who try to believe that the child doesn't care, or that he or she is even enjoying the situation. Some people who love pshchoanalytic theories can figure out why the child is wetting the bed and enjoying it, but many a psychiatrist who has made careful studies of these children says that they are normal enough.

I have known many of these children who were obviously tremendously relieved when at last they could "sleep dry." There seems to be no question that the tendency to bed-wetting is inherited, because it runs in certain families.

Recently, I spent three days in a big medical library, reading some 50 articles on the treatment of bed-wetting and the only hopeful articles I found were those in which able doctors — many of them psychiatrists — reported that they had tried the electric apparatus and had found that it cured perhaps 9 out of 10 of the children.

I was much impressed on reading a number of interesting papers by the heads of big children's hospitals in England, who said that they had lost all interest in treating the children with psychiatry and with medicines. The only treatment they were enthusiastic about was that with the electric apparatus. Incidentally, as this runs with an ordinary small battery, it can't possibly hurt the child.

Anti-Nuclear Conference Collapses

TOKYO (Reuters)—The Japanese Communist party's anti-nuclear world conference collapsed today, split into pro-Moscow and pro - Peking factions after two days of bitter wrangling.

The representatives of left-wing organizations from only six of the 21 foreign countries represented during the preliminary conference of the 12th World Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs (Gensuikyo) attended today's final session.

They were the Japanese hosts, plus delegates from Denmark, France, Guyana, North Korea, Romania and the United States.

Missing were delegates claiming to represent opinion in Australia, New Zealand, Malaya, Ceylon, the Philippines, Swaziland, Basutoland, Bechuanaland, the Sudan, Belgium, Panama, Brazil, Columbia, Britain and South-West Africa.

ADMIT SOVIET CITIZEN

They boycotted the conference when the conference decided Monday to admit Vladimir Orel, a Soviet citizen, the delegate of the Budapest-based World Federation of Democratic Youth.

In a statement the dissident delegates said the conference refused the request of the "overwhelming majority" of delegates to exclude Orel from the meeting.

The dissenters were determined to establish a genuine international united front against "United States imperialism and its lackeys," it said.

"We are fully convinced that such a front can only be formed of honest, anti - imperialist strugglers and cannot contain the agents of imperialism, namely collaborators controlled by the present rulers in Moscow."

A conference official said the conference would continue in Hiroshima and Nagasaki on the anniversary of the dropping of the first atom bombs as scheduled. Hiroshima was bombed Aug. 6, 1945, and Nagasaki three days later.

'Everyone A Soldier' Mao's Goal

TOKYO (AP)—China, acting in the name of party chief Mao Tse-tung, has launched a broad new campaign to reduce specialization among its workers, peasants, students and soldiers.

"This brilliant idea of comrade Mao Tse-tung," the Peking People's Daily says, will turn China into "a great revolutionary school where the people take part both in industry and agriculture, in military as well as civilian affairs."

It will "turn everyone into a soldier," the Chinese Communist party newspaper says, "and greatly strengthen our combat preparedness. Should imperialism dare to invade us, it will be drowned in the great ocean of the people's war."

TWO DIRECTIVES

The program is contained in two directives from Mao referred to Tuesday and today in editorials and reports on the 39th anniversary of the Chinese Communist Army.

There were indications that the purge announced Tuesday of high-ranking army officers, including chief of staff Lo Juiching, stemmed from opposition to Mao's program. The purged officers apparently wanted to keep the 2,500,000-man army a professional body concentrating on military skills.

Mao's directives called on all citizens to study politics, military affairs and culture and to "criticize the bourgeoisie."

Army personnel, the Peking People's Daily, said, can also engage in agricultural production and side occupations.

Chinese Defects In Syria

DAMASCUS (AP) — The defection of a Chinese Communist is straining the usually friendly relations between Peking and the leftist Syrian government.

The defector turned up last Wednesday at the U.S. embassy. Syrian sources say he apparently was a private secretary to the Chinese ambassador, Chen Ken. The ambassador appealed to the Syrian government for help in getting him back. The government has taken no action, apparently on grounds that the defector is protected by diplomatic immunity.

The U.S. state department has said only that "a Chinese national" requested asylum. The embassy declined today to say whether he had been flown out of Syria.

'THE LORD'S WILL'

Widow Returns to Congo

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Paul Carlson is on her way back to The Congo today, hoping to bring medical help to the country where her husband was killed less than two years ago.

"I feel we're carrying on what he wanted to do," she said before she left Tuesday night for a two-week visit to the African republic.

Her purpose is to seek a suitable medical project for the Dr. Paul Carlson Foundation. It was established last Nov. 24 on the first anniversary of the medical missionary's death by rebel gunfire.

"I know what some of his hopes and dreams were for the medical work in The Congo," said Carlson's widow, a slim, blonde woman in her mid-30s, who lives in Torrance, Calif., with their two children and near her husband's parents.

"If through the foundation some of his dreams could be realized, and if through his memory he could continue to bear witness for Christ—always his greatest desire — then his death has not ended his achievements," she said.

Neither Mrs. Carlson nor her husband's family—all members of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America—has ever been bitter about his death.

"We feel this has all been the Lord's will," she said, "and we will be reunited in the hereafter."

GIRL DIES FROM SHOT

HOQUIAM, Wash. (AP) — Kelley Campbell, 4, shot mysteriously as she played near her home here Monday, died Tuesday as a result of the wound.

The little girl was shot in the back of the head with a .22-calibre bullet. She never regained consciousness.

"We don't have anything definite yet," said Sgt. Edward Herman. The Hoquiam police officer said several persons had been questioned, but none taken into custody.

'Campaign of Terror' By Leftists on Bali

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Communists and Communist sympathizers are reported waging a campaign of terror on the romantic holiday island of Bali, east of Java.

A report received here from the official Antara news agency said Communists were hurling grenades, burning down buildings and scrawling inflammatory slogans on public buildings.

Earlier this year, during the blood bath which swept Indonesia after October's abortive Communist coup, thousands of Communists were reported to have been slaughtered on Bali.

Moslems and nationalists scoured the island seeking all known or suspected Communists. Reports then said women and children were hacked to death.

Reliable military reports reaching here today from the Rhio Islands off Singapore said Communist gangs were trying to overthrow the Moslem governor, Brig. Kaharuddin Nasution.

Canada to Seek More Frenchmen

Marchand Gives Policy Outline

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Marchand announced plans today to boost immigration to Canada from France.

The minister told a press conference his department has no specific target or detailed scheme yet worked out but one idea that's being given priority is a survey of Canadians—particularly in "French Canada"—to find out why many French immigrants "don't feel at home in Canada."

He said Canada gained about 5,000 immigrants from France in 1965—only half of them French nationals—and immigration from France this year is running 50 per cent ahead of where it was at this point last year.

Canada needed a "better balance in immigration as far as languages are concerned."

VISITED FRANCE

The minister made a four-day visit to France last week. He questioned officials during his visit on the reasons for the low immigration from France. There was a suggestion that Frenchmen were probably more reluctant than other nationals to leave home.

He was also unsure that French immigrants, as well as other immigrants, were as well received by French Canadians as by other Canadians. This was the reason for the survey.

Despite the upsurge in French immigration — immigrants from Belgium, many of them French-speaking, are running 100 per cent ahead of last year—Canada's need for skilled French-language immigrants remained high.

France appeared to have a surplus of technicians, and professional groups there told him many engineers were unemployed.

Mr. Marchand stressed that his department didn't want "a policy that will follow linguistic lines." In the case of France, Canada had not drawn a proportionate flow of immigrants compared with the 40,000 or so that come from the United Kingdom annually.

FEDERAL CABINET today commuted the death sentence of Roger Allan Fulton, 25, after hearing "important medical evidence." Fulton shot a trust company official during a robbery in Vancouver and was sentenced to be hanged next Tuesday.

MINISTER DENIES 'SLUR'

Cong 'Deliberately Avoiding Australians'

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell said Tuesday the Viet Cong does not want to fight Australian soldiers in Viet Nam and deliberately avoids them.

His statement was denied today by Defence Minister Allen Fairhall. He accused the Labor party leader of casting a slur on the competence of "three fine battalions whose courage, skill and fighting spirit have kept the Viet Cong on the move."

Calwell, who opposes Australian backing of the United States in Viet Nam, told Labor unionists that the Viet Cong has avoided dozens of opportunities of destroying the Australian 1st Battalion with their superior numbers.

"In one major battle, the Viet Cong avoided the Australians and concentrated on the Americans, he said.

Calwell did not say why the Viet Cong avoided encounters with Australians but observers said he was suggesting that the Viet Cong felt the Australians did not want to fight them.

Fairhall retorted today: "If Mr. Calwell knew anything about guerrilla tactics he would understand that the Viet Cong avoid open conflict wherever possible, and not only with the Australians."

NEAR BORDER

Troops Braced For Big Fight

SAIGON (AP)—Helicopters ferried heavy United States troop reinforcements into South Viet Nam's central plateau near Cambodia today as three days of fighting against North Vietnamese forces appeared building up into a major battle.

B-52s rained bombs on suspected enemy troops positions and a base camp just one mile from the Cambodian frontier as the reinforcements swelled the American force to 10,000 or more men.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. planes pounded the Haiphong oil depot Tuesday for the third time. North Viet Nam said the Americans also bombed residential areas in the port city and hit a steel plant north of Hanoi Monday.

The reinforcements joined infantrymen who since Monday have fought a series of short, sharp engagements with the North Vietnamese.

CONFIRM STRIKE

Washington first confirmed hitting the oil depot after North Viet Nam charged that U.S. planes made an indiscriminate raid on Haiphong, "bombing residential quarters and factories."

The North Vietnamese said they had demanded an investigation by the International Control Commission, made up of Canada, India and Poland.

Hanoi radio said that six American planes were shot down, although U.S. authorities said none were lost.

Asian Meet Proposed

BANGKOK (Reuters)— Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand called today for a new Viet Nam peace conference "this time not in Geneva, but somewhere in Asia, where all the principals in the war in Viet Nam will be invited to thrash out the existing difficulties."

Village Attacked?

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two American F-105 jet aircraft attacked a Cambodian border village while the Indo-China International Control Commission representatives watched from a short distance away, the official Cambodian news agency charged today.

American military and civilian government spokesmen in Saigon today said they were unaware of any U.S. air attack on a Cambodian border village.

AGREEMENT REACHED IN HOSPITAL STRIKE

MONTREAL (CP)—Agreement was reached early today in Quebec's hospital strike between hospital administrator Yves Pratte and union representatives, a spokesman for the National Federation of Services said.

The spokesman said the 32,500 striking non-medical workers will be asked to vote today on a new work contract. The union said it will recommend that the hospital workers accept the agreement.

If two-thirds of the union members approve the contract, work will resume in Quebec's 119 strike-hit hospitals, the spokesman said.

BOY, 14 SLAYING SUSPECT

A 14-year-old boy was to appear in Nanaimo juvenile court this afternoon in connection with the bludgeon slaying last week of Mrs. Elina Harman, 82, of nearby Chase River.

The boy, who lives in Chase River, was brought to the RCMP by his father late Tuesday night at police request.

Police said it was a "matter of elimination" that led to the youth's arrest although a palm print was found on the door of the home of the elderly recluse.

The Nanaimo prosecutor and RCMP were to decide this morning which charge would be laid against the boy.

Mrs. Hartman's body was found Saturday afternoon by a neighbour in the kitchen of her 13th Street home.

A total of $7,240 in cash which was in a plastic bag tied around her neck was untouched.

KILLER PANICKED

Police said robbery was definitely the motive for the attack, but the killer panicked and ran after beating the old woman with a piece of firewood.

The murder weapon was discovered Tuesday by an RCMP tracking dog. It was hidden under a rock across the street from Mrs. Hartman's home.

In other parts of the house police found 10 $20 U.S. gold coins, three $10 U.S. gold coins and three uncashed pension cheques. A $100 savings bond and $2 and $1 bills were also found.

Mrs. Hartman had lived in the home for the past 30 years. She came from the United States after leaving Finland.

Lecturers Released

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Rhodesian authorities released today six of eight detained lecturers of the multi-racial University College here. They left immediately for neighboring Zambia.

First to fly out was Canadian lecturer Gerald Caplan, 28, of Toronto. He was met in Lusaka by an official of the British high commission.

Later British lecturer Christopher Hill, 33, also flew to Lusaka, while four others were escorted to Zambia by car.

Air Pullout Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will pull out its six air force reconnaissance squadrons now based in France beginning this month, the defence department said today.

Door Remains Open For Medicare Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today it is up to the provinces to decide whether they want federal money for medical care insurance plans.

"If the provinces don't want to participate, that is entirely up to the provinces," he told a press conference in the wake of criticism of the federal medicare offer at a Toronto conference of provincial premiers.

However, he said if the provinces want further discussion with Ottawa on the federal offer they can raise the medicare issue in the fall. If a health ministers' conference was requested, the federal government would consider the request.

Mr. Pearson said details of the federal proposals, including the conditions attached to federal payments to provincial medical care programs, have been well known to the provinces for a long time.

OTTAWA PAYS HALF

The federal legislation was introduced before Parliament adjourned for a summer recess. It provides for Ottawa to pay half the per-capita costs of provincial plans which meet certain conditions.

At the premiers' conference this week, Quebec and Ontario took the stand that they should have the federal money without strings attached. Alberta reaffirmed initial objections to features of the federal offer which,

PM SURPRISED AT LEAK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today provincial premiers disclosed confidential information this week in making public details of federal proposals on tax equalization.

He said he was "very surprised indeed to see so much publicity" given to matters still in the negotiation stage.

It was not easy to carry on negotiations amid premature publicity.

Bennett May Attend Conference

Premier Bennett today said B.C. will send a representative to a proposed federal-provincial medicare conference this fall although it is not worried about its medical plan.

Interviewed by telephone in Kelowna, Mr. Bennett said he might attend the conference himself if it is held conveniently close to a series of annual federal-provincial fiscal meetings he will be at in Ottawa during October.

The premier made no comment on the criticism of the federal plan for a national medicare scheme that was voiced earlier this week by other provincial premiers, leading to the decision to hold a conference.

He did say, however, that "they certainly have conferencitis in Ottawa.

WE'LL CO-OPERATE

"However, B.C. is a great province for co-operative federalism and we will co-operate as we've said right along we would on medicare.

"Certainly we would like to have some of the money back that Ottawa takes in taxes from B.C., but we think that we have the best medical care plan in Canada."

Mr. Bennett reiterated his claim that 90 per cent of the province's population is covered by a variety of non-profit medical insurance plans with the government's own subsidized open-to-all-comers medicare scheme taking care of those who can't qualify or afford the regular plans.

"We're not nervous about the situation at all but we will send someone to represent the province at the conference," he added.

Union Seeks to End Wildcat Rail Walkout

TORONTO (CP)—Railway express and freight services between here and Montreal were affected today by the strike of an estimated 1,000 workers in Toronto and 1,800 in Montreal.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman said about 700 employees of Canadian Pacific Express Co., its subsidiary, walked off the job today and overnight.

He said about 600 walked off in Montreal.

A Canadian National Railways spokesman said some 300 of its employees were out in Toronto and 1,200 in Montreal.

The strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (CLC), said they were "fed up" waiting for a conciliation board report on their 97-cents-an-hour wage increase demands in a new contract. The old contract expired in December.

The brotherhood has dissociated itself from the strike. A union spokesman here said he had no idea how many men were on strike.

Union officers are trying to persuade the men involved to return to their jobs until legal strike action can be taken by railway unions later this month.

CLIMBERS PLAY BRIDGE ON SUMMIT

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A 10-man American team has completed the first successful climb of the west ridge of Mount Logan, Canada's highest peak at 19,850 feet, it was reported here Tuesday.

Mount Logan, 190 miles west of Whitehorse and 260 miles northwest of Juneau in the extreme southwest corner of the Yukon Territory, had been climbed 10 times before the successful west ridge assault July 17, but always by other routes.

One of the first acts of the west ridge team when the climb had been completed was to sit down on the summit and play a hand of bridge.

The 10 men, led by Boyd Everett, a New York security analyst and well-known mountaineer, were the largest group ever to reach the summit.

Government Trying To Halt Work Stoppage

Top labor department officials gathered in Vancouver today, storm centre of a contractors-carpenters dispute which threatens to shut down $1.5 billion worth of construction in B.C.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was reported driving to Vancouver from Kelowna where he participated in the Social Credit Party's 14th anniversary of election to power.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands had already left the Legislative Buildings office here and gone to the Vancouver office where he was reported incommunicado.

Government officials have less than 24 hours to head off the first effect sof an industry-wide lockout which technically began at quitting time today.

151 COMPANIES

A total of 151 companies have served expired lockout notice and another 178 contractors were posting lockout notice running out Thursday and Friday.

An industry spokesman said by the weekend there will be a "total shutdown of the construction industry" except the huge Peace and Columbia projects where no lockout-no strike agreements are in effect.

Lockout notice was served, he said, because carpenters struck several projects Monday.

Last week, the Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee warned that a strike against even one member would result in a lockout by all.

3,000 AFFECTED

About 3,000 carpenters will be affected Thursday by the lockout of 151 companies. If the lockout becomes complete, doors will be closed to just over 5,000 men.

Key issue in the contract crisis is the insistence by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters for a shorter work week.

The union and 85 independent contractors have already signed new two-year agreements providing a 37½-hour work week by October, 1967.

Major contractors, however,

WIRE BRIEFS

Arbitration Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rejected a last-resort compulsory arbitration plan today and struggled for a way for Congress and the president to share responsibility for ordering an end to the 27-day-old airlines strike.

Ironsi Executed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow radio said today former Nigerian leader Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi has been executed by soldiers near Ibadan.

Japanese Rocket

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese scientists today successfully launched Japan's first television-equipped rocket. The Tokyo University space and aeronautics institute said the 1.4 ton rocket carried a 22-pound TV camera to an altitude of about 200 miles.

Criminal Negligence

HULL, Que. (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday found a 15-year-old boy criminally negligent in the beating death of 18-month-old Cathy Dunnigan of nearby Lucerne. The boy, now undergoing psychiatric examination in a Montreal hospital, has been charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Soviet Admits Failure In China Friendship Bid

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Kosygin today accused China of doing "great service to American imperialism by attacking the Soviet leadership."

Kosygin said Kremlin efforts in recent months to improve relations with the Soviet Union's giant Asian neighbor have proved fruitless.

Kosygin said the Chinese leaders and the Chinese press recently began even more violent attacks on the Soviet Union.

In these attacks China completely distorted the truth about the Soviet Union and its foreign policy, he added.

He said recent Chinese propaganda was turned more on the Kremlin than on imperialism, "thus doing a great service to American imperialism."

Kosygin said Russia would continue to try to improve relations with China.

An improvement in relations also would be in the interests of the Chinese people, he said.

Turning to Viet Nam, Kosygin assured the North Vietnamese of the Soviet Union's constant and unwavering support for "the repulsion of American aggression."

"The Soviet Union will do all in its power to help the Vietnamese people to drive the Americans off Vietnamese soil as soon as possible," he said.

Kosygin declared that Soviet-American relations were completely overshadowed by "aggressiveness" now apparent in Washington.

Some years ago, he said, "there was a glimmer of a realistic approach to international affairs in high circles in Washington."

But today, he said, there was more and more a tone of aggression and military force coming from the United States.

Only Three Days Left in Contest

One more chance!

There are only a few days left to enter the Times Photo Contest for a chance at a trip around the world, or to Mexico, Hawaii or the West Indies, and $50,000 in other prizes.

Winners of the fifth weekly contest are:

Animals of the World — 1. Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, 2949 Glen Lake Rd.; honorable mention, W. A. Coombs, 2426 Evelyn Place, and E. R. Pedersen, 2641 East 46th Ave., Vancouver.

The World in Which We Live — 1. D. W. Coton, 3922 Holland Ave.; honorable mention, Maurice Bombezin, 1310 Prillaman Ave., and Mrs. James Barr, 965 Trans Canada Highway.

In each category the first place winner gets a chance at a $25 grand prize when the contest closes.

NATIONAL CONTEST

Winners of this will go on to be entered in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest when prizes will be fabulous cash and travel awards.

What makes a winning picture? Photographers whose snapshots have been chosen for first place or honorable mention know what goes to make up a good photo.

If you take a look at the first and second place photos printed daily in The Times, you'll get some idea of what it is the judges are looking for.

Here are a few other rules to go by:

A picture should have impact, good technical quality and show good composition.

The subject matter should be of universal appeal, and the photo should tell a story or convey a mood.

Keep the snap simple. Don't let your background distract from the main object.

The photo should be sharp and in focus, and you should take care to use the proper film and correct exposure for the conditions.

All photos should have your name and address printed on the back, and should be sent to the Photo Contest Editor, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

The contest closes at noon Saturday.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—A magazine article quoting John Lennon of the Beatles as saying his group is more popular than Jesus has ignited a "ban the Beatles records" campaign by Birmingham radio station WAQY.

Station manager Tommy Charles said Tuesday the Beatles were his No. 1 attraction before he read the article in Datebook.

The article quotes Maureen Cleave of the London Evening Standard as quoting Lennon as saying:

"Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink. I needn't argue about that; I'm right and I will be proved right. We're (the Beatles) more popular than Jesus now; I don't know which will go first—rock 'n' roll or Christianity. Jesus was all right, but his disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it ruins it for me."

Commenting on Lennon's statement, Charles said: "We just felt it was so absurd and sacrilegious that something ought to be done to show them they cannot get away with this sort of thing."

The Birmingham disc jockey said more than 99 per cent of the calls regarding this campaign support it.

"Almost unbelievably the teen-agers, almost as soon as they were sure it was true (the quotes), became really angry, some to the point of tears," Charles said. "All sorts of record and book stores have called saying they are taking their Beatle records and books off the market."

WAQY is broadcasting spot announcements every hour telling the audience to turn in their Beatle records, pictures, magazines and souvenirs to designated pickup spots.

"We'll have a giant Beatle bonfire the night they are closest to Birmingham on their next American tour, probably when they are in Memphis later this month," Charles said.

NOTTINGHAM, England — Factory worker Stanley King Monday was put on a year's probation and ordered to pay $83.55 for windows he broke in the police station here with a hammer. King was quoted as telling police: "Too many thieves are getting away with stealing. I thought I might just as well register my protest."

HAMILTON—Topless and see-through fashions are degrading, a young and shapely blonde from Toronto said here. She wore only a wrist watch, herself.

"Women who wear such revealing fashions that just show a bit are just exploiting sex or merely attempting to be the centre of attention," she said.

The blonde was one of 1,500 nudists from Canada and the United States who attended a weekend convention of the Eastern Sunbathing Association at Ponderosa Nature Park.

"Nudists have no respect for such exhibitionists," she added.

The nudists are also disturbed over magazines that sell sex under the guise of nudism.

"This gives people a distorted view of nudism and its purposes," one woman said.

"It's a shame because nudism is a wonderful experience."

LOS ANGELES — The passing motorist said, "That's too bad, I don't swim," and drove off, refusing to try to pull 4-year-old Francois Miller from the bottom of the swimming pool where he lay unconscious.

The youngster was battling for his life today at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre and the doctors said he was in "very critical condition."

Baby-sitter Carletta Bradford, 16, pleaded with the unidentified motorst Tuesday to help save the lad, but he refused. She then called police and officers Michael Webber and Gary Brink pulled the boy out of the pool and revived him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Defence Chief Visits Halifax

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. Jean V. Allard, new chief of the defence staff, is paying his first visit to Maritime Command this week.

He was invited to visit the command immediately after the firing of Rear-Admiral William Landymore by Defence Minister Hellyer in a dispute over the minister's plans to go ahead with unification of the armed forces.

His visit is regarded as preparation for the planned tour of Maritime Command by Mr. Hellyer later this month.

One possible reason for Gen. Allard's visit may be to discuss unification plans with Rear-Admiral J. C. O'Brien, who succeeded Rear - Admiral Landymore as commander of Maritime Command and of the Atlantic fleet.

The plans have been discussed during the last two weeks by the defence council, top policy advisory body at Canadian Forces Headquarters.

He has said unification would mean no greater economy or efficiency than having three services.

Informants said Mr. Hellyer will place a detailed unification plan before Parliament with the unification legislation, and recommend study by the Commons defence committee.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain fell along the north coast and scattered showers were reported from interior points Tuesday night whereas southern regions of the province maintained clear skies.

The southwest flow of Pacific air now spreading unsettled weather over northern B.C. will bring a fresh surge of moist air to the coast and send bands of cloud over the south coast tonight and Thursday morning but will do little else to change the present weather pattern over the province.

it says, would involve compulsion.

Manitoba called for rewriting the federal offer and Prince Edward Island argued medicare would be too costly at this time. Nova Scotia wants a federal-provincial conference on it.

Mr. Pearson said he knows of no changes in the federal legislation that will be required as a result of the Toronto premiers' meeting.

NO DEADLINE

The prime minister said it is incorrect to say Ottawa is setting a deadline of July 1, 1967, for provincial acceptance of the federal offer. The federal legislation would be in force by that date. Provinces could come in after that date if they wanted to.

He declined to say whether the federal government might agree to delay the date, adding that the legislation embodying it still is before Parliament.

If the provinces wanted to discuss the matter, there would be a federal-provincial conference this fall at which they could raise it. There could be nothing final about the date until Parliament approved the bill.

He said the federal government's schedule, which calls for Parliament to resume discussion of the medicare bill this fall, has not been affected by the premiers' conference.

Parliament is scheduled to resume Oct. 5 but may be called into session earlier if non-operating railway employees call a strike.

have refused to discuss a reduction in the present 40-hour week.

Carpenters say a shorter work week is necessary to spread jobs in the face of growing mechanization.

Contractors reply that this is impractical when all other tradesmen at present have a 40-hour week. Either the other tradesmen will have to go home half an hour early each day, or the carpenters paid overtime for the last half hour.

30 PER CENT HIKE?

The industry spokesman said the reduced work week would increase the price of an average home by 30 per cent.

This was disputed by a carpenter spokesman who said half an hour off eight hours is 1-16, so costs could only go up by 1-16 or about six per cent.

Major contractors also want an end to the union hall hiring system, where the contractor calls the union office for carpenters.

On wages, the major companies had offered 45 cents over three years.

Settlements reached with the independent contractors provide for a 40-cent raise over two years on the basic $3.49.

Arthur Mayse

Down in our wild acre, a few Douglas fir stumps serve to remind us of the great evergreen forest that once clothed the Vancouver Island coastal plain. But each year these grow harder to search out, masked as they are by the crowding second growth.

This, except for a scattering of young Christmas trees and wry-trunked arbutus, is deciduous. Mostly, it is a wild tangle of Pacific willow, snowberry and wiry ocean spray, laced in its lower courses with blackberry and higher up with honeysuckle.

Broadleaf maple clumps thrust above the general surge. Alders, some of them very old, help anchor the sea-slope with their roots; and lost in the smother are half a dozen medicine-trees.

These are cascaras. Their leaves, dark green on top, a paler shade beneath, are boat-shaped and strongly veined. The bark on the slender, crooked branches is the grey of an elephant's hide. It was for this bark that Rhanus purshiana was once hunted to the point where naturalists feared for its survival.

Shucked off, dried, and processed by drug manufacturers, the bark yielded Cascara Segrada, a laxitive of considerable authority.

Modern synthetics have gone a long way toward pushing cascara off the market, and when used, it is generally but one ingredient of a less bowel-taxing potion. It is also expensive—chiefly because of the wholesale cutting of earlier years.

When I was a boy in Nanaimo with a nicked jack-knife and a lack of money to buy fishing gear, the generous cascara tree was good for a summer dollar. We dried the bark in the sun and peddled the sacked shards to an eagle-eyed buyer who could ferret out make-weight peelings of alder at a glance.

However, the serious drain came with the depression of the 'thirties. In those grim years, many a jobless family turned to the woods for at least a partial living.

They sold fir seed-cones to B.C. forest service when they could. But their mainstay was the cascara, whether as a 20-to-30-foot loner in the bottomlands and logging burns, or when luck was kind, a few trees together.

They would peel the trunk and main limbs for as high as they could reach and their kids scramble. Behind them, when they pulled out with their payload, they left a girdled grove. For years afterward, bleaching tree-skeletons bore witness that the cascara hunters had struck and passed.

I will not blame them, for those were hungry times. Later, when the Second World War added military hospital needs to the civilian demand, cascara bark sold for 20 cents a pound, and a skilled stripper could make as much as $40 a day.

So severe was the onslaught that, to save the cascara, the provincial government was forced to regulate the harvest by rules which strengthened, remain in effect.

Some gathering is still done. I do not expect, though, to see as once I did, a family of cascara hunters emerge from the alder swamp that bordered an up-Island trout creek.

They were coming out from their camp deep in the burn for supplies. Months of living wild had left their mark; father, mother and daughter were ragged and very brown. They were also wary; the man approached alone and hesitantly to ask if I could spare a rolling of tobacco.

I wasn't carrying any that fire-season, but offered snoose, a logger's delight compounded of snuff and supercharged spices. Mother and daughter joined us. All three dipped from the little round can; tucked the "rare" between teeth and upper lip, and settled down to enjoy it.

We talked sparingly between silences punctuated by an occasional spitting of rich black juice. Then the bark people waded the creek, to vanish with the easy grace of wild creatures in the bordering woods.

Naval Lab's Builder Hangs Up Microscope

By TERRY IZZARD

From two wooden huts back in 1948, the Pacific Naval Laboratory at HMC Dockyard has mushroomed into a modern scientific complex.

While the demand for knowledge was one of the factors behind the building's expansion, one man, more than any other, has been responsible for its present position of high standing.

That man is Dr. Frank. H. Sanders, an affable scientist, dedicated to his work.

After nursing his baby through the teething stages and the difficult years of adolescence, the 59-year-old Victorian retired this week.

An honors physics graduate of UBC in 1928, he was appointed the naval laboratory's first superintendent 20 years later, with a staff of six.

Meanwhile, he had obtained his Ph.D. at the University of California, worked for the National Research Council and headed the Microwave Research Laboratory.

After enlarging the naval research lab from two to seven buildings, he had to leave in 1953 when he was appointed scientific adviser to the chief of naval staff in Ottawa.

But in 1959 he was back at the lab, this time as chief superintendent, with a staff of 100.

For the next year he will travel through Europe and indulge locally in his favorite sport of fishing.

School District Assistant Named Today

Education Department today announced appointment of A. J. Longmore as assistant district superintendent for the Greater Victoria School District.

Mr. Longmore, who was recommended to the department by the school board, has been superintendent for the Vanderhoof and Burns Lake school districts.

He succeeds Joseph Chell who was elevated to full superintendent of the school district here to replace John Gough who retired.

Mr. Longmore, a native of Kamloops, is 41. He is a graduate of University of B.C. and has done post-graduate work at the University of Alberta.

He taught in several parts of B.C., culminating with the principal's position at Summerland Secondary School from 1959 until he entered the Department of Education in 1962 as curriculum consultant. He became a district superintendent in 1963.

PADDLES WHIP SATURDAY

B.C. RIVERMEN CHALLENGE NATION

They'll leave Fort St. James Saturday.

They should arrive here Monday, Aug. 15, if they beat the twisting, tortuous, rapid-wracked course.

That's their worst opponent—a cold, rugged antagonist known to claim the unwary, without conscience or hesitation.

The other challenge to the B.C. paddlers is the stiff competition from nine other six-man canoes.

The 10 teams represent eight provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Each team is drawn from river-wise boatmen. Each team has its hopes pinned on capturing the British Columbia centennial trophy that awaits the victors here.

Their 26-foot canoes, modelled after the pack canoes of the doughty fur traders of pioneer New Caledonia, are frail as egg shells. The river and the straits are filled with hidden hazards. The contest is expected to provide thrills and tension unequalled since the strait swims of the 1950s.

The B.C. team, six paddlers and two spares, includes Roy Jackson, Herb Silveres, Harvey Fraser, Dick Hart, Harry Schwartz, Costo Bush, Hern Brade and Dave Hentges.

Their 10-day endurance test will be a major trial for an even more exhausting event in 1967, a national centennial race from Rocky Mountain House to Montreal in a 100-day ordeal.

The Fraser contest is planned to provide riverside spectators the maximum in spectator enjoyment.

The contestants will dress as voyageurs. They'll carry equipment for camping on the riverbanks each night. They'll travel in flotilla on starting each day, then, gathering at an assembly area, they'll "sprint" the last few miles before each major riverside town.

A point system will determine the winner on a 10-day basis.

Only at one point will the canoes be portaged—between Quesnel and Yale by highway—to avoid Hell's Gate dangers.

They'll arrive at Vancouver August 12 and at 7 a.m. the next day, attempt the crossing of the straits to Vancouver Island.

They hope to arrive at Galiano Island's Montague Harbor via Porlier Pass at 4 p.m. At noon on the 14th, they should glide into Sidney.

They'll leave Sidney at 2 p.m. August 15 and assemble in Gonzales Bay for the final sprint race to Victoria's Inner Harbor, arriving at about 8 p.m.

It sounds easy—but the straits crossing is through waters of historic treachery and the sponsors, Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of British Columbia, is keeping its collective fingers crossed.

Strong men, frail canoe pitted against untamed Fraser.

PAIR PLANS TO CIRCLE ISLAND

Two men plan to circumnavigate Vancouver Island in a 19-foot outboard boat, following the route taken by Capt. George Vancouver 174 years ago.

Harold Merilees and Art Sacht plan to take Merilees' boat the Stout Fella, powered by a 100 horsepower outboard motor, on the 700-mile trip as their personal B.C. Centennial project.

Merilees, 58, manager of the Vancouver Visitors' Bureau, leaves there Aug. 18 and will pick up Sacht, a Sayward logger, in Kelsey Bay Aug. 20.

Merilees said the boat travels at 25 knots. They plan to make the trip in two weeks, if the weather holds. He said they will shelter in bays during the night and during bad storms.

Gorge Road Widening Proceeding

A $236,000 road widening and reconstruction project on the Gorge Road in Saanich should be completed in September, municipal engineer Neville Life said today.

Work is starting this week on curbing and sidewalks, and drains are going ahead between Harriet and Tillicum.

The road will be widened to four lanes to match the four lanes on the city side. Curbs and gutters will be installed on both sides and the ditches replaced by drains.

Bulk of the cost is being met by Saanich and the provincial highways department. Local improvement share is $40,260.

The road won't be widened to four lanes beyond Tillicum, said Mr. Life, because the heavy traffic is nearer town.

Fire Hazard Diverts Army

Eighty British territorial soldiers, who were to have taken part in excercises in the Sooke area next week, will now be switched to the Chilcotin area of B.C., due to the forst fire hazard here.

Members of the special air service, group, they will be flown to Prince George instead of Pat Bay.

There, they will join up with members of the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles, Victoria, with whom they will be exercising.

More Trouble To Delay Weathership

The weathership Vancouver will sail one month late as result of a fault discovered in one of its six generators at Esquimalt Tuesday.

The fault caused the generator's main shaft to snap.

While repair of the shaft will not take too long, the department of transport has insisted the generators' manufacturers check all the equipment.

This will entail the lengthy operation of stripping down and closely examining each of the generators.

The $12 million vessel, which was to have taken up position on weather station Papa in November, will likely not sail until December.

SECOND DELAY

This is the second set-back during the ship's construction.

While being built at Burrard Dry Dock Co., it was discovered that extra oceanographic and scientific equipment on the top decks would make the ship top heavy.

To offset this, concrete had to be poured in some of the ship's holds at considerable cost.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined on charges of careless driving when they appeared in traffic court today were:

John Boyd, 6310 Rudolph, $35; and Charles Stott, 2660 Mt. Stephen, $35.

Park Hoodlums Police Target

Jeering Ruffians Bully Old People

Teenage bullies who for the past few weeks have been terrorizing elderly people on the Dallas Road waterfront can look for trouble themselves in future.

At the request of Mayor A. W. Toone police patrols of the area have been stepped up in an attempt to nab the group specializing in threats to senior citizens.

"I don't know what kind of youngsters they are, but they like to bully elderly people," Mayor Toone said this morning.

"They always choose their spot carefully making sure that before the people they are bullying can get to a telephone they have time to get away."

The methods used are always the same.

A group of jeering ruffians block a path and dare the elderly couple to do something about it.

ROCKS THROWN

When threatened with a call to the police the jeers increase and the bully-boys jostle the man and the woman.

On occasion, after letting the old couple pass, the youths throw rocks at the retreating figures.

It was quite alarming to me to think that elderly people couldn't take a stroll along the waterfront without being subject to this sort of thing," Mayor Toone said.

His reaction to the complaints was swift.

Equally swift was city police response.

Within a few hours of complaints being received the order went out to step-up motor and foot patrols in the area.

PATROLS INCREASED

"We increased our patrols immediately after receiving the complaints," Chief J. F. Gregory said. "They will remain at extra strength."

Mayor Toone said that so far the youths had confined their activities of the hazing of the elderly.

"We did receive one complaint that youths were also damaging park benches," the mayor said. "This was checked and found to be true — but of far more importance is the stamping out of this bullying."

Juvenile officers in the city urged citizens suffering the pushing around to telephone the police as soon as possible.

"Unfortunately," one officer said, "elderly people tend to leave complaints for several hours. They get pushed around and abused verbally, go home steaming and then, over a cup of tea, decide to telephone the police. There isn't much we can do then.

"If they phone right away we can get a patrol car in the area immediately and can usually locate the trouble makers."

Another officer said the recent outbreak was not new.

"We had similar trouble last year," he said. "Fortunately one of the men being bullied grabbed one of the youth's haversacks and from that we were able to round up the three chief trouble makers."

The officer also advised those under verbal or pushing attack to take careful note of the clothes worn by the bullies and of their general features.

"A good description of these young thugs would help us immeasurably," he said.

Shingle Industry In Distress

Widespread layoffs and shutdowns in the cedar shake and shingle industry were predicted today by manufacturer Hershell A. Smith.

The president of Smith Cedar Products Ltd., Mr. Smith concurred with a report from the Consolidated Red Cedar Shingle Association of B.C. predicting permanent closure of some mills.

A tight American money market and costly recommended wage settlement in the forest industry are given as reasons for the grim outlook.

Although only a small part of the total forest production shingle making is the oldest B.C. industry and provides jobs for an average 1,800 persons.

He said 90 per cent of Canadian red cedar shingle and shake production goes to the U.S.

"But if they don't build houses they don't need shingles or shakes."

TIGHT MONEY

Mortgage money in the U.S. has virtually disappeared with the result that house construction has folded up in many areas.

The first effect felt here was in the traditionally heavy California and Texas market, which has sagged over the past few months.

A Vancouver mill has been closed for the whole month of July, the first time in 30 years. Another also closed for a month but re-opened this week.

Mr. Smith said he expects to begin curtailing production with layoffs expected in the early fall.

The major producers are already cut back 25 per cent, he said.

Bush producers will shut down completely, Mr. Smith said.

31 Contractors Ready to Close Their Doors

Thirteen Victoria contractors are among the 151 in B.C. whose lockout notice against their carpenters ran out at quitting time today.

The 13 employ just under 200 carpenters, said John Schibli, president of Local 1598 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

Another 18 Victoria contractors are expected to be serving lockout notice at any moment, he said.

The figures don't apply to contractors whose main offices are outside Victoria.

The biggest local contractor serving lockout notice is Farmer Construction which has work on the University of Victoria campus, Royal Athletic Park reconstruction and the new Reynolds Road Secondary School in Saanich.

NAMES LISTED

The other 12 contractors listed by Mr. Schibli are:

Bruce Cooke Building Construction; Earle S. Cross; Dillabough and Luney; H. E. Fowler and Sons; E. J. Hunter; T. Lambie and Son; Luney Brothers and Hamilton; M. P. Paine; Patterson Construction; George Walton; G. H. Wheaton; and Williams, Bray and Williams.

Mr. Schibli said other important work which will be affected by the lockout includes the new Woolworth building at Douglas and View; Oak Bay Secondary School and Claremont Secondary School.

He said seven independent contractors have signed two-year agreements which include a 37½-hour week in October, 1967. But he declined to give their names or to say how many carpenters they employ.

Pearkes Visit

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will pay a return call to newly-appointed Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles at HMC Dockyard Friday.

A fifteen-gun salute will welcome the Lieutenant-Governor.

AN AGONY OF THE MODERN WORLD

Parents' Opinions Mean Nothing in Japan

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Juvenile delingquency is Japan's second greatest problem, says Rev. Robert J. D. Morris, minister of Victoria's First United Church.

From Nakoso, Fukushima, where he is on loan to the Church of Christ in Japan, Mr. Morris writes:

"This problem has many of its roots in the break-down of the line of authority and is part of the agony of adjusting to life in the modern world.

"It is a sharp break with the old Japanese tradition of respect for authority."

Mr. Morris records that a Japanese school principal gave his senior students a questionnaire. One of the questions was "How much does the opinion of your parents matter to you?"

The invariable answer was "not at all."

"This is one of the dilemmas democracy has brought to Japan," says Mr. Morris. "So I have been speaking a good deal on the relationship between freedom and responsibility; what it means to be a person and to respect other persons; and the relationship between freedom and discipline."

The Victoria clergyman records that traffic is Japan's No. 1 problem and it grows more acute every year.

Overcrowding and the lack of housing is another.

"Here we have nearly 100 million people living in an area roughly equivalent to Vancouver Island and feeding themselves on only 16 per cent of the land.

"There are, of course, rice paddy fields everywhere, and one of the problems is that the cities are naturally in the flat places. As they grow more and more valuable land is taken out of farming and put into housing."

Mr. Morris left here six weeks ago to spend two months with the Church of Christ under an evangelism project sponsored by the United Church of Canada and the mission boards of eight U.S. churches.

LOW IS HIGH

"Japan estimates its living standard at about 25 per cent of the U.S. standard, which is their measuring stick; and this is by far the highest standard in the Orient.

"Articles in stores, such as clothing, food and furniture, are not much less than in Victoria. Some things are more. For instance, you pay 70 yen (20 cents) for a small cup of coffee."

Mr. Morris is teaching, with the help of an interpreter, in the coal-mining town of Uchigo and the manufacturing town of Nakoso. Each has about 30,000 people.

"I have been quite thrilled to find in how many ways I can be used, and to find a most warm and friendly response from the Japanese people."

Tokyo has 11 million people — more than half of them under 25.

"At the inn I stayed at there, the maids were graduates of junior high school, age 15, and they were working 16 hours a day, six days a week, for 400 yen (about $1 a day, and their room and board."

Brush Fires Flare

Saanich fire department called in off-duty men this afternoon to help fight persistent grass and brush fires.

Four men were called in to supplement the regular 12-man duty crew.

The worst fire was located on Christmas Street hill in the Lake Hill district.

Other fires were burning in bush areas near 3400-block Mayfair and in the 700-block Latoria in Langford.

At the same time city firemen were called to fight a house fire at 45 South Turner. It was quickly extinguished and damage was small.

It was believed started by sparks from an outdoor incinerator.

Dense clouds of smoke from the Christmas Hill fire impeded traffic on Quadra.

FINAL ★★★★ BULLETINS

Blizzard Forces Ski Meet Shakeup

PORTILLO, Chile (AP)—A blizzard has forced a rescheduling of events in the world alpine skiing championships which open Saturday.

About a foot of snow fell on the courses Tuesday, postponed training and forced the coaches to shift the dates of the ladies' slalom and downhill.

Girl, 12, Safe After Abduction

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Police said a 12-year-old girl was found apparently unharmed today after being held for 15 hours by a beer-drinking abductor.

Sheriff's deputies found Betty Farrell huddled for warmth on the steps of an abandoned country store, about five miles south of here and two miles from her rural home.

Trains Collide, Fuel Car Explodes

VANDERHOOF (CP)—A fuel car exploded and burned today as two Canadian National Railways work trains collided two miles east of Vanderhoof in north-central B.C.

One train with eight cars slammed into a standing train consisting of a caboose, a crane-car, the fuel car and a gondola.

Hate Literature Curbs Coming

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation to control hate literature will go before Parliament this fall or early in 1967, Prime Minister Pearson said today.

He told a press conference he was uncertain whether a bill could be squeezed into the fall session, already tightly scheduled with major legislation.

Burglar Hits Chateau Laurier

OTTAWA (CP)—A burglar broke into the main safe at the Chateau Laurier and made off with $15,000 in cash and $6,000 in non-negotiable cheques, the hotel reported today. The safe-cracker gott hrough two locked doors without leaving marks, then drilled the combination dial to unlock the safe.

Riot Act Read In Ontario Town

Tobacco Workers Cause Trouble

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—The Riot Act was read here today by Mayor A. M. Sayeau when 225 jobless tobacco workers entered the town, 25 miles southwest of Brantford, demanding better accommodation and threatening to steal food.

The transient workers, mostly from Quebec, the Maritime provinces and northern Ontario, are housed in a camp near here until the expected opening of the tobacco harvesting season Aug. 8.

Ten workers were arrested during the demonstration.

Charges of causing a disturbance and unlawful assembly are pending against the 10, police said.

Police Chief C. R. Johnson said the mayor read the Riot Act as the crowd entered the limits of this town of 3,500.

FEW DIDN'T LEAVE

"When the act was read, most dispersed and returned to the camp," Chief Johnson said. "There were a few exceptions who did not leave. They were arrested."

Chief Johnson said nobody was injured and there was no damage during the demonstration.

Under the Criminal Code, the Riot Act may be read when 12 or more persons unlawfully and riotously assemble. They are liable to life imprisonment if they do not peaceably disperse within 30 minutes after the reading.

The workers' tent camp of more than 500 is about a mile from the town. It is operated by a citizens' group as a temporary shelter for transient workers until they are placed on tobacco farms.

The workers claimed Monday they would be forced to steal unless camp food improves.

GET TWO MEALS

They get sandwiches and coffee at two daily meals. Monday each worker received an egg in addition to his four sandwishes.

Rev. William Carnes, of Tillsonburg, a member of the committee that operates the camp, said there isn't enough money to do a proper job.

The chief said the town isn't responsible for providing food and lodging for the workers.

"There appears to be some misunderstanding on the part of the workers who thought they would be provided with food, lodging and work upon their arrival here."

He said no demands of the demonstrators were met and no promises made to them.

Mr. Carnes said the workers had appeared to be fairly well behaved and the only incident before Wednesday's demonstration was Monday night when two camp toilets were torn down for firewood.

At that time, the workers said a camp supervisor failed to provide them with enough firewood to keep fires burning overnight. The bonfires are the only source of heat in the camp.

Government Trying To Halt Work Stoppage

Top labor department officials gathered in Vancouver today, storm centre of a contractors-carpenters dispute which threatens to shut down $1.5 billion worth of construction in B.C.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was reported driving to Vancouver from Kelowna where he participated in the Social Credit Party's 14th anniversary of election to power.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands had already left the Legislative Buildings office here and gone to the Vancouver office where he was reported incommunicado.

Government officials have less than 24 hours to head off the first effects of an industry-wide lockout which technically began at quitting time today.

151 COMPANIES

A total of 151 companies have served expired lockout notice and another 178 contractors were posting lockout notice running out Thursday and Friday.

An industry spokesman said by the weekend there will be a "total shutdown of the construction industry" except the huge Peace and Columbia projects where no lockout-no strike agreements are in effect.

Lockout notice was served, he said, because carpenters struck several projects Monday.

Last week, the Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee warned that a strike against even one member would result in a lockout by all.

3,000 AFFECTED

About 3,000 carpenters will be affected Thursday by the lockout of 151 companies. If the lockout becomes complete, doors will be closed to just over 5,000 men.

Key issue in the contract crisis is the insistence by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters for a shorter work week.

The union and 85 independent contractors have already signed new two-year agreements providing a 37½-hour work week by October, 1967.

Major contractors, however,

Canada to Seek More Frenchmen

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Marchand announced plans today to boost immigration to Canada from France.

The minister told a press conference his department has no specific target or detailed scheme yet worked out but one idea that's being given priority is a survey of Canadians—particularly in "French Canada"—to find out why many French immigrants "don't feel at home in Canada."

He said Canada gained about 5,000 immigrants from France in 1965—only half of them French nationals—and immigration from France this year is running 50 per cent ahead of where it was at this point last year.

Canada needed a "better balance in immigration as far as languages are concerned."

VISITED FRANCE

The minister made a four-day visit to France last week. He questioned officials during his visit on the reasons for the low immigration from France. There was a suggestion that Frenchmen were probably more reluctant than other nationals to leave home.

He was also unsure that French immigrants, as well as other immigrants, were as well received by French Canadians as by other Canadians. This was the reason for the survey.

Despite the upsurge in French immigration — immigrants from Belgium, many of them French-speaking, are running 100 per cent ahead of last year—Canada's need for skilled French-language immigrants remained high.

France appeared to have a surplus of technicians, and professional groups there told him many engineers were unemployed.

Mr. Marchand stressed that his department didn't want "a policy that will follow linguistic lines." In the case of France, Canada had not drawn a proportionate flow of immigrants compared with the 40,000 or so that come from the United Kingdom annually.

AGREEMENT REACHED IN HOSPITAL STRIKE

MONTREAL (CP)—Agreement was reached early today in Quebec's hospital strike between hospital administrator Yves Pratte and union representatives, a spokesman for the National Federation of Services said.

The spokesman said the 32,500 striking non-medical workers will be asked to vote today on a new work contract. The union said it will recommend that the hospital workers accept the agreement.

If two-thirds of the union members approve the contract, work will resume in Quebec's 119 strike-hit hospitals, the spokesman said.

Union Seeks to End Wildcat Rail Walkout

TORONTO (CP)—Railway express and freight services between here and Montreal were affected today by the strike of an estimated 1,000 workers in Toronto and 1,800 in Montreal.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman said about 700 employees of Canadian Pacific Express Co., its subsidiary, walked off the job today and overnight.

He said about 600 walked off in Montreal.

A Canadian National Railways spokesman said some 300 of its employees were out in Toronto and 1,200 in Montreal.

The strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (CLC), said they were "fed up" waiting for a conciliation board report on their 97-cents-an-hour wage increase demands in a new contract. The old contract expired in December.

The brotherhood has dissociated itself from the strike. A union spokesman here said he had no idea how many men were on strike.

Union officers are trying to persuade the men involved to return to their jobs until legal strike action can be taken by railway unions later this month.

FEDERAL CABINET today commuted the death sentence of Roger Allan Fulton, 25, after hearing "important medical evidence." Fulton shot a trust company official during a robbery in Vancouver and was sentenced to be hanged next Tuesday.

Door Remains Open For Medicare Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today it is up to the provinces to decide whether they want federal money for medical care insurance plans.

"If the provinces don't want to participate, that is entirely up to the provinces," he told a press conference in the wake of criticism of the federal medicare offer at a Toronto conference of provincial premiers.

However, he said if the provinces want further discussion with Ottawa on the federal offer they can raise the medicare issue in the fall. If a health ministers' conference was requested, the federal government would consider the request.

Mr. Pearson said details of the federal proposals, including the conditions attached to federal payments to provincial medical care programs, have been well known to the provinces for a long time.

OTTAWA PAYS HALF

The federal legislation was introduced before Parliament adjourned for a summer recess. It provides for Ottawa to pay half the per capita costs of provincial plans which meet certain conditions.

At the premiers' conference this week, Quebec and Ontario took the stand that they should have the federal money without strings attached. Alberta reaffirmed initial objections to features of the federal offer which,

BOY, 14 SLAYING SUSPECT

A 14-year-old boy was to appear in Nanaimo juvenile court this afternoon in connection with the bludgeon slaying last week of Mrs. Elina Harman, 82, of nearby Chase River.

The boy, who lives in Chase River, was brought to the RCMP by his father late Tuesday night at police request.

Police said it was a "matter of elimination" that led to the youth's arrest although a palm print was found on the door of the home of the elderly recluse.

The Nanaimo prosecutor and RCMP were to decide this morning which charge would be laid against the boy.

Mrs. Hartman's body was found Saturday afternoon by a neighbor in the kitchen of her 13th Street home.

A total of $7,240 in cash which was in a plastic bag tied around her neck was untouched.

KILLER PANICKED

Police said robbery was definitely the motive for the attack, but the killer panicked and ran after beating the old woman with a piece of firewood.

The murder weapon was discovered Tuesday by an RCMP tracking dog. It was hidden under a rock across the street from Mrs. Hartman's home.

In other parts of the house police found 10 $20 U.S. gold coins, three $10 U.S. gold coins, and three uncashed pension cheques. A $100 savings bond and $2 and $1 bills were also found.

Mrs. Hartman had lived in the home for the past 30 years. She came from the United States after leaving Finland.

Bennett May Attend Conference

Premier Bennett today said B.C. will send a representative to a proposed federal-provincial medicare conference this fall although it is not worried about its medical plan.

Interviewed by telephone in Kelowna, Mr. Bennett said he might attend the conference himself if it is held conveniently close to a series of annual federal-provincial fiscal meetings he will be at in Ottawa during October.

The premier made no comment on the criticism of the federal plan for a national medicare scheme that was voiced earlier this week by other provincial premiers, leading to the decision to hold a conference.

He did say, however, that "they certainly have conferencitis in Ottawa."

WE'LL CO-OPERATE

"However, B.C. is a great province for co-operative federalism and we will co-operate as we've said right along we would on medicare.

"Certainly we would like to have some of the money back that Ottawa takes in taxes from B.C. but we think that we have

Criminal Negligence

HULL, Que. (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday found a 15-year-old boy criminally negligent in the beating death of 18-month-old Cathy Dunnigan of nearby Lucerne. The boy, now undergoing psychiatric examination in a Montreal hospital, has been charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Soviet Admits Failure In China Friendship Bid

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Kosygin today accused China of doing "great service to American imperialism by attacking the Soviet leadership."

Kosygin said Kremlin efforts in recent months to improve relations with the Soviet Union's giant Asian neighbor have proved fruitless.

Kosygin said the Chinese leaders and the Chinese press recently began even more violent attacks on the Soviet Union.

In these attacks China completely distorted the truth about the Soviet Union and its foreign policy, he added.

He said recent Chinese propaganda was turned more on the Kremlin than on imperialism, "thus doing a great service to American imperialism."

Kosygin said Russia would continue to try to improve relations with China.

An improvement in relations also would be in the interests of the Chinese people, he said.

Turning to Viet Nam, Kosygin assured the North Vietnamese of the Soviet Union's constant and unwavering support for "the repulsion of American aggression."

"The Soviet Union will do all in its power to help the Vietnamese people to drive the Americans off Vietnamese soil as soon as possible," he said.

Kosygin declared that Soviet-American relations were completely overshadowed by "aggressiveness" now apparent in Washington.

Some years ago, he said, "there was a glimmer of a realistic approach to international affairs in high circles in Washington."

But today, he said, there was more and more a tone of aggression and military force coming from the United States.

WINNERS NAMED FOR FIFTH WEEK

Only Three Days Left in Contest

One more chance!

There are only a few days left to enter the Times Photo Contest for a chance at a trip around the world, or to Mexico, Hawaii or the West Indies, and $50,000 in other prizes.

Winners of the fifth weekly contest are:

Animals of the World — 1. Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, 2949 Glen Lake Rd.; honorable mention, W. A. Coombs, 2426 Evelyn Place, and E. R. Pedersen, 2641 East 46th Ave., Vancouver.

The World in Which We Live — 1. D. W. Coton, 3922 Holland Ave.; honorable mention, Maurice Bombezin, 1310 Prillaman Ave., and Mrs. James Barr, 965 Trans Canada Highway.

In each category the first place winner gets a chance at a $25 grand prize when the contest closes.

NATIONAL CONTEST

Winners of this will go on to be entered in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest when prizes will be fabulous cash and travel awards.

What makes a winning picture? Photographers whose snapshots have been chosen for first place or honorable mention know what goes to make up a good photo.

If you take a look at the first and second place photos printed daily in The Times, you'll get some idea of what it is the judges are looking for.

Here are a few other rules to go by:

A picture should have impact, good technical quality and show good composition.

The subject matter should be of universal appeal, and the photo should tell a story or convey a mood.

Keep the snap simple. Don't let your background distract from the main object.

The photo should be sharp and in focus, and you should take care to use the proper film and correct exposure for the conditions.

All photos should have your name and address printed on the back, and should be sent to the Photo Contest Editor, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

The contest closes at noon

the best medical care plan in Canada."

Mr. Bennett reiterated his claim that 90 per cent of the province's population is covered by a variety of non-profit medical insurance plans with the government's own subsidized open-to-all-comers medicare scheme taking care of those who can't qualify or afford the regular plans.

"We're not nervous about the situation at all but we will send someone to represent the province at the conference," he added.

Lecturers Released

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Rhodesian authorities released today six of eight detained lecturers of the multi-racial University College here. They left immediately for neighboring Zambia.

First to fly out was Canadian lecturer Gerald Caplan, 28, of Toronto. He was met in Lusaka by an official of the British high commission.

Later British lecturer Christopher Hill, 33, also flew to Lusaka, while four others were escorted to Zambia by car.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will pull out its six air force reconnaissance squadrons now based in France beginning this month, the defence department said today.

MINISTER DENIES 'SLUR'

CALWELL
. . . concentrating on U.S.

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell said Tuesday the Viet Cong does not want to fight Australian soldiers in Viet Nam and deliberately avoids them.

His statement was denied today by Defence Minister Allen Fairhall. He accused the Labor party leader of casting a slur on the competence of "three fine battalions whose courage, skill and fighting spirit have kept the Viet Cong on the move."

Calwell, who opposes Australian backing of the United States in Viet Nam, told Labor unionists that the Viet Cong has avoided dozens of opportunities of destroying the Australian 1st Battalion with their superior numbers.

In one major battle, the Viet Cong avoided the Australians and concentrated on the Americans, he said.

Calwell did not say why the Viet Cong avoided encounters with Australians but observers said he was suggesting that the Viet Cong felt the Australians did not want to fight them.

Fairhall retorted today: "If Mr. Calwell knew anything about guerrilla tactics he would understand that the Viet Cong avoid open conflict wherever possible, and not only with the Australians."

NEAR BORDER

Troops Braced For Big Fight

SAIGON (AP)—Helicopters ferried heavy United States troop reinforcements into South Viet Nam's central plateau near Cambodia today as three days of fighting against North Vietnamese forces appeared building up into a major battle.

B-52s rained bombs on suspected enemy troops positions and a base camp just one mile from the Cambodian frontier as the reinforcements swelled the American force to 10,000 or more men.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. planes pounded the Haiphong oil depot Tuesday for the third time. North Viet Nam said the Americans also bombed residential areas in the port city and hit a steel plant north of Hanoi Monday.

The reinforcements joined infantrymen who since Monday have fought a series of short, sharp engagements with the North Vietnamese.

CONFIRM STRIKE

Washington first confirmed hitting the oil depot after North Viet Nam charged that U.S. planes made an indiscriminate raid on Haiphong, "bombing residential quarters and factories."

The North Vietnamese said they had demanded an investigation by the International Control Commission, made up of Canada, India and Poland.

Hanoi radio said that six American planes were shot down, although U.S. authorities said none were lost.

Asian Meet Proposed

BANGKOK (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand called today for a new Viet Nam peace conference "this time not in Geneva, but somewhere in Asia, where all the principals in the war in Viet Nam will be invited to thrash out the existing difficulties."

Village Attacked?

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two American F-105 jet aircraft attacked a Cambodian border village while the Indo-China International Control Commission representatives watched from a short distance away, the official Cambodian news agency charged today.

American military and civilian government spokesmen in Saigon today said they were unaware of any U.S. air attack on a Cambodian border village.

CLIMBERS PLAY BRIDGE ON SUMMIT

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A 10-man American team has completed the first successful climb of the west ridge of Mount Logan, Canada's highest peak at 19,850 feet, it was reported here Tuesday.

Mount Logan, 190 miles west of Whitehorse and 260 miles northwest of Juneau in the extreme southwest corner of the Yukon Territory, had been climbed 10 times before the successful west ridge assault July 17, but always by other routes.

One of the first acts of the west ridge team when the climb had been completed was to sit down on the summit and play a hand of bridge.

The 10 men, led by Boyd Everett, a New York security analyst and well-known mountaineer, were the largest group ever to reach the summit.
